Solly's Preferred Creditor.
An Imitation Mussolini.
A Time to Hang on.
Shooting Is Dangerous.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE real BAD NEWS is now out. Uncle Sam is in the position of Solly Wertheim's "preferred creditor." His friend said:

"I am going to fail, and you are a preferred creditor."

"Thank you," said Mr. Wertheim. "How much do I get on the dollar?"

"Nothing."

"Then how am I a preferred creditor?"

"You are a preferred creditor, because you know NOW that you're not going to get anything. The others won't know it for several months."

Uncle Sam knows NOW that he isn't going to get anything. He is an unusual "preferred creditor," because, on top of that information, he is lending more money.

PLANS MAY change, but, at present, plans of the United States in regard to Germany seem to include continuing loans already made, refraining from demanding, or accepting any German war payments, excusing England, France, Italy and other countries from all war payments for one year, thus making it easy for them to help Germany, if they choose.

What they will choose depends on various things, particularly the extent to which financial collapse, or revolution, in Germany might INJURE THEM.

THERE WAS a fair imitation of panic on the Paris stock exchange yesterday, and that sort of thing stimulates action.

French high finance is said to have convinced its government that it is necessary to prevent further disintegration in Germany, just as American high finance convinced this country that it was necessary to do something to avoid loss of billions foolishly lent abroad by American investors.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS print a yarn to the effect that France has demanded the expulsion from Germany of Hitler, a German imitation of Mussolini, leading an imitation Fascist German party. Hitler is alleged to be waiting for this crisis to "throw Germany into my hands" and enable him, leading a combination of German Fascists and Communists, to rescue the fatherland.

Hitler is supposed to be the "great unknown" that will do for Germany what Napoleon did for France, after the revolution.

THE STORY of French hostility to Hitler is well calculated to increase Hitler's popularity and importance in the minds of unintelligent Germans. But as it happens, unintelligent Germans are not numerous. The average German knows that it would take a good deal more than 100 copies of Hitler to make one Hindenburg.

And the German nation, fortunately, has been educated for more than 50 years by the Social-Democratic party. Among other things, they have learned how to think on public questions.

They will come out of this trouble, for they have science, patience and industry. Billions of dollars are not everything.

PRESIDENT HOOVER said America must go to the rescue of Germany and Austria, and stocks went bounding upward. That happened in spite of the fact that the President's message meant that many of our European customers were close to bankruptcy, and many of our billions, sent abroad, might never come back.

Early yesterday, speculators, badly frightened, forced prices down. They began thinking, and prices went part way up again.

THE MAN WHO has made a wise investment is foolish if he lets it go at this time, if he has the power to hold it.

The wise will remember that everything comes back. What goes up comes down, and vice versa. This country hasn't lost anything, except a few billions of dollars, nothing like half as much as one year's United States payroll. And what we have lost is nothing compared with what we made in the war.

It is a good time to remember Goethe's "Money lost, SOMETHING lost * * * honor lost, MUCH lost * * * courage lost, EVERYTHING lost."

AT WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., striking laborers failed to obey police orders to disperse, and one was shot. Police vacations are canceled, reserves are held in station houses, with tear gas bombs and other effective equipment.

If the safety of the police was menaced, the shooting is justified. But it is well to repeat: "SHOOTING SHOULD BE POSTPONED AS LONG AS POSSIBLE."

Millions of men in the United States have been idle and in want since 1929, without resort to violence.

Violence should not come from the side of law, order and prosperity.

AT FRANKFORT-on-the-Main, 160 European watchmakers are showing their wares. There is a sun dial, 3,500 years old, from Egypt, and a modern German watch that clips the seconds into tenths. Germans expect to sell that in the United States, where everybody is in a hurry, especially those that have nothing particular to do, on their way from Newport to Palm Beach.

It is too bad that a nation with ability to create such a

Previously the airdrome authorities had reported them sighted over Linz, Austria, 98 miles from Vienna. The time of their passing over that town was given as 5:25 p. m. (12:25 p. m. Pittsburgh time).

A few minutes after they streaked over the Aspern Airdrome they were reported over Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, only a short distance from their goal.

HUNGARY ENTHUSIASTIC

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 16—(AP.)—The Hungarian fliers, Caps. Alexander Magyar and George Endres, bringing Justice for Hungary across the trans-Atlantic air lanes, were awaited hopefully today by thousands of their countrymen.

By noon 100,000 enthusiastic Hungarians had gathered at the airport and every hour trains rolled in loaded to capacity.

The official welcoming committee, modeling its plans on the American style, has arranged to take the fliers by automobile along the principal streets of Budapest to the city hall. This is an honor which never has been granted before.

RADIO AIDS PLANE

NEW YORK, July 16.—(AP.)—Radio has never before played so helpful a part in long distance flights as on the Atlantic journey of the Justice for Hungary, which was in communication with three ships on its eastward hop from Harbor Grace.

'Big Three' Work Out Plan to Aid Germany

U. S., Britain and France Reach Agreement

PARIS, July 16.—(AP.)—Tentative plans for extending financial assistance to Germany under some form of international supervision were worked out today at a meeting attended by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and representatives of France and Great Britain, it was learned from authentic sources.

The present idea, it is understood, is that the supervision would be by an international committee with prerogatives similar to those of the supervisory committee which operated under the Dawes plan. The whole scheme was presented to the French cabinet this afternoon.

Mr. Stimson, it was said, made it clear to the French and British delegates that the government of the United States could not participate further in German relief, but that his government was will-

Balbo Loses Race To See Dying Father

FERRARE, Italy, July 16.—(AP.)—Italo Balbo, Italian minister of aviation, flew 100 miles an hour to the bedside of his dying father here today, but lost his 250-mile air race with death.

His father, Prof. Camillo Balbo, 75, suddenly became worse this morning and the son was summoned, but arrived an hour after his father died.

Stimson to Attend

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(INS.)—President Hoover today instructed Secretary of State Stimson to represent the United States at the meeting of the heads of the European governments, called for Monday in London to aid Germany. Stimson is now in Paris.

Secretary Andrew W. Mellon may also sit in for the United States, although he had planned to return to America without taking part in any further negotiations.

ARMY PLANES CRASH, 4 DIE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 16.—(AP.)—Three officers and one flying cadet were killed four miles south of Brooks Field today when the two planes in which they were flying collided in the air.

All four were on duty at Brooks Field. They were Maj. Charles V. Hart, flight surgeon and pilot; Capt. Carlos J. Chamberlain, of New York City; Lieut. K. Austin Rogers, flying instructor, and Cadet Endicott Longacre.

The planes were flying at an altitude of 300 or 400 feet when they crashed in mid-air and plunged to the ground.

Maj. Hart was one of the few flight surgeons in the Air Corps holding a pilot's rating, and was one of the pioneers in flight surgeon work.

Capt. Chamberlain was flying with Maj. Hart in training to become a flight surgeon.

Lieut. Rogers was giving a flying lesson to Cadet Longacre.

U. S. Doctor's Death Demanded by China

PEIPING, China, July 16.—(AP.)—Execution of Dr. Francis F. Tucker, treasurer of the William S. Porter Memorial Hospital operated by the American Board of Missions at Techow, Shantung, has been demanded by the Kuomintang as the penalty for the death of a native hospital employe whom Dr. Tucker shot last week in the belief he was a burglar.

The Kuomintang asks the physician's immediate arrest and suspension of the activities of the mission.

DEPUTY SHERIFF HURT IN RIOT

Deputy Sheriff John McVey, 37, of 4608 Carlton street, was struck on the head with a brick and injured seriously in a riot alleged to have been led by a Communist leader over attempted eviction of a Negro family at 2639 Wylie avenue this afternoon.

McVey, rescued by a squad of deputies who responded to his summons for aid, was removed to Mercy Hospital suffering from concussion of the brain and body bruises.

McVey had been assigned to evict the family of Mon Zumer, for alleged non-payment of rent, deputies told police. He had carried most of the furniture to the sidewalk when a crowd of Negroes approached led by Fred Carreno, alias Kearns, reputed secretary of an unemployment relief organization and Communist leader.

Deputy McVey telephoned for help and tried single-handed to prevent Carreno and others from carrying the furniture back into the house. Rioting began during which McVey was struck.

Police and deputies arrested George Brown, Negro, of 8 Burkhart street, who is alleged to have thrown the brick, and Carreno.

Wind and Lightning Cause Big Loss; Heat Kills One

A violent wind and electrical storm broke over Pittsburgh and suburbs this afternoon, leveling trees and wires, shattering windows, unroofing buildings and doing widespread damage.

John Kozak, 18, of McKees Rocks, was rescued by attendants of the Franklin pool on the North Side after his canoe had been upset by the squall in the Ohio River at the head of Brunot's Island.

TREES BLOWN DOWN

The storm swept in from the north at 1:30 p. m., according to the Weather Bureau. For five minutes the wind blew 46 miles an hour, accompanied by sharp lightning. The temperature dropped from 90 to 72 degrees in 10 minutes, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman reported.

The storm struck particularly hard in the Ross Township district, leveling trees and crops and small buildings.

Windows of the Perrysville Public School, Perry highway, were blown in. The damage was

As a result of the conference, it was expected that at least announcement would be made of the running mate of Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong. It was possible the entire regular Republican slate would be announced.

One report current today was that Commissioner E. V. Babcock would consent to run again with Armstrong.

Finish of College Sport Seen in 1960

NEW YORK, July 16.—(AP.)—Dr. David Snedden, professor of education at Columbia University, predicted today that by 1960 competitive interscholastic sports will have been abolished by all the better public schools. Overemphasis on sports at present is due to an abnormal public appetite for heroes, he said in an address at a summer school open forum.

Police Diving For Reservoir Auto Victims

WIFE DRIVES THROUGH RESERVOIR RAILING

Tragedy Marks Driving Lesson; Machine Dragged From Highland Park Pool

Fears for Parents

While attempts were being made to recover the machine in which two persons were drowned in Highland Park reservoir, Mrs. Emma Strahley Macfarlane, of 1424 Browning road, Highland Park district, hurried to police on duty there and said she thought the victims were her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Strahley, also of Browning road.

Accompanied by Mrs. Samuel McClements, Jr., Mrs. Macfarlane was en route to a bridge party. Stopping at a Highland avenue drug store Mrs. Macfarlane heard of the accident. The description tallied with the machine in which her parents were driving.

During the effort to recover the machine, Mrs. Macfarlane watched at the guard railing as attempt afte rattempt failed.

Trapped in an automobile which crashed through a guard rail at Highland Park reservoir No. 1 at noon today, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Strahley drowned while scores of police and firemen worked frantically to reach them.

The machine was recovered at 2:20 p. m. It was reached after a diver entered the reservoir and attached a cable to the machine. It had turned over on its side.

TEACHING WIFE

Mr. Strahley was teaching his wife to drive, according to witnesses. As the car came down a slope on Mt. Bigelow, a witness said, it stopped while the woman practiced backing. Putting it in gear, the car sped onto the sidewalk, backed off, made a half circle in the driveway and then plunged into the guard rail, toppling down into the reservoir.

The automobile and its occupants were identified by Mrs. Emma Strahley Macfarlane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Strahley. She appeared on the scene a few minutes after the tragedy and said she was positive the victims were her parents. She told police the license number of the automobile.

Word of the tragedy spread and attempts to recover the machine and its human cargo were witnessed by a crowd of more than 500. Traffic on the Highland Park driveway around Mt. Bigelow was paralyzed.

DIVER CALLED

Several efforts were made by police to attach a cable to the machine, but because of its position in the bottom of the pool were futile. A diver eventually was summoned, who affixed a line to the machine, and it was snaked to the side of the reservoir where it was turned over onto its top. In this position it was drawn above the surface of the water, from where the bodies were removed.

The body of Mrs. Strahley was first removed.

That of her husband was taken out a few mintues later.

Identification was made positive by Dr. John M. Wilson, the Strahley family physician for the past 26 years.

A pulmotor was employed by police in an effor to revive the pair.

Social Leader, Reconciled With Foster-Child, Dying

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, 90-year-old resident of the fashionable Sixteenth street section of Washington, was critically ill here today.

No hope was held for her recovery, and it was said death might come at any time.

During the 10 days she has been ill a reconciliation has been effected with her foster granddaughter, Mrs. Beatrice Van Rensselaer Henderson Wholean.

Last February Mrs. Henderson disinherited her and disclosed she was a foundling adopted by her son and his wife.

Mrs. Henderson's action came as the result of a suit filed by Mrs. Wholean to block the elder woman's gift of the Henderson home to the government as a mansion for the vice presidents.

Mrs. Henderson is the widow of the late United States Senator John Brooks Henderson, of Missouri, who died in 1913.

Lone Witness Describes Car's Plunge Into Pool

Alex Hromik, of 4 Twelfth street, Sharpsburg, is believed to have been the only witness to the Highland Park tragedy.

Hromik said he was sitting on the slopes of Mt. Bigelow awaiting a friend when the automobile came down one of the driveways.

Hromick added:

"I paid particular attention to the machine because I saw that the man was teaching the woman to drive. They stopped near me and practiced backing for a short time. The woman was at the wheel. A few minutes later she put the machine into gear and apparently lost control. It swerved to the side of the road, jumped the curb, made a half circle back and then plunged across the sidewalk, crashing through the guard railing.

"Neither made a sound.

OFFICIALS INSIST VOTE MACHINE BELLS BE RESTORED

ATTACHMENTS ORDERED OFF, FIRM SAYS

Beamish Countermands Act Laid to His Predecessor; Safeguard Held Necessary

By ED PRENDERGAST
Sun-T. Correspondent.

BALTIMORE, July 16.—Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, today told Senator Frank J. Harris, of Crafton, that the voting machine must retain those original attachments it contained when it met the approval of the State Department.

Senator Harris, chairman of the Senate Voting Machine Investigating Committee, received Beamish's explanation when he informed him that the bells which recorded the votes and were formerly a part of the machine had been removed at the Poole engineering plant here "by request."

BELL MYSTERY

Beamish said:

"If the bell was a part when the machine was inspected and approved, it must remain on the machine. There is no record in my office to the effect that the bells were ordered removed."

Hiram Hirsh, attorney, in company with officials of the Poole company, which is making the voting machines for Allegheny County, yesterday told the Voting Machine Committee that the bells had been ordered removed from the machines by Judge Robert Lewis, former secretary of the commonwealth.

Judge Lewis, interviewed by telephone at his home, said he had no recollection of any communication with the Poole company in regard to the use of bells on the Poole voting machines.

ORDER LAID TO LEWIS

Chester Cook, sales manager for the Poole Company, and S. Proctor Brady, president of the concern, were asked who had instructed them to take the bells off. They were unable to remember, then later explained through Hirsch that it must have been "Lewis." They refused to say that Allegheny County Commissioners had issued the order.

The bell is a safeguard, Senator Harris explained. It would prevent a dishonest election board from noiselessly recording votes after the polls closed. Such fraud might be perpetrated, he added, in the event many who registered failed to vote.

FEW MACHINES READY

The Poole officials stated that if the commissioners wanted the bells on, they could have them without further cost.

The Senate committee, comprising Senator Harris, chairman; Senator Chauncey Parkinson, of Green County, and Senator Warren Roberts, of Northampton County, inspected the Poole plant yesterday. They noted that while a number of machines were in process of construction, only one completed device was visible.

President Brady refused to state definitely when the final deliveries of 1,100 machines to Allegheny County would be made. Senator Harris asked:

"Do you expect to have full delivery by August 15?"

Brady answered:

"Very near. All the machines will be there before the primaries."

Minor officials explained that by next week production would reach 50 machines a day. Cook said that a maximum of 70 a day would be possible.

STORM CAUSES WIDE DAMAGE

estimated at several hundred dollars. Numerous other buildings were struck by lightning and streets and highways blocked by uprooted trees and debris.

Several garages at Montclair and Highland avenues, West View, were unroofed.

DAMAGE IN CITY

In Pittsburgh minor damage was reported over a considerable area.

In Herron avenue the wind ripped loose the top section of a 40-foot smokestack at the W. B. McLean Manufacturing Company plant and hurled it to the ground. Other damage, officials said, was negligible.

Two 16-foot planks were ripped from a scaffold in Fifth avenue, near Wood street, and hurled to the sidewalk as rain drenched pedestrians huddled in nearby doorways. No person was injured.

Electric light and telephone wires in various sections of the city were torn down by the storm. Wires were reported down at Alder and Emerson streets and at Solway and Wightman streets.

BOLT HITS PENTHOUSE

Lightning struck a penthouse on the roof of Lindsay's garage, 7418 Hamilton avenue, tumbling bricks to the street. No one was hurt.

In Swissvale several trees and wires were blown down in Denniston avenue. Police boxes in the district were put out of commission by the storm.

Hitched Horse Forgotten for 76-Hour Stay

When Frank Sopoliski hired a saddle horse and had not returned it two days later George Fassinder, owner of the South Hills Riding Schools on Brownsville road, figured something was wrong.

A 12-hour search located Sopoliski at his home, 1324 Muriel street, South Side.

Then, Fassinder told Humane Society officials, Sopoliski thought of the horse for the first time since he had gone swimming in a South Park pool.

He wasn't quite certain where he had left the horse, Fassinder said, but they finally found it in a clump of woods about a quarter of a mile from the pool.

The horse, its owner said, had been tied to a tree so closely that it had not been able to reach food nor water during the 76 hours it was there.

At a hearing before Alderman Patrick Cawley, Sopoliski was fined $10 for cruelty to animals and posted $1,000 bond for a hearing on the criminal charge of failing to return a rented horse.

Officials of the Humane Society said so many complaints have been received of saddle horses being abused in South Park that an agent has been stationed there permanently.

The first arrest, they said, was that of Arnold Green, of 5677 Hobart street, who will be given a hearing on a cruelty charge before Alderman John P. Kearcher tomorrow.

WABASH TUNNEL TRANSFER SET

The Wabash Bridge and tunnel, to be converted into a downtown-South Hills traffic tube, will be turned over to the county Tuesday at 10 a. m.

County Commissioners and officials of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, its present owner, will participate in ceremonies at the south end of the bridge.

The commissioners today sent the outline of the sale agreement, which covers the bridge, tunnel and the land between First and Fourth avenues and Ferry street and Liberty avenue, necessary to ramp construction, to the county engineer and county solicitor for inspection before approving finally.

'BIG THREE' AID FOR GERMANY PLANNED

United States, Britain and France Work Out Program For Giving Assistance

SEVEN NATIONS CALLED

LONDON, July 16.—(AP.)—Germany's perilous financial situation today moved the world powers to make radical changes in plans for a series of international conferences, and statesmen of seven nations are to meet in London on Monday to evolve a plan of extending speedy assistance to Berlin.

First, however, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Julius Curtius, his foreign minister, are expected to go to Paris, where representatives of the principal World War allies, including the United States, met today.

M'DONALD TRIP OFF

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has canceled a trip to Berlin, which he and Arthur Henderson, the British foreign secretary, were to have made tomorrow.

At the London meeting will be Secretary of State Stimson, for the United States; Dino Grandi, for Italy, and representatives of Belgium and Japan as well as Great Britain, France and Germany.

Secretary Andrew W. Mellon also may sit in for the United States, although he is in the south of France for a holiday and had planned to go home without taking part in any further negotiations.

The status of the experts' meeting is somewhat uncertain now since events have followed one another with such rapidity. Originally it was to have conducted its negotiations prior to a meeting of political representatives of the nations concerned. There seems to be a possibility now that the experts may not meet as scheduled.

Bruening and Curtius To Leave for Paris

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service.

BERLIN, July 16.—Taking advantage of co-operation extended by the former allied nations in an effort to aid Germany, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Dr. Julius Curtius will leave Berlin for Paris tomorrow for a conference with French officials.

The German statesmen then are expected to proceed to London, where a conference of ministers is scheduled to meet under the chairmanship of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald on Monday.

Meanwhile Germany's banks, which were closed by the government two days ago to avert a panic, reopened as usual at 9 a. m. today.

Police were on guard at all the big Berlin banks, but their presence was hardly necessary. Business went forward as if nothing untoward had happened to threaten the credit of Germany.

Each bank hung in its main window a sign stipulating conditions of disbursement. The notice read:

"According to government decree, we are prepared only to accept payments and disburse salary, dole, rent and tax requirements, all of which must be accompanied by certified proof."

RIOTS FLARE

The usual number of rioters nursed bruised heads today in hospitals of cities throughout Germany as the result of the nightly outbreaks between Communists and Hitlerites. Hundreds were placed under arrest in Berlin last night, following sporadic raids on grocery stores.

Outbreaks were reported also in Leipzig, Darmstadt and Karlsruhe. There were no casualties, but the police used night sticks and blank cartridges freely.

Latvia Restrict Bank Withdrawals

RIGA, Latvia, July 16.—(INS.)—As the result of heavy runs on Latvian banks due to the situation in Germany, the Latvian government ordered all banks today to restrict payments to 5 per cent in case depositors asked for more than 200 lats (about $40).

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 16.—(AP.)—The German financial crisis has caused a run on German banks in Istanbul, the public drawing out 3,500,000 Turkish liras (nominally about $15,000,000) during the past few days.

7 Police Injured In Vienna Rioting

VIENNA, July 16.—(AP.)—Seven policemen were injured, three of them seriously enough to be taken to a hospital, in a clash with a crowd of Communists last night on the Lorenz Bayerplatz.

The Communists were celebrating the successful coup of 1927. Police who tried to break up the demonstration had to call mounted detachments to their assistance.

CHAOS STALKS GERMANY IN CRISIS

Factional Armies Tramping Country; Specter of War And Anarchy Is Raised

The following resume of the grave economic situation in Germany was cabled today by Otto D. Tolischus, for many years correspondent in Berlin and now stationed in London as general manager of all European news services of International News Service:

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

LONDON, July 16.—Germany, like a giant balloon, first inflated by $4,000,000,000 in foreign loans extended for the purpose of helping lift the world to the heights of prosperity and then deflated by the flight of foreign and domestic capital, is now sinking into the sea of world depression while 60,000,000 panic-stricken people are struggling to save themselves.

In the struggle, millions of Germans are embracing Communism, Fascism, Socialism, Militarism and other "isms.' Overhanging all is the specter of anarchy, chaos, civil and even foreign war threatening to engulf all Europe.

Already rival private armies are tramping through the country. Rival uniforms dominate the scene, with the stage set for civil strife.

Only the towering figure of the octogenarian, President Von Hindenburg, is able to command comparative order and events are pushing him to possible resignation.

Germany was partly pushed and partly jumped headlong into the crisis. She has gone through a spending spee unprecedented in the history of nations. It is a wonder she has lasted so long.

Part of the spending was imposed by the war victors, who, on the principle that "the Boche pays all," dreamed of collecting $33,000,000,000, or half of Germany's entire pre-war wealth, in reparations. Predictions of disaster from this policy by Keynes and other sober economists are now coming true.

In the final analysis, the crisis is both a showdown for capitalism and socialism, as well as another phase in the century-old struggle between Germany and France.

BOYS WHO SHOT WOMAN SOUGHT

Search was being continued today by East End police for the two youths, who while holding a target practice yesterday, shot and wounded Mrs. H. E. Wise, of 7403 Meade street. Mrs. Wise, confined to the Columbia Hospital with a bullet wound in the left breast and left arm, was reported to be recovering.

Mrs. Wise and her daughter, Dorothy, 4, were in the back yard where the mother was hanging up clothes. The bullet narrowly missed the child and struck the mother.

Police say the boys were shooting at a target with a 22 caliber rifle. They were chased by William Walker, an employe of the Hampshire Auto Cleaning Company, who witnessed the shooting. They made their escape, running in the direction of the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

REFORMATION?

"This man was perfectly normal—aside from one strange failing. He never will be able to resist the temptation of cashing bum checks," writes Mark Hellinger in his "All in a Day" story today. The flair was so deep-rooted that he would dream of writing checks on the clouds—in the blue sky. Read Hellinger's human-interest story on this strange character.

HOOVER GREETS C. E. AS FORCE FOR GOOD

Work for World Peace and Righeousness Praised in Radio Talk to Convention

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP.)—National independence and international understanding were portrayed as "not incompatible" elements today by President Hoover in greeting delegates of the International Christian Endeavor societies.

Speaking over the radio from the cabinet room of the White House to the fiftieth anniversary convention of the societies in San Francisco, the Chief Executive said the organization was "a world force for the promotion of spiritual advancement among our people," and "stands for international goodwill and world peace."

GOLDEN DEEDS, IDEALS

The address follows:

"From every state in the United States, from every province of the Dominion of Canada, from Mexico and from a score of countries beyond the seas you have assembled in San Francisco to celebrate the golden anniversary of the International Christian Endeavor Societies—an organization devoted to golden deeds and ideals.

"The fiftieth anniversary of the International Christian Endeavor Societies is a notable moment in your history. It is significant not only to you, but to the whole nation by reason of your past services and your potentialities for even greater usefulness in the future.

"From an humble beginning in Portland, Me., in 1881, the Christian Endeavor movement has become a world force for the promotion of spiritual advancement among our people. The 4,000,000 members in more than 80,000 local units in 126 nations, dominions, states and island groups present an impressive force in spiritual well-being of the world.

SERVICE TO COUNTRY

"Despite differences of language, tradition and custom, the youth of the world has found in the organization a common ground for spiritual training and service to their church, community and country. It represents the most enduring monument to the idealism, insight and organizing genius of its founder, the late Dr. Francis E. Clark.

"The best index to its purposes and values are the principles it stand for. Its loyalties and ideals make for good citizenship, for character and religious faith. It recognizes that national independence and international understanding are not incompatible. It stands for international goodwill and world peace. It is a mighty force for sobriety, righteousness and respect for law, patriotism and spiritual development in every nation.

"It is an appreciated privilege, in behalf of the nation, to greet the delegates from our land and other lands to the convention of the world's Christian Endeavor Union at the fifteenth milepost of this dynamic movement. I congratulate you on the achievements of a half century of practical idealism. You have before you even higher privileges and opportunities to serve with the vigor, courage and idealism of youth in the solution of myriads of problems of the future. Above all yours is a mission of exemplifying the standards of individual conduct which are the basis of national character. A better world is the mission of youth and it is your mission."

Armament Holiday Proposed in Britain

LONDON, July 16.—(INS.)—A suggestion that the nations of the world declare a year's armament holiday in conjunction with President Hoover's debt moratorium was made in the House of Commons today by Lieut. Com. J. M. Kenworthy, M. P.

Diary Shows Washington Opposed Profanity

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 16.—(AP.)—Although some of the soldiers in the Continental army might have thought it a mark of genius and military spirit to swear "like a trooper," profanity was frowned upon by Gen. Washington, and he issued orders against it.

Dr. Randolph G. Adams, librarian of the William L. Clements Library of American History at the University of Michigan, cites an entry in the orderly book kept by Serg. Bingham, who was Washington's sergeant-major when the general had headquarters at West Point in 1779.

The sergeant, who was not much of a speller, wrote:

"The general hopes and believes his officers and men will comply with His Excellency's wishes to unite with him to discontinue and banish the odious and sinful practice of swearing so unbecoming a soldier and a Christian. It may be worthwhile to observe that in the beginning of the war, there were but few of the New England troops that were guilty of this vice but laterly forgetting the precepts and example of their good education many have taken false pride and ambition looked upon the use of oaths and profain speeches as the mark of genius and military spirits although these very persons have in some instances been laughed at and despised by those whose good graces they would gain by imitating their impious example."

WILKINS POLAR SUB VISITED BY WALES

Adventure in Arctic Under Ice Grips Interest of Prince Interviewing Crew

By W. T. ROBERTS
Universal Service.

PLYMOUTH, England, July 16.—The Prince of Wales, most renowned royal adventurer, yesterday paid a visit of inspection to the submarine in which the Wilkins-Ellsworth trans-Arctic expedition plans to voyage under the ice to the North Pole.

The Prince was received aboard the Nautilus by Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, the expedition's commander.

He inspected every department of the submarine and closely questioned all members of the expedition—both officers and crew.

INTERESTED BY CAREERS

The prince was particularly interested in the special devices with which the expedition hopes to conquer the ice. Capt. Sloan Dannenhower, who answered the prince's questions, said that the royal heir, who as a youth served many months in the British navy, showed considerable technical knowledge in many of his queries.

Among other things, the prince closely inquired into the nationality of the submarine's personnel.

Capt. Dannenhower explained that the Nautilus is an American submarine but that the expedition considered itself an international affair. The prince interviewed the general officer, Lieut. Com. Schlossbach, and Chief Electrician Blumberg, both of whom saw service on this side during the World War. He was greatly interested in their careers.

QUESTIONS DIVER

Another member of the crew who attracted the royal visitor's attention longest of all was Master Diver Frank Crilley. The prince was keenly interested in the diving apparatus and the diving compartment. He made particular inquiries as to whether the lessons in safety had been derived from the Poseidon disaster had been acted upon, and was assured they had been.

Before stepping ashore the prince shook hands with all the officers and crew. He wished the expedition every success and thanked Sir Hubert for the opportunity to visit the Nautilus.

LIFE TOO GAY; WINS DIVORCE

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marion Dodge Humbert, stage dancer, asked Judge Rudolph F. Desort for a divorce yesterday from Maj. John Horace Humbert, New York stock broker, on charges of desertion.

She complained that her husband bought her orchids when she would rather have had a home garden, and that he showered her with Paris frocks and slippers when she wanted to don gingham, settle down and rear a family.

She charged he left her October 15, 1929, because his desire for night life conflicted with her wish for a quiet home. She waived alimony, saying she had received a settlement out of court.

Judge Desort indicated he would grant her request.

Ileana's American Escort Wishes Her Happiness

CHINWANGTAO, China, July 16.—(AP.)—When Princess Ileana becomes the bride of Archduke Anton of Austria, a week from Sunday at Sinaia, nobody will wish her greater happiness than Second Lieut. William J. Glasgow, Jr., of the 15th United States Infantry, now stationed at a summer camp near this small seaport.

Glasgow cherishes the happiest memories of his short-lived association with the Princess and her mother, Queen Marie of Rumania, during their tour of America in 1926.

Glasgow, referring to his detail as their aide when they visited West Point, said:

"That certainly was a pleasant assignment.

"Princess Ileana is a most charming girl, and I wish her every possible happiness."

Glasgow could not be persuaded to talk further. Ever since the news of Ileana's betrothal reached China he has been mercilessly teased by his brother officers.

Just what his friendship with the Princess amounted to—whether it ended in 1926 or continued since then—is the secret of Glasgow.

watch should burn its young men, and its civilization in war.

MR. BAKER, distinguished American engineer, who has been in Russia, building steel plants, and knows more than those that have been here, forming theories, says Russia is doing well, will not compete disastrously with other nations, because she can't manufacture too much for her own use, and will not fail in her industrial undertaking.

AND MR. STONE, head of the farm board, foresees a time when small private farmers will disappear. He says the trend of agriculture is toward "co-operatives."

There seems to be a Russian sound to that. Millions of Russian farmers are engaged in co-operative farming, under government direction. The government has planted, under the direction of an expert American farmer, from Montana, one batch of wheat that would make a strip 15 miles wide, reaching from San Francisco to New York City.

Perhaps mass production in agriculture is coming, with co-operative marketing and other modern features.

MUSSOLINI'S GOVERNMENT, replying to the Pope's encyclical, criticizing Fascism and its efforts to take the education of children from the Catholic church, calls that encyclical "a collection of lies."

However, in Rome, as farther north, "sticks and stones may break my bones, but hard words cannot harm me."

It is understood that Italy will organize a great parade of the Fascist party, to show its power; 873,000 adults and 640,000 youths are to be mobilized on the battlefields of Northern Italy.

Even that will not dismay the Pope, whose strength is in spiritual force and physical weakness. The smallness of the Vatican territory, protected only by a handful of Swiss Guards and others, would make any sort of violence preposterous.

THE REV. MR. SANDIFER, of Louisiana, Baptist, holds the long-distance preaching championship with a sermon lasting 58½ hours.

It was a commendable performance, the reverend gentleman keeping up his strength with raw eggs, chocolate and coffee and changing his stiff shirt once during the sermon.

At the same time, the Sermon on the Mount, read with conviction in three minutes, might produce more effect than the longest preaching.

MIRACLE IMAGE PROVES ONLY SHADOW

'Vision' Attracting 20,000 In Chicago Vanishes as Window Blind Is Drawn

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP.)—Someone in the home of Sam Genna, once notorious as the leader of a liquor gang, pulled down a shade last night and Chicago's six-day wonder—the image of a mother and her child—which appeared on the side of an apartment building in South Ashland avenue, vanished while 20,000 spectators watched.

Genna's home is directly opposite the apartment building to which as many as 50,000 persons were attracted by the appearance of the figure on the wall. An arc lamp some distance away had been throwing its beams upon a bay window in the Genna home. The window pane, in turn, had reflected the light upon the wall of the apartment, with a lace curtain adding a shadow that resulted in a somewhat dim resemblance of the Madonna and Child.

BATTLE POLICE

With the discovery of the cause of the image the crowd went home disappointed. Some had been in the neighborhood all day. At one time the crowd was so dense police reserves had to be called out to maintain order. During the excitement some of the spectators threw rocks at the police as they tried to force their way through the crowd. One woman, Mrs. Paul Wimmler, of Milwaukee, Wis., was struck.

Peanut venders and hot dog men did a big business, while pickpockets reaped a harvest.

REPORTER GIVES CLUE

A newspaper reporter helped in a solution of the mystery. Toward midnight he held up a handkerchief between the figure and the window of the Genna home and noticed that its shadow partially obscured the image. He asked the police to investigate at the Genna home. Lieut. Joseph Pieroth examined the shade, reporting back that the mystery had been solved.

TRAP SUSPECT IN EXTORTION

County detectives today are holding Alec Budday, 30, of 1128 Railroad street, Duquesne, in connection with an attempt to extort $250 from B. Canova, McKeesport grocer, residing at 222 Washington avenue, Dravosburg.

Budday was arrested as he climbed through a thick undergrowth along the Duquesne-Dravosburg road last midnight after detectives had placed a decoy package, the arresting officers said.

Under threat of death Canova was ordered to place the money in the brush, and county detectives arranged the decoy. While Detective Edward Frank lay concealed, Detective Joe Bodner deposited the package. Later Budday was arrested nearby. The package was found near a railroad track.

Budday denied he was implicated. He said that he had been walking along the railroad and decided to seek a smoother road.

MA WILL FIGHT RIVALS TO AID BRIDEGROOM

Two Mrs. Hudsons, One-Time Bride-to-Be to See If Honeymooner Is 'The Man'

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Mrs. Minnie Kennedy Hudson and her new husband, the Rev. G. Edward Hudson, together today faced three other women who wonder if Mr. Hudson is the same man they once knew as sweetheart and husband.

Mrs. Guy Edward Hudson, of Chicago, and Mrs. Margaret Newton Hudson, of Los Angeles, began a search for the honeymooners in the belief that Hudson is the man they once called husband.

LICENSE UNUSED

Mrs. Ethel Harbert, of Los Angeles, identified photographs of Mr. Hudson as the man she nearly married in January, 1929. The license was procured but never used.

When "Ma" heard these reports she announced:

"I have been a good sweetheart and I am going to be a good fighter for the man I love."

They were 100 miles away trying to find some place where they wouldn't be disturbed, and "Ma" said:

"I'm bringing him back with me and we're going into this matter together to find out what all the shooting is about. We'll see about these other Mrs. Hudsons."

Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist daughter of "Ma," expressed unconcern at the whole affair.

'ANYTHING MIGHT HAPPEN'

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—(AP.)—Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, thinks it's "just newspaper talk" when her mother and stepfather, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy Hudson and the Rev. G. E. Hudson, talk about finding a husband for her.

When Mrs. McPherson arrived here to attend graduation exercises at the Portland Four Square Bible School, reporters showed her dispatches from California quoting Mr. Hudson and Mrs. Hudson as saying they plan to find a husband for Aimee.

A reporter asked:

"When are you going to be married?"

Mrs. McPherson replied:

"This is so sudden. But you must remember I am in the great Northwest now and almost anything might happen. I think that is just newspaper talk about them finding a husband for me. I don't think persons in their right minds would say a thing like that, do you?"

Mrs. McPherson also denied an announcement attributed to Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson that Roberta Semple Smith, the evangelist's daughter, expects to become a mother in December.

KEEP RATE CASE OPEN, PLEA OF ROADS

Suggest 15 Per Cent Raise Be Granted, Subject to Revision at Any Time

WASHINGTON, July 16. (AP.) — Counsel for the nation's railroads today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant a 15 per cent rate increase and leave the case open for the future to determine whether an additional boost or lowered rates were necessary.

Henry Wolf Bikle, chief counsel for the railroads, made the suggestion at the outset of the second day's hearing by the commission of the railroads' case.

Immediately afterward J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, testified that it was felt that without additional revenues, such as would be afforded by the 15 per cent increase, the railroads could not continue the transportation service "which it is their duty under the law to provide and which is essential to the public welfare."

INDEFINITE PERIOD

Bickle told the commission that it obviously was impossible to tell when the present depression would change. He said:

"Therefore, it seems impossible for us to set a date for expiration of the rate increase.

"I was asked yesterday if the railroads intended to make this increase permanent.

"The railroads now suggest that if and when an increase is granted, the commission keep the case open and before it so that it can be recalled and action such as may be necessary may later be taken."

Commissioner Eastman, who was sitting on the bench as an observer, asked Bickle if his statement meant the railroads might ask the further increase if it seemed necessary.

Bickle answered that the suggestion that the case be kept open could be construed as keeping it in position where rates might either be lowered or further increased as would seem necessary.

PITTSBURGHER TESTIFIES

Roy S. Kern, a Pittsburgh rate expert, who late yesterday presented the railroads' plan for raising rates on coal so present differentials among producing areas would be preserved, was recalled this morning to clarify a number of matters connected with the situation.

Kern said he had participated in conferences between rate experts and traffic managers at which the plan was discussed. He was asked about rates from Illinois, Indiana and Western Kentucky districts. He said he was not authorized to speak for the carriers in that section.

Bickle then called Pelley, but before Pelley started presenting his statement, Bickle endeavored to answer a question propounded to him yesterday as to how long the rates might be kept in effect.

THOMAS' TRIAL NEARS END

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 16.—Evidence is to be completed today in the trial of Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas on a charge of blackmailing Harry Engle, former city traction commissioner. Judge H. W. Jewell, who is hearing the case without a jury, plans to adjourn court at 1 p. m. until Monday, when he, with Judges Alfred Mack, of Cincinnati, and A. J. Pearson, of Cleveland, will start hearing evidence in an action to oust Thomas from office.

Judge Jewell proposed to the three special prosecutors late Wednesday that arguments in the blackmail case be deferred until after the ouster case evidence is completed, when arguments in both cases will be heard at the same time. Defense attorneys have yet to give their consent to this arrangement.

The ouster proceeding was initiated by the filing of petitions signed by more than 4,400 electors of Mahoning County.

DR. GRACE MARTIN . . . . HOME FROM FIVE YEARS IN CHINA

Dr. Martin, playing on the piano on which as a girl she learned her music, at her Pittsburgh home, 963 Milton street. She is home on furlough, must return shortly to a mission hospital in China.

No Spanking Despite Need In China, Woman Doctor Here on Visit Says

Chinese women do not spank their children, even when they need it, which isn't seldom, according to Dr. Grace Martin, just returned from five years as head of the children's clinic at Margaret Williamson Hospital, Shanghai, China.

Dr. Martin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Martin, 963 Milton street, is here on her sabbattical leave of one year. She specialized in pediatrics, nose and throat ailments in China.

LET CHILDREN HOWL

To the average person, she confesses, spanking would seem to have little connection with pediatrics. However, she says:

"In one case, a little girl was very, very sick with pneumonia. The father, favorable toward western medicine, wanted her to come to me. But she wouldn't. She died, because the father didn't force her to go to the hospital.

"They're great believers in personal liberty.

"When a child in the clinic howls and battles the doctor, the mother's role is to sit by and complacently plan the evening meal; if the child wants to howl, let it howl. It's nothing to the mother."

Dangers from revolution? Well, Dr. Martin isn't very much impressed by Chinese fighting. They're cowards, she says, so that she feels safer walking Shanghai's streets at night than she does Pittsburgh's.

LIKES CHOP STICKS

She had to leave Nanking in a hurry when there was some fighting there in 1927. Lost everything but a clothes bag full of odds and ends. Watched the fighting from a gunboat in the river. But she wasn't frightened. It wasn't much, she says.

The earnest face of Dr. Martin lights up, however, when she talks of chop sticks. She learned to use them on dry peas. Finally, she says, she came to like them as well as knives and forks. She added:

"But most people wouldn't, so I shan't indorse a movement to displace knives and forks with chop sticks."

TWO MEN SLAIN IN LABOR WAR

CHICAGO, July 15.—(AP.)—Two men were slain early today in a Forest Park saloon in what police believed to be a labor union outbreak.

The victims were L. S. Murphy, alias Bernard Dailey, and Frank Davis, both of whom, police said, have records as law violators.

Murphy, Davis and Edward McFadden, business agent of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs Local, No. 212, and about 11 other customers were sitting in the back room of the saloon when two or three gunmen entered.

A dozen shots were fired. Both Murphy and Davis sank to the floor. The gunmen fled.

McFadden and Murphy's widow, Hazel, were arrested, but refused to talk to authorities.

1 SHOT, 200 HELD IN STRIKE RIOT

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 16.—(AP.)—After a series of disorders which at times reached riot proportions, police last night had arrested more than 200 striking road workers, 19 of whom are being held to face deportation proceedings.

An all-night search was conducted by police in hotels and rooming houses here in an effort to locate a remaining 150 persons who, they said, participated in the disturbances.

One striker was shot and several others injured when police used clubs to restore order after 750 road workers walked out in protest against wage cuts to 40 cents an hour.

They refused a compromise of $4 per day and demanded a flat $5 daily wage. Those who walked out were replaced by white-collar workers, a dozen of whom were at work, near White Plains, when, police said, the strikers began to throw stones at them.

WHEN MAKING PRESERVES, PUT UP A LITTLE AT A TIME

According to a leading home-economics expert, it is better to make preserves in small quantities frequently, than to put up "a lot" at one time. Cooking in large quantities prevents even cooking, causes the fruit to lose its shape and prolongs the cooking period.

In preserving, remember that refined cane sugar is the recognized standard of housewives all over the country. Now is the time to watch the markets so you can put up your favorite fruits when they are at their peak of goodness. Sugar is at an abnormally low price. Preserve with refined cane sugar. The Sugar Institute.

RACKET HINTED IN ELECTRICAL BUSINESS

MacNeil Co. Gets Airport Contract on Low Bid of $68,000 Despite Protests

After a long hearing, at which it was intimated that a racket was being made of some branches of the electrical business, the MacNeil Electrical Company was awarded the contract for the field lighting and miscellaneous electrical work at the new City-County Airport, at the low bid of $68,273.

When bids were opened 10 days ago, Michael Gordon, of the electrical workers' union, protested awarding the contract to the MacNeil company, charging it employed non-union men and paid lower wages.

WAGES ISSUE

As a result of this charge the MacNeil company was asked to submit a list of men employed, the rate of pay and the numerical force of other electrical organizations not affiliated with the union.

Their report submitted showed the following day rate: Superintendent, $15; foreman, $14; journeymen, $12, and helpers, $8. There was a statement that there were 475 licensed electrical contractors employing 1,000 men not affiliated with the union.

D. A. Fleming, of the Electrical Contractors' Association, made a plea for the award to the lowest responsible bidder, saying it was not a question of union wages or fiancial rating.

HINTS AT RACKET

He said:

"If the lowest bidder has the experience he should get the job."

Commissioner C. C. McGovern asked:

"Is this electrical business getting into such shape that it can be called a racket?"

Fleming said he didn't think so. McGovern asked:

"Are certain contractors limited to certain jobs—that is a contractor can take a contract up to a certain amount and not above?"

Fleming said he didn't think so. Harry Ruben, representing R. G. Diodati, second low bidder, told of attempts being made to have Diodati withdraw his bid. He said when he refused, union workers were called off a contract which Diodati was completing.

It is alleged that Timko, owner of the property, engaged in an argument with Estok, his tenant, over payment of the rent and a fight followed, during which Estok was hit on the head with a baseball bat. The pair were charged with disorderly conduct.

EDITORS BACK LOAN PLAN FOR PROSPERITY

Indorsement of 5 Billion Proposal Announced by Scripps-Canfield Papers

All the large group of Scripps-Canfield newspapers yesterday printed a strong editorial indorsement of the five billion dollar prosperity loan suggested by William Randolph Hearst "to overcome at least in part the evils of the depression and to put millions of men and women to work."

The editorial emphasizes that the prosperity plan will go far toward relieving the national distress. It continues:

"It will take time, however, to bring American industry and business to its senses, although most of the business leaders of today are beginning to see the light and are commencing to understand the great need. They are not unwilling to follow—but where is a leader—certainly not Hoover, or Coolidge!

"Meanwhile, until leaders with intelligence and courage and foresight have been found, millions will suffer and businessmen will be afraid of their shadows, unless some plan like that offered by William Randolph Hearst is adopted by the nation. Intolerance bred of desperation is regaining the foothold it lost a few years ago. The Hooverians are even now engaged in a propaganda campaign to increase intolerance and bigotry and unreasonable hate.

"We are approaching a terrific crisis, one which will be more evident as winter draws nearer. Though we are in desperate need of a cure for our industrial sickness, we are in even worse plight for a palliative, something that will provide bread for the millions who will have no bread before snow flies."

The editorial concludes by urging that prohibition be repealed and the income from liquor taxes be used to pay off the government bonds that may be issued under the prosperity plan.

Anderson, superintendent of the New Orleans Marine Hospital, and for an hour and 15 minutes he dictated surgical measures. The ship officers obeyed his instructions.

JAILED IN DEATH TRIAL FURORE

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 16.—During defense cross-examination of Mrs. Bessie Branigan, 45, star witness for the state against Mrs. Edna James, on trial charged with first degree murder, frequently was interrupted by applause. After repeated warnings, Judge J. S. Paisley halted the disorder by ordering William Robinson, 20, Canton, O., steel worker, to jail for six hours.

Mrs. Branigan, who late yesterday testified that Mrs. James had confessed to her that she killed Patrolman William Castner because he was trying to break off a love affair with her, underwent a two-hour grilling by defense counsel this morning, but her story went unshaken.

Mrs. Branigan shouted at Attorney Hogo Chestosky who attempted to break down her testimony:

"I love Edna James, but I said I would tell the truth and I have."

Mrs. James is expected to take the stand in her own defense late today or Friday.

TAXI PACIFISTS THREATENED

Lives of members of the taxicab "strike settlement committee" seeking peace in the five-week-old strike of union drivers were threatened today, Bert Snyder, a member of the committee, revealed.

Snyder said the threats were made in two telephone calls early today. The voice demanded:

"You forget your ——— idea and get out of town. We are on our way down there with a machine gun."

A few minutes later another call said:

"We're on the way down."

So far they haven't arrived.

Snyder asserted that more than 300 drivers, 200 of whom are already back at work, have signed petitions indicating their willingness to return to work under conditions existing before the strike was called.

Leaders of the settlement group were discredited by John Stackhouse, secretary-treasurer of the union, who said all were leaders in the strike last year and had been ousted as trouble makers.

NEW GARBAGE FIRM REVEALS EQUIPMENT

Plans Open for Inspection Of Rival Bidder; Chicago Expert to Be Called

Plans for the incinerators to be used by the Modern Service Company, if it is awarded the city garbage and rubbish disposal contracts, today were submitted to Dr. C. B. Maits, director of the Department of Health.

Officials of the American Reduction Company, holder of the present contracts and the only competitor of the Modern Service Company for those of 1932, had charged that their rival was unable to fulfill city requirements, and was concealing plans of the equipment.

Attorney Charles B. Prichard, counsel for and an officer of the Modern Service Company, turned the plans over to Maits this morning and told him that officials of the competing firms were at liberty to examine them.

PLANS STUDIED

J. R. Moore, vice president of the American Reduction Company and Earl F. Reed, counsel, went to Maits' office shortly before noon and started an inspection of the drawings.

A councilmanic hearing into equipment and personnel of the Modern Service, which is the low bidder, was granted yesterday to Francis Guthrie, a taxpayer. It then was postponed for two weeks. Guthrie plans to bring Samuel A. Greeley, Chicago incineration engineer, here to testify on methods of garbage and rubbish removal.

A hearing, granted yesterday to Francis Guthrie, a taxpayer, was postponed for two weeks. Guthrie plans to bring Samuel A. Greeley, Chicago incineration engineer, here to testify on methods of garbage and rubbish removal.

When President John S. Herron, of Council, pointed out at the hearing that it was not Council's prerogative to award contracts, Attorney Reed, who accompanied Guthrie, declared the act of 1895 decreed garbage and rubbish removal contracts could be made only with the consent of Council to the decision of the Mayor and Director of Public Health.

SEES CHANGE IN STATUS

Assistant Solicitor Thomas M. Benner later told Council and Reed that legislation passed in 1911 took this matter out of Council's hands when the Health Bureau was made a separate department.

Denouncing the present contract methods as leaning toward favoritism, Reed declared:

"The Mayor and Dr. C. B. Maits have final say as to who shall be given more than $3,000,000 worth of business. The director can even determine what method of collection and disposal shall be used.

"A company that has the Mayor's favor can place a cheaper quotation, knowing that if it is fined for any failures to comply with terms of the contract, its destinies are in the hands of friends."

Dr. Maits said the contract would not be awarded until Council terminates its hearing. Other bidders were the American Reduction Company and the Allegheny Garbage Company.

NEW YORKTOWN BATTLE RAGES

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP.)—Revolutionary guns silenced 150 years ago at Yorktown today were echoed in verbal warfare over the propriety of staging scenes depicting the historic British surrender.

Published reports that the State Department had suggested the Yorktown sesquicentennial celebration next October omit scenes portraying the surrender of Lord Cornwallis brought a denunciation of such action from Representative Bloom, New York, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

Almost simultaneously, the State Department denied any official representations had been made to the Yorktown commission on omitting the surrender from the sesquicentennial pageant. Bloom said:

"I have yet to find one Englishman who has expressed the least resentment because of our reference to the victory at Yorktown."

TARGETS HOLD GRETNA STAGE

MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 16.—(AP.)—Officers of the 109th and 110th Infantry of the Pennsylvania National Guard, determined to have their troops develop a high degree of proficiency with the rifle before the war games start, today again sentt heir men to the combat and rifle ranges. The war games, starting next week, will complete the training of units now in camp.

Those battalions of the 103d Engineers which had spent the first part of the week in throwing up field fortifications were sent to alternate with the men who had been building pontoon bridges across Lake Duffy.

Candidates for promotion were given time off today for physical examination.

The fourteenth anniversary of the 28th Division was observed last night with a dance. Maj. Gen. William G. Price, who commands the National Guard, was present with his staff.

HOPES OF 1,000 'HEIRS' DASHED

HOUSTON, Tex., July 16.—(INS.)—The dreams of more than 1,000 persons who had hoped to inherit a fortune each from an estate supposed to be worth in excess of $850,000,000, were at least temporarily shattered today.

L. D. Buchanan, Houston grocer, who for years has been communicating with descendants from the family of former President James Buchanan, telling them the estate exists and outlining his plans to reclaim it, said today he had ceased all operations.

He announced several months ago that he was about to institute court action to claim the estate and that it would be converted to cash and divided among some 1,000 heirs he had traced down. The estate, he said, was composed of valuable property in eight states, some of it in the heart of large cities.

After an interview yesterday with postal inspectors, Buchanan asked the Postoffice Department to mark all his mail "refused."

FIGHT FOR CULT HEAD'S ESTATE

SEATTLE, July 16.—(AP.)—A $100,000 estate amassed in 10 years by Daniel Salwt, an itinerant street preacher before he formed the Seventh Elect Church in Israel here, is the prize in a court battle started here between his disciples and his two sons.

The cultists claim the estate consisted of free-will offerings of their property and earnings, entrusted to Salwt for the church. His sons, Arnell and Clafton Salwt, came here from Robinson, Ill., to claim the estate. Salwt left no will.

Twelve disciples escorting an elderly woman wearing a crown of sparkling brilliants and stars, sat in front rows of the crowded courtroom. She succeeded to the high priestess role which had been held by a number of young girls before Salwt's death in 1929.

GRAHAM SETS HIGH MARK IN CONVICTIONS

Federal Prosecutor Here Wins 97 Per Cent of 1,002 Criminal Cases in Year

The annual report of United States Attorney Louis E. Graham, showing activities of his office for the fiscal year ended June 30, records the termination in the Federal district court of 1,002 criminal and 780 civil cases instituted by the district attorney.

At the beginning of the fiscal year 253 criminal cases were pending and at the close 159, of which 62 were suits brought under the prohibition law. The report shows convictions in 848 criminal cases, 27 acquittals, 126 nolle prosses and one case quashed. There were pleas of guilty in 754 cases and 121 jury trials.

Not including the nolle prosses, a large number being cases of many years' standing on the court dockets and cases in which defendants were never apprehended, the federal prosecutor was successful in 97 per cent of the criminal prosecutions. Including the nolle prosses the District Attorney's office was 84.6 per cent successful in all cases.

In addition to jail, penitentiary and probation sentences, there were fines aggregating $143,965.36, of which $102,232.01 were realized. In civil actions the government obtained judgments aggregating $48,811.84 and from them realized $15,739.36. There were 662 judgments in favor of the government and 24 judgments against.

The report shows 392 civil cases were pending at the beginning of the fiscal year and 342 at the close, most of which are "padlock" injunction suits.

AUTO LIFE TOLL REDUCED HERE

Traffic fatalities in Pittsburgh in June totaled 18, of which one was a child, bringing the year's total to 79, as compared with 93 in the same period last year, City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre announced yesterday. Non-fatal traffic accidents totaled 126 during June, of which 26 were children.

Child fatalities increased during the first six months of 1931, as compared with those of the same period of 1930, while adult fatalities showed a decrease. The decrease in traffic fatalities in the face of the 10 per cent increase in traffic found in the annual traffic count, McIntyre said, is a tribute to the educational activities of the Better Traffic Committee and the enforcement drives of the traffic police.

$6,000 Jug of Gold Find Starts Fight For Possession

BUFFALO, Ill., July 16.—(AP.)—Unearthing of two pottery jugs containing $6,000 in gold coins in the center of the business district of this village, has started a legal fight to determine the ownership of the money.

The money was discovered by two ditch diggers on the property of Alex M. Booth who has claimed ownership of the find. Booth's claim is disputed by relatives of Dr. Peter Leeds, a recluse of the '80s, who is believed to have buried the money, and the two workmen, Edward Jack and James Rogers.

$1,297,000 Embassy Contract Signed

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(AP.)—A contract for construction of the long-proposed American embassy and office building in Paris was signed by Acting Secretary Castle, of the State Department.

The building will be erected by the Hegeman-Harris Company, of New York, for $1,297,000. Work will start in 10 days. The contract calls for completion within two years.

PRODUCE MEN PROTEST RATE

A group of 28 Pittsburgh produce dealers through their counsel, Walter S. Ryan, has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington to hear oral arguments on a complaint against track storage charges in the Pennsylvania Railroad produce terminal here.

The dealers have challenged the conclusions of an examiner who recommended dismissal of the complaint, and declared that the railroad is providing preferential facilities at Philadelphia where they say no charges are made for track storage.

It is understood that another large group of dealers is negotiating for the adjustment of the rates with the railroad. After five days cars remaining in the yard here run up maximum charges of $5 demurrage and $4 storage. Dealers have been making efforts to have the rates lowered for many years.

U. S. FORGERY SUSPECTS HELD HERE

Federal Inspectors Report Confessions of Man, Girl In Money Order Fraud

Myrtle Wylie, 24, of Erin street, and Peter Smith, 26, Negroes, believed by federal authorities to be involved in a ring that is forging and passing postal money orders in Pittsburgh and other cities, were held for court by the United States Commissioner yesterday. The forgeries are on blank money order forms stolen a year ago from the postoffice at Dillinger, Fayette County.

Both were said to have made confessions to postoffice inspectors and to have admitted receiving the forgeries from a Negro they know only as "Joe." Miss Wylie was said to have passed two orders, each for $25, on a Fifth avenue merchant and a McKees Rocks grocer. Smith admitted, it was said, to passing a $25 order on a Wylie avenue poolroom proprietor.

Miss Wylie told postoffice inspectors that after passing one order she wanted to quit, but was told by "Joe" that she was "now in the racket" and that he threatened her. Each said that after using the forged orders in making purchases they divided the change with Joe.

The postal authorities said that forged orders stolen from the Dillinger postoffice have been passed in Cleveland, Buffalo, New York, Pittsburgh and other cities.

TWO FASCISTS BOMB VICTIMS

GENOA, Italy, July 16.—(AP.)—The wounding of two Fascist officials by the explosion of "mail order fountain pens" caused authorities to mobilize political police today in a search for the perpetrators.

A bombing plot against leaders of the regime was said to have been discovered several days ago, but efforts to trace the instigators have been fruitless. Postal authorities were working on the case in the hope of finding a clue in the mails.

The victims were injured when they unwrapped packages mailed them last night. Cleverly disguised as fountain pens, they exploded in the men's hands and inflicted severe wounds. A bomb went off on the docks earlier in the day, but no one was hurt.

Fascist leaders were warned not to open mailed packages, but to bring them to police headquarters for examination.

FEAST HONORS CANDIDATE

The custom of judges who "run on their records" when candidates for re-election, was assailed by Attorney Thomas M. Marshall, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court, speaking at a banquet of the Fourteenth District of the Twenty-seventh Ward, at 3925 California avenue, last night. The banquet was arranged by John Fitchwell and Samuel Cammorata. The speaker said:

"The habit of 'running on one's record' is not to be commended. Nobody has time to go into the records of judges and other candidates to see whether they are fit to hold the office to which they seek election."

Other speakers were District Attorney Andrew T. Park, Attorneys Benjamin Lencher and Michael Musmanno, candidates for judges of the County Court, and Charles Carvotta.

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 16.—(AP.)—One hundred and ten national guardsmen, remnant of a body of 370 sent into the Harlan County coal fields last May, were ordered withdrawn yesterday by Gov. Flem D. A gun battle near Evarts, in which four men were killed, climaxed the disorders.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!*

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead.

Here is what one of America's great scientists, whom we retained to study LUCKY STRIKE'S manufacturing process, says about the mellowing effect of Ultra Violet Rays which are included in our exclusive "TOASTING" process:

"The effects of this ultra violet treatment on the tobacco have been tested and are found to involve an increase in what is called the 'mildness' of the tobacco."

One of America's greatest writers and editors says this:

"When I visited Reidsville and went through the LUCKY STRIKE plant, I found one explanation for the growth of LUCKY STRIKE. Your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of tobaccos is a splendid example of achievement. It is the new order of the day."

Remember, LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America which offers you the throat protection of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process—that secret heating process which expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos, and which includes the extra mellowing benefits of modern Ultra Violet Rays. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple." Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

OLD BOOK LEADS TO GOLD STRIKE

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, July 16.—(AP.)—A book written by a Jesuit priest, a missionary in the Northwest territories 50 years ago, supplied T. G. Donovan a "tip" which he said today led to his discovery of what he calls his "Treasure Island" of ore.

Samples of ore he said he found there have been assayed by University of Alberta experts as containing silver, copper and gold to the value of $1,044.86 a ton. Donovan, a Detroit geophysicist and prospector, brought samples of the ore to Winnipeg and will submit them to the federal Department of Mines.

Donovan made his "find" in the Great Bear Lake area, far north of Edmonton and within 20 miles of the Arctic Circle. Official assays, he said, showed the ore contained "more than 58 per cent uranium," the estimated value of which is approximately $10,000 a ton. Uranium is the world's greatest source of radium.

Fugitive Serves Jail Sentence At Liberty

BALTIMORE, July 16.—(AP.)—A 68-day sentence in the city jail imposed in police court here was served by Andrew Kawalsky in Philadelphia—at liberty.

He escaped from the police van on the way to jail and finally was found in Philadelphia and extradited. When he returned to Baltimore, the seventy-second day since his sentenced, the jail warden refused to accept him as a prisoner. The warden declared:

"He has served his term while at liberty as far as I am concerned."

Kawalsky was returned to the police station and freed after his father paid the fine and extradition charges.

BIG AIR FLEETS SOON TO SPAN ATLANTIC

Williams Cites Europeans' Great Aviation Activity; Urges U. S. to Keep Pace

In two previous interviews Lieut. Williams said America must develop more speed planes and consequently new motors if it wants to keep abreast of Europe. In this, his last interview, he discusses the future of aviation.

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service.

ROME, July 16.—The day is not far off when fleets of airplanes will fly in formation across the Atlantic in perfect safety and thus annihilate the distance separating the United States and Europe.

When that day comes America should be prepared in the air, Lieut. Al Williams, former ace flier of the American Navy, declared today in an exclusive interview with Universal Service.

LESSON FOR U. S.

Individual trans-Atlantic flights by Americans and Europeans, the Graf Zeppelin's round-world flight, the Post-Gatty round-world flight, the Italian formation flight to South America—all these point a valuable lesson to the United States, Williams declared.

As European director of the national air races, to be held in Cleveland August 29 to September 7, Williams has spent the summer studying the aviation problem on the Continent. He said:

"Europe is thinking today in grand terms, in terms of air fleets, not single planes.

"The Italian formation flight to South America under the leadership of Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian air minister, is the forerunner of the time when foreign air fleets will drop into New York harbor. I can already picture an Italian air fleet swooping out of the sky and anchoring in the Hudson.

ITALY BUILDING

"Italy is building. Italy is coming along fast in the air. The Italian government is air-minded.

"What is true of Italy is generally true throughout Europe. Europe knows perfectly well that if there is another war it will be started on the ground, but it will be finished in the air.

"I was particularly impressed by the intense but quiet air development in Italy and by the Italians' unspoken determination to carve Italy's future in the air.

"Leading and directing, Gen. Balbo is living today as many young men are dreaming of living—in the air. He is young; he has the inspiration to know what he wants and the authority to do it.

"Leadership is essential. Aviation is like a string—it can be led anywhere, but it can't be pushed one millimeter."

Arnold School Camp Pupil-Anglers Return

The first group of visitors to Arnold School's summer play camp returned to the city last night after spending a three-day fishing trip at Jones Mills, between Mt. Pleasant and Somerset. Donley U. Mollenauer, an associate instructor at the school, is in charge of the camp. The second group of students was to leave for the camp today.

COME TO THIS HAPPY LAND

"FOREIGN Adventure this Side the Atlantic

DO YOU realize that you can well afford a prolonged journey through a fascinating foreign land? French-Canada is just across the line, but how very different from any country you have visited. You will see it all in luxurious manner, from the wide decks of large modern steamers. Your cabin will be your home, complete with every convenience. Without sense of motion your ship will glide down the mighty St. Lawrence River, in and out of strange bays and up the ever-glorious waters of the Saguenay.

From Toronto, the famous Saguenay cruise includes visits to many interesting places among which are the Thousand Islands, the St. Lawrence Rapids, Montreal, Quebec, fashionable Murray Bay and quaint Tadoussac — the largest cities in Canada to its earliest settlement—from inland waters alive with modern shipping to the wild and lonely grandeur of the Saguenay.

Write for illustrated folder, Niagara to the Sea, which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.

Both the Fox Chapel Golf Club and the Allegheny Country Club are popular place on Saturday night when they hold dinner dances. Longue Vue Country Club serves dinners on the shady terraces of the clubhouse on Saturday nights, but the regular Saturday night dances will not begin until fall.

Congress Affair To Be Repeated August 11

So delightful and successful was the bridge breakfast given yesterday at the Congress of Clubs that another similar affair has been decided upon for Tuesday, August 11. Fifty-six tables were in play following the breakfast for which Mrs. Milton C. Reno, house manager, had prepared a somewhat novel menu beginning with blackberry-filled canteloupe and finishing with hot cookies.

There were lovely table favors of black glass rose bowls and the pretty decorations were brought in by Mrs. J. E. White from her own gardens. The new members of the board of directors arranged and managed the affair, Mrs. Thomas P. Otto serving as general chairman, with Mrs. White, Mrs. William E. Morgan, Mrs. H. C. Breidert, Mrs. C. W. Whitesell and Mrs. Sherman Massingham assisting in various capacities. Mrs. Massingham came in from her summer home at Conneaut Lake for the day.

Tables were placed in the two dining rooms, the lounge and the auditorium, some of the lounge furniture having been moved upstairs to the auditorium to give it a less formal air.

PRACTICAL SPORTS FROCKS FAVORED FOR DAYTIME WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 16. — The popularity of the sports frock continues unabated. Somehow it seems that the trig lines of such a frock suggest the businesslike, trim, neat woman that one sees everywhere. That every important designer and every small house include a whole section of sports clothes in each and every collection is proof that such frocks have come to stay. For most women prefer to spend the day in simple, well-tailored frocks of practical appeal and charm, rather than wear the fussy, dressy clothes that used to signify smartness. It seems difficult to believe that we will ever return to such clothes. We are far too proud of our svelte figure and want to wear clothes that are expressive of our slim proportions. And what better choice could be made than the frock that we have dubbed "sports" frock for want of a better name to characterize its utility, verve and chic?

* * *

THE NEW sports frocks would make even the most languid woman ambitious to get out each day for a brisk constitutional. Especially is this so of the sports frocks created by Chanel. Sketched is one of her newest models in natural jersey with white pique collar, tie and cuffs. The removable bolero has two patch pockets and two pockets are worked into the tops of the wide panels of the slightly flaring skirt.

MOBS IN INDIA RAID OFFICIALS

BOMBAY, July 16.—(AP.)—The Evening News of India today reports that grave riots occurred at Pudukotai, capital of the state of Pudukotai, yesterday.

A mob of thousands attacked public offices, the reports said, and committed incendiarism. Overpowering the police and military, the crowd stormed the jail, released all the prisoners, disabled the police commissioner and attacked the residence of the president of the council administration.

A detachment of a Punjabi regiment was dispatched from Trichinopoly this morning.

It was reported the trouble was stirred up by rowdy elements, ostensibly in protest against a proposal to increase property taxes.

He is the last occupant of a throne reputedly 600 years old and the last member of a 300-year-old dynasty.

The insular legislature on convening today heard Davis urge the people of the islands to turn their efforts from political to economic problems.

No laundering with KLEENEX

New, disposable tissues to be used once, then destroyed... less expensive than laundering

YOU don't like to wash handkerchiefs. Neither does anyone else. And lots of women stopped this disagreeable task the moment they learned about Kleenex.

There's no washing with Kleenex. And no using a dirty handkerchief over and over.

Kleenex is a gentle tissue, that costs so little you use it just once. Then you destroy it. Nothing to launder. No germs to store away in your pocket or in your laundry bag. No damp handkerchief to irritate, as does the ordinary handkerchief during hay fever or colds.

Doctors advise Kleenex

Think how much more healthful these new tissues are. There's no self-infection as with a handkerchief used many times.

Children especially need the protection of Kleenex—because they are so careless with handkerchiefs. And they prefer it, for its softness, and because they need not fear losing handkerchiefs.

So many uses

Use Kleenex for removing face creams, as authorities advise. Its great absorbency assures thorough cleansing of the pores.

Motorists like to keep a package in the car. Mothers find Kleenex useful in the nursery.

Kleenex comes in tints as well as white; in Cellophane-wrapped packages to keep tissues absolutely fresh and clean. The convenient package permits easy removal of tissues with one hand. At all drug, dry goods and department stores.

HAY FEVER VICTIMS

You'll appreciate the softness and absorbency of Kleenex.

If you have hay fever . . . if you know one who suffers . . . invest in a package of Kleenex at once. It is impossible to describe the greater comfort of these dry, gentle, absorbent tissues. Do not put up with damp, irritating handkerchiefs another day. (And, remember, Kleenex costs less than laundering.)

MOTHER WINS BOY'S CUSTODY

Mrs. Mildred Blackstock, 419 Olivet avenue, regained the custody of her son, Albert, 4, when her habeas corpus action against her husband, Albert Blackstock, and his mother, Mrs. Frances Blackstock, 28 Sedgwick street, Millvale, was called in Common Pleas Court.

Judge James H. Gray, informed an agreement had been reached whereby the son would be given to his mother with the father granted the right to visit him, issued an order approving the agreement.

The Blackstocks parted July 3, when Mrs. Blackstock took her son to her mother's home. Later in the day her husband forcibly took the child and placed him in the keeping of his paternal grandmother, whose advanced age made it impossible for her to give proper attention to the boy, the suit charged.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

NEW YORK, July 16.

AMONG THE STORIES in my recent book, "Moon Over Broadway," was one titled "Reformation." It had to do with a gentleman who had been passing bad checks ever since he was able to hold a pen. He was a fine conversationalist and a glib talker, however, and he had the knack of making friends easily. So convincing was he, in fact, that two weeks after he had completed one of his prison terms he returned to the jail and cashed a phony check with the warden!

There were a great many people who didn't believe that story, and I can't say that I blame them much. Unless you knew the convict in the case, it would be rather difficult to understand. The man is perfectly normal—aside from that one strange failing. He never will be able to resist the temptation of cashing a bum check.

If I were a great psychologist, perhaps I would be able to explain the man more definitely. All I know, however, is that everyone of us has a silly little quirk somewhere in our makeup. Some of us like to ride in merry-go-rounds. Some read Broadway columns. Other folks like spinach. I once met a guy who got a thrill when he slapped sunburned people on their backs. In another way, then, it's the same thing with the character I write about. Daffy in just one direction.

At any rate, this particular forger—whom I called Joe in my other story and who might as well continue with the same name—has never been a violent criminal. He would spend a short term in some jail and then continue on his merry way until the police nailed him once again. His checks, of course, were generally under $100. He was smart enough for that.

And so it had gone through the years. He lived only for his parties—and for the opportunity of handing out his next bit of bad paper. He never worried about bills because he always paid by check. And he never worried about his future because he knew the courts would take care of him for years at a time until he passed into the next world.

Although Joe liked the gals as well as the next forger, he stepped into matrimony but once. That was some years back and it occurred when he was hilariously celebrating his latest release from jail. Both the marriage and the hilarity came to an end four days later when his father-in-law had him arrested. Joe, it seems, had given the old man a bad check for his honeymoon money.

And now let me proceed with my story. About five months ago Joe was again taken into custody by a friendly few policemen and sentenced to two familiar years. When he reached the prison practically everyone but the new inmates hailed him with delight. He was a popular bird. And even though you knew all about him, you had to like him.

But, in a nearby office, several prison authorities were studying his record and shaking their heads.

"This man," said one of them, "should be examined in regard to his sanity. Some action should be taken in his case. Look at this report. He is no sooner out of jail than he's in again. Something must be done."

And something was done. Two days later Joe was called before four learned gentlemen who were there to study his case. The four gentlemen were eminent criminologists. And eminent criminologists, in case you do not follow your headlines, are birds who know all about crime.

They began to question Joe. They ask him about this, that and the other thing. Whenever he replied, they looked at each other and nodded significantly. A few minutes of this and Joe began to be plenty bored. He yawned and gazed out of the window.

One of the experts stood up suddenly.

"What are you thinking about?" he cried rapidly.

Joe grinned.

"Look at that blue sky, gentlemen," he replied. "Isn't it beautiful? Isn't it a dream?"

The expert followed up his advantage.

"But why?" he insisted. "Why do you think it is so beautiful?"

The forger looked steadily at the wise criminologist.

"Because," he chirped happily, "it would make a marvelous background for a check."

The four criminologists leaned back in their chairs. They nodded as though they were on the verge of falling asleep. Joe watched them all with happiness in his heart. He knew what they wanted—and he was giving it to them in fine shape.

"That will be all, sir," said the first expert. "You may go now."

The moment Joe left, the four wise men reached a unanimous agreement. Joe was a moron. Although he possessed an uncanny knack for the passing of bad checks, he had the mentality of a 10-year-old child. There was no argument about it.

"Very well, then, gentlemen," said the chairman. "Our report will be very much to the point. This man should not be in prison. We will recommend that he be placed in a home for mental defectives."

And the other experts nodded in unison. . .

A short time later these same eminent criminologists had another task on their hands. They wanted suggestions on the proper way to run a prison and the best manner in which convicts could be reformed. One of them finally hit upon a brilliant idea.

It was his notion that the best people to question on that score would be the prisoners, themselves. Since they were the ones who were the most concerned, perhaps some of their suggestions would prove of value. The idea was so good that I'm surprised the other three accepted it.

But they did. A questionnaire was drawn up and a number of questions asked. The inmates were requested to spend some time and thought on the questionnaire because they would be the ones to benefit. And, as an added inducement, a cash prize was to be awarded to the winner.

In due time the questionnaires were ready for distribution. The chairman looked at the pile in front of him.

"This, gentlemen," he observed, "is something new in the history of criminology.

"Maybe, in this prison, there is a man who will be able to help us. Maybe there is a brain that is strong enough to grasp the full meaning of the thing we are attempting. We shall see."

The questionnaires were distributed to the inmates. From a prison population of 1,900, there were 100 replies. And if you read your newspapers carefully, you already know the results.

The contest as was duly printed in practically every paper in the United States, was won by a forger who was so clever that he had once cashed a check on a prison warden. His ideas, they said, were remarkable.

I don't know what's become of the commission's request that Joe be sent to a home for mental defectives. Something tells me the papers have been withdrawn . . .

BOROUGH PLANS WATER SYSTEM

Glenfield Council has directed that preliminary plans be drawn for the installation of a water and sewage system in the community.

Acting upon the request of 300 Glenfield taxpayers, council engaged Kaltenbaugh & McClain, Pittsburgh engineers, to draw plans. The petition was circulated by W. L. Kramer, chairman of the borough water commission, at council's request, and gives approval to a bond issue not to exceed $50,000, to finance the work.

Glenfield has depended upon wells for its water supply since it was incorporated in 1875.

Itching Toes ? Burning Feet

If so, you're probably just another of over 10 million U. S. adults suffering with a new foot infection, which, unchecked, quickly spreads to sides and bottom of feet—itching becomes intense.

The popular name for this tormenting disease is Athlete's Foot. You can check the contagious and unbearable misery today with Moone's Emerald Oil, a powerfully penetrating and healing antiseptic, which all druggists dispense. Itching instantly stops. After 2 weeks, feet in healthy condition again—or money back.

An 85-cent bottle lasts 2 weeks and there is nothing better for sore, burning, aching feet.

THE PENALTY OF GRAY HAIR

Gray hair—age—slipping. All these unpleasant ideas seem to go together. Yet, it is not at all necessary. Gray Hair often comes to a young head and people who have it are neither old nor incapable. But how often you hear people say, "Why, she has gray hair!" and—she is on the shelf.

This penalty need no longer handicap the woman who uses Canute Water. This is a clear, spring-like water, of wonderful properties which actually restore hair to its original girlhood color. No complicated "color plan"; no danger of getting brunette shade when your hair is blonde. Not only the one kind but the one bottle is enough. It really is surprising what successful, youthifying results it gives.

Apply Canute Water yourself, in the privacy of your own home. Many women in town are doing the same thing; they simply do not mention it. You need not mention it either. Just buy a bottle from any good druggist—and get rid of the "age penalty" in gray hair. Canute Water is so safe, so scientific and sure that your dealer knows it will satisfy you; if not, he will refund your money. Sold and recommended by Kaufmann's and all Mayflower Drug Stores or your own druggists. The Canute Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

WOMAN SLAYS HUSBAND, SELF

AKRON, O., July 16.—(A.P.)—Opinion that mental derangement caused Mrs. William W. Gorman, 40, to shoot her husband to death and then kill herself was expressed today by Dr. M. B. Crafts, Summit County coroner.

The body of Gorman, 41, physiotherapist and former athletic director of the Cleveland Athletic Club, was found in the garage at their home in West Richfield yesterday and that of his wife with her eyes blindfolded in the basement of their home.

Mrs. Gorman is believed by the coroner to have written several brief notes which she placed about the house and a special delivery letter requesting a Richfield undertaking parlor to cremate their bodies.

Tree Hits Truck, Four Firemen Hurt

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., July 16.—(AP.)—Four members of the Jeffersonville volunteer fire department were injured late yesterday when a large tree crushed the fire truck as it was responding to an alarm in the rural section during a heavy storm. A high wind threw the tree across the highway.

Leon Smith, 38, driver and chief, suffered two broken legs, and Butler Allen, 19, was injured internally. Harold Allen and Bob Tyree were injured slightly.

3 Churches Hold Picnic at Park

The members of three churches were to hold their annual picnics today at West View Park. They are the German Evangelical Church, Smithfield street; the Duquesne Heights Evangelical Church and the Mount Washington Evangelical Church.

Chairmen for the picnics are Otto Prelor, J. H. Campbell and H. F. Leonard. The programs include amusements, sports and an entertainment by Edyth Siegrist's aerialists.

BIALAS DENIES DEALS MADE IN JUDGE RACE

Declares Seven Incumbents Standing Together With No Outside Alliances

Joseph H. Bialas, chairman of the lawyers' committee supporting the joint candidacy of the seven present Common Pleas Court judges who are seeking re-election, today denied reports that any of those candidates had promised to join candidacies with others than among their own membership. He said:

"We have been hearing persistent reports that this or that candidate has lined up for joint support with one or another of the seven present judges. There is absolutely no truth in any such reports or alliances.

"The seven present judges seeking nominations on the Republican ticket in the coming primaries have joined together for mutual support as maintaining one of the traditions of the judiciary.

"The linking of the names of Judges Ambrose B. Reid, Samuel H. Gardner, Joseph Stadtfeld, Sylvester J. Snee, W. Heber Dithrich, William J. McNaugher and John P. Egan, with other candidates, has been done without their permission. They stand together, one for all and all for one and no other candidates should attempt to gain strength for himself by circulating reports he is allied with one or more of these seven."

Ortiz Rubio to Send Band on U. S. Tour

EL PASO, Tex., July 16.—(AP.)—E. H. Simons, general manager of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, said today that President Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, would send his personal band on a tour of the United States next fall to show his "sentiments toward the American people were most cordial." The band is managed by Ramon Hernandez.

Tokio-California Flight to End In Jail

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—(AP.)—If Don Moyle, 28-year-old aviator of Arlington, Cal., makes a successful air trip from Tokio to Los Angeles, he'll have something besides fame awaiting him. It will be a 30-day jail sentence.

Moyle appeared before Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer to enter a guilty plea to driving his automobile while intoxicated. The court granted probation for three years with the 30-day jail term as one condition.

When Moyle's attorney pointed out the defendant has completed all arrangements for a flight from Tokio to Los Angeles at great expense to himself and his backers, the judge agreed to suspend the sentence until the flight is finished.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. ©1931, Carter Medicine Company.

Avalon's Woman Tax Collector Resigns

BONDING FIRM APPOINTS DEPUTY

Mrs. Marie G. Scott Had Held Office Since 1926; Council to Pick Successor

Mrs. Marie G. Scott has resigned as tax collector of Avalon after serving since 1926. Her resignation will be presented at a special meeting of the Council tonight, according to borough authorities.

The resignation is in the hands of Borough Solicitor William A. Walker.

Eric B. Logan, a World War veteran, formerly a candidate for the office of tax collector, has been named deputy collector by the American Surety Company, of New York, pending selection of a tax collector by Council, which likely will be tonight.

BOOKS "CONFUSED"

An audit of the tax books showed them to be in a confused state, according to William Caddick, borough auditor. The books are now in possession of the surety company, he said, which is understood to be making an audit of its own account.

The collector to be named will serve Mrs. Scott's unexpired term, expiring in 1933.

Mrs. Scott, who twice won a hard fight for collector against a field of candidates, referred requests for a statement to Attorney Earl E. McMonigle.

McMonigle said:

"Nothing to say at present."

BOROUGH PROTECTED

Borough Solicitor Walker said:

"The borough will not lose a penny, as it is protected by a bond of $72,000, equivalent to the entire tax duplicate."

Borough authorities said Mrs. Scott undoubtedly is honest, but that her books were in such a "mixed up" condition that the status of her accounts could not be determined clearly.

The surety company took over the books last Monday, it is said, under authority of an act of 1929, without consulting the borough authorities.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

CHELSEA, Okla., July 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Around big cities nowadays you read of nothing but the plight of Germany and how their finances can be saved. But when you get out here in the agricultural region you read of what's happening at home. Another drought looks like it's going to kill off the corn crop. Oats 15 cents a bushel. If food is not cheaper than it ever was then somebody is making money and it isn't the farmer. He can't abandon the farm, he hasn't got enough to move to town on. Some of our optimistic after-dinner speaking financiers of the East ought to try making a living and those speeches on 35 cents a bushel wheat. Yours, WILL.

Telling Her Parents About Study Under Ysaye

VIOLA BLANCHE MITCHELL
Miss Mitchell, pictured at her home, 1137 Wightman street, playing on a borrowed violin. She left hers in Europe, where she studied under famed Eugene Ysaye, late violin master.

Girl Who Studied Under Ysaye Likes Jazz, But Only for Relaxation

Viola Blanche Mitchell is practicing today on a borrowed violin.

Miss Mitchell returned to Pittsburgh Monday after an absence of three years, during which time she appeared in violin concerts on the continent.

It was her second visit to America since she left, six years ago, a girl in her 'teens, to study under the late Eugene Ysaye, noted violinist.

At the home of her father, Dr. Atlee D. Mitchell, 1137 Wightman street, she tells friends that she left her own violin behind, in Belgium. She has borrowed an instrument from a friend, practices on it. She says:

"In the fall, I return to Europe for a series of concerts. Meanwhile, I must practice. For two weeks I have been without my practice; I'm thoroughly rested and ready to begin again."

Miss Mitchell talks in the clipped voice of an American who has been speaking a foreign language for years. Short, auburn-haired, pale of countenance, unaffected, she seems greatly interested in jazz, not too much interested in the political situation in Europe. She says:

"Jazz? I like it, for relaxation. But it is not music, it is rhythm. The Europeans are copying American jazz. It's not a good copy. But it is not serious enough for me.

"Jazz seems to be in the blood of America."

For something more than a year and one-half, Miss Mitchell says, Germany, most music-loving of nations, has been losing its small-town orchestras and opera companies due to the depression. Even noted musicians, she says, have been hard put to obtain concert engagements. But things will be better, she hopes, when she returns to the continent in the fall, where she already is slated for a number of concerts.

Several generations of her family, on both sides, Miss Mitchell says, have been music lovers and musicians.

Paths of Glory Are the Direct Route to Gravy

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The paths of glory still lead to the gravy.

Municipal, state and federal investigations indicate that there is too much of the same gravy on too many chins.

This has been a bumper year for payroll padding, contract peddling, lease selling and claim jumping. When the office seeks the man these days the man has to have $5,000 in unmarked bills.

In return he gets a three-thousand-a-year job. By careful economy, fortunate investments and a legacy left by his old blind aunt, he saves $100,000 the first year.

This attracts the spasmodic attention of the reformers. The resulting investigation proves there is something rotten in Denmark and it ain't an egg.

Thereupon, the reformers are swept into office on the wave of popular resentment, consolidate their positions and are immediately indicted for malfeasance in office and financial capers in the corridor.

In the old days a faithful public servant was pensioned on half-pay at the age of 70. Now, the boys retire at 35 with everybody's pay.

And we can't prove whether it's dishonesty or simply impatience.

Drys' Eavesdropping Fails To Win in Court Appeal

When one secretly listens or causes others to listen to a private conversation, he should not complain if it is not complimentary to him.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals so held in an opinion affirming the decision and order of Judge R. M. Gibson of the Federal District Court, in which he had set aside Prohibition Administrator J. D. Pennington's revocation of permits of the Barr Manufacturing Company, Tyrone, Pa., to withdraw denatured alcohol for manufacturing purposes.

The comment on eavesdropping referred to prohibition agents, who, concealed in a downtown hotel room adjoining that of a representative of the company, heard him express his views of the "assistant administrator."

The opinion read, in part:

"At all events, Barr's personal opinion of the assistant administrator, while offensive to the officer, was not an offense against the national prohibition act, nor was it a ground for the revocation of the company's permits."

Two permits of the company, allowing withdrawal of 55,000 gallons of denatured alcohol, were revoked March 11, 1929 by Pennington. The company appealed to the district court and September 25, 1929, Judge Gibson handed down a decision that the revocation was illegal, and directed the prohibition authorities to restore the permits. The prohibition officials appealed to the circuit court.

The Barr company is a large manufacturer of toilet articles. Prohibition officials charged some of the company's products had been diverted into illicit channels and redistilled.

BAND CONTRACT LET TO KLINE'S FRIENDS

Nirella, Pasetti, Favored By Mayor, Get Park Jobs; Lang's Proposal Overruled

Bands of Danny Nirella and Charles Pasetti will furnish music for the city's summer park concerts, it was announced this morning by Director Edward G. Lang of the Department of Public Works, terminating the long controversy climaxed yesterday in a hearing in City Council.

Lang announced today that contracts that had been awarded Nirella and Pasetti, favored by Mayor Charles H. Kline, Lang had previously recommended that the contracts be split up among all of the bidders.

Speaking for the Mayor's music committee, at the hearing, David I. McCahill told Council that in the committee's opinion only Nirella and Pasetti were considered in Pittsburgh as the "best band conductors." Charges that political favoritism influenced its recommendations were denied. McCahill said:

"While this committee is appointed by the Mayor, he has never during his five years in office attempted in any way to influence its decisions. The committee assumes full responsibility for its recommendations."

McCahill declared Lang's proposal to split the contracts to relieve unemployment was "absurd."

All the rejected bidders, he said, have other occupations besides music.

BLAST SECOND IN DISTRICT IN TWO DAYS

Follows Bombing of Barbecue Man's House; Firemen Find Gasoline, Open Gas Jets

Police and fire officials today were investigating the second explosion in two days which rocked the McKeesport district. Occurring during the night, the second blast damaged the interior of a three-story frame apartment house at 924 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport.

Early yesterday a bomb placed in the home of Orrest Crystol, on Pittsburgh street, East McKeesport, demolished the building and shattered windows for a distance of four blocks.

FIRE PLOT HINTED

Firemen from Engine Company No. 1, under Capt. Albert Watson, when they answered an alarm, said they found two five-gallon cans, a large milk can and a sprinkling can filled with gasoline, a bucket filled with rags and cushions and paper saturated with gasoline distributed in various rooms. Gas jets all over the house had been opened, they said. The house is owned by Mike Manos, 45, proprietor of the State Restaurant.

The explosion, firemen declared, had been caused by gas, but it did not ignite the gasoline, and the damage, estimated by firemen at $200, was mostly to the apartment on the first floor.

Manos occupied the second and third floors and Gus Vilakus, 35, his wife and child the first floor. Vilakus is chef in Manos' restaurant. Mrs. Manos and her child were visiting at Canonsburg, and Mrs. Vilakus and child were visiting in Cleveland, firemen report. Both men were said to have been at work in the restaurant when the explosion occurred. Slight damage was also done to the home of Irvin Helsel, 926 Jenny Lind street.

Fire Chief M. J. Quinn today said he would ask the county fire marshal to aid in the investigation.

PUSH M'KEES ROCKS PROBE

Meanwhile county detectives continued their investigation of the bombing a week ago of the home of Thomas J. Conley, independent leader, in McKees Rocks.

Three suspects held in the county jail in connection with the bombing of the Conley home, were being questioned today by county detectives. Ten other men arrested following a raid on a McKees Rocks poolroom early yesterday, were released last night.

Those held are Mike Cianacco, proprietor of the poolroom; Joseph Davenjay and Samuel Cittinato, all of McKees Rocks. The 10 other young men were held all day yesterday in the Stowe Township Police Station.

Frank Lackovtich, of Campbell street, McKees Rocks, was released by county detectives last night after being questioned in connection with the bombing. His straightforward story cleared him of suspicion, detectives said. He will be given a hearing tomorrow before Alderman George Anderson on a charge of violating the Snyder ace following the alleged discovery of a still in his home.

Truck Blast Delays South Hills Trolleys

Street car traffic to and from the South Hills was delayed half an hour last night when firemen stretched hose across the tracks at the south end of the Mt. CHILD GUIDANCE LEADER HERE SELECTED

Name Chicago Educator Head Of Clinic Opening Oct. 1; Mental Hygiene Planned

Dr. George J. Mohr, of Chicago, has been appointed director of the newly-organized Pittsburgh Child Guidance Center, Inc., it was announced today by Herbert Spencer, principal of Frick Training Schools.

The clinic, made possible by a Buhl Foundation grant, will be opened October 1, at 3604 Victora street, a location convenient to the Falk Clinic, the dispensary, the Children's Hospital, the University of Pittsburgh and the training school.

According to Spencer, the clinic will not only diagnose delinquents, but will offer instruction in mental hygiene for the guidance of developing children. Its methods will be preventative and constructive rather than remedial, he said.

Its chief concern, he said, will be with the normal rather than the abnormal child, studying normal children against their background of heredity, environment and associates. Recognizing that the mind and the body are inseparable in the growing child and that abnormal mental states affect mental health, the clinic will study children with all the resources of medical knowledge, psychology, psychiatry and sociology, Spencer declared.

Dr. Mohr formerly was clinical director of the Institute for Juvenile Research, under the Illinois Department of Public Welfare. From 1921 to 1925 he was chief of the division of child hygiene in the state of Washington, and in 1925 was appointed to the psychiatric staff of the Institute for Juvenile Welfare.

He has written many articles on mental hygien.

P. R. R. ADOPTS CONTAINER CAR

As the first step in modernization of shipping service the Pennsylvania Railroad is reconditioning 600 flat cars for use as "container cars." The "container car," heretofore somewhat of an experiment, is to be put into general use. It consists of five compartments mounted on a flat car. Each compartment can be lifted from the car and hauled direct to its destination.

In addition to the better hauling facility, the compartment offers a special service to the small shipper whose order does not warrant rental of an entire box car.

The containers are being built by the railroad at Pitcairn, Altoona and Enola. The cars are being reconditioned at New Castle and Erie.

Shaver charged malicious prosecution, and under the law was able to keep Mr. Yarrow in jail by paying 50 cents a day for his board. He paid the board bill each week in advance.

Court Gives Ruling Against Free Gas

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 16.—(AP.)—Judge Davis W. Henderson yesterday held that it was illegal to furnish free gas or any other free service as a consideration for a grant or a right conferred on a public utility.

The decision was made in dismissing an injunction sought by Elizabeth and Samuel Henshaw to restrain a gas company from shutting off gas which had been furnished free after a pipe line had been placed on their property.

FATAL HARLEM RIOT QUELLED

NEW YORK, July 16.—(AP.)—Heavily armed police details patrolled Harlem today as an aftermath of a riot last night between Porto Ricans and Filipinos, in which one was killed and three others either shot or stabbed.

Feeling between the fighting actions reached its climax at Lenox avenue and One Hundred and Thirteenth street where several hundred men milled about.

One Filipino, blamed by the crowd for wielding a knife, was chased several blocks. He sought refuge in a cigar store and telephoned police. The crowd wrecked both the cigar store and an adjoining hat store in trying to get him out.

Charles Corello, a Porto Rican, shot, died in the street.

More than 200 policemen, armed with clubs, tear gas and riot guns, broke through the crowd, rescued the Filipino, and restored order.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Is a Man Taking Chance in Marrying Clinging Vine?

She's "always tired." The doctors say there isn't a thing the matter with her. And Larry—who expects to marry her soon is mystified, too. Maybe if she got a good tonic . . . or went to see another doctor . . .

But the lady won't. Instead, she prefers to crawl around looking like the proverbial "duck in a thunderstorm."

ALWAYS TIRED

And it has Larry up a tree.

If she's such a fadeout as a sweetie, what'll she be as a wife?

"Dear Sally:

"Last night was the first time I have ever read your column, and I sure got an eyeful of that gal who had so much to say about being 'nervous' all the time.

"I know a girl like that. I am engaged to marry her. And I am beginning to wonder. What sort of a wife will she make? She is 'always tired.' She goes to work at 9 o'clock in the morning, and gets off at 5. She has every Saturday afternoon off, too. But still she's tired.'

"I have asked her to take some kind of a tonic—or go to a doctor and see what the trouble is, but she won't do either.

"A doctor who is a friend of mine, and knows her, tells me that there is nothing wrong with her . . . that it is all in her mind.

AN OLD LINE

If it is, and she is like that, or if it isn't and she refuses to make any effort to improve it, what will she be like after I marry her—if I do marry her?

"Honestly, I hate to think of it.

"I hope she reads this and makes up her mind to snap out of it.

"Please give me your opinion.

"LARRY."

My opinion is that the little lady is pulling a very old and effective line which has been used by Us Girls ever since You Boys began hanging around. Namely, she's being a Clinging Vine in order to make you feel like a Sturdy Oak.

And I haven't a doubt that it went over big with you at first, Larry. There never yet was a man who wasn't tickled pink at the thought of the Dear Little Woman's helplessness . . . and there never yet was a Dear Little Woman who couldn't get by with murder by working that "weakness" gag.

In this particular case, I suspect your sweetie hates that job of hers which you consider so easy—hates, in fact, any job. And she is determined to prove to you that she'll be a chronic Broken Blossom if you expect her to do any chores after marriage. She's serving notice, as it were. It doesn't occur to her that you may want a partner as well as a domestic pet. In fact, she probably thinks she is such a treat that you're lucky to get her on any terms. And you've probably said enough fool things to back up her delusion.

CHASE ILLUSION

Well, the best thing you can do now, boy, is to jar her out of that illusion. Tell her just what you do expect in marriage, and advise her to snap out of it and regain the perfectly good health which she probably never lost.

But maybe she really is sick? Yes, maybe she is. Then she'll still be on the doubtful list. For if she hasn't gumption enough to find out the cause of her trouble and get it fixed, she'll make a mighty poor partner for any modern man. Marriage is a serious and difficult job which takes every ounce of spunk and energy that a man or woman possesses. It's no job for ailing or lazy people.

Have your talk with her, Larry. Insist that she either get her health looked into—and straightened up, if it's on the skids—or snap out of her listlessness if it is imaginary.

And then if she won't do it—give her up and look for some girl who is willing to give herself and you and marriage a square deal.

Don't Become Engaged Until You Are Ready to Marry, Fay King Advises

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO GET MARRIED, DON'T BECOME ENGAGED
I DON'T WANT TO MARRY - YET!
LET'S SET THE DAY FOR OUR WEDDING RIGHT NOW!
AN ENGAGEMENT SHOULD BE SHORT AND SWEET
FAY-KING
SEVEN-YEAR ENGAGEMENTS ARE SURE TO SIMMER DOWN TO DUTIFUL SUNDAY DINNER DRUDGERY
WHAT? FRIED CHICKEN AGAIN! I'M SICK OF IT!

By FAY KING

Engagements should always be short and sweet.

Don't become engaged until you are ready to marry. The wedding date should be set at the time or shortly after.

Long engagements are always a stall.

Parents often encourage a long engagement hoping youngsters will fall out of love again.

Some girls become engaged to men they never intend to marry, making the long engagement a proper excuse to accept help and presents. Only good faith makes it fair to accept these presents.

Some men enter into long engagements to enjoy the comforts and economy of being accepted as a member of the family without undertaking any of the responsibilities.

If time is needed to decide don't become engaged.

Long engagements are unfair! You are neither free nor married.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Happy State of Mind a Factor in Good Health

We hear more about health than heaven. To mortal man, surprising as it is, health seems the more important.

But talk about it as we may, we really do little to improve health. In the last analysis, we do about as much to get to heaven as we do to get health.

Dr. Copeland

If it were not for our natural possessions of muscles, nerve and vigor, most of us would be invalids. Yet in spite of all we do in the way of abusing our bodies, we live out the normal expectation. Nature is extremely kind to us.

Really, there are many puzzles in life. Human experience makes us skeptical of the real value of the many things which are heralded as essential to health.

Personally, I am not a bit doubtful of their importance and of what benefits they can give. It would be better for all of us if we could make ourselves observe the simple rules of hygiene. But our memories are short, and yielding to life's temptations is the easiest thing we do. We can resist everything but appetite.

Without conceding a thing as to the importance of these rules of living, I wish to turn aside from the usual preachments about health. I want to ask you today what is the most important thing in your life. What is the most compelling factor in your existence?

What you are, how you act, how your heart behaves, how your food digests, what your general welfare is depends to an amazing degree upon your state of mind. Your happiness or your unhappiness determines your physical state to a remarkable extent.

As I study the problems of existence it seems to me happiness is the really essential possession. There can be no doubt, of course, that the physical and mental states are intimately related. Anything that lowers the vitality affects unfavorably the mental condition.

But to an immeasurable degree the state of mind governs the physical well being. As a man thinketh in his heart so is he. If you can keep that brain of yours functioning along normal lines you will have solved the chief problem of the mysterious thing we call "health."

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

A New Problem Presented at Farmhouse

For a startled second after Mrs. Ticer's whisper to me, I could not imagine whom she meant by "Hallam," whom she said she had seen. Then recollection came flooding over me, and I saw again her stricken face of the preceding winter when she had told me of her strange lodger, who, she was convinced, was one of the men who had broken into the farmhouse and ruined the furniture of Marion's pretty room in an evident attempt to find something of which they were in search. Her terrified grief at that time had been because of her belief that the garrulousness of her son, Jerry, had been responsible for Hallam's knowledge of the interior of the farmhouse. The man had played a clever game with the boy, betting that he could guess the interior plan of a house from a look at the outside, and through Jerry's corrections of his errors when describing the farmhouse he had gained an accurate knowledge of the way the rooms lay which stood him in good stead when he and his confederates gained entrance to the house.

We had had no doubt of Hallam's connection with the attempted burglary—my father had frightened them off before they had found the object of their search. His lack of any real business in the neighborhood, his interest in the interior of the farmhouse, the mysterious theft of the key to The Larches, of which Mrs. Ticer was the caretaker, and its equally mysterious restoration, both of which could be laid to no other door, and finally his going away upon the very morning after the attempted burglary—all of these things had pointed so strongly to his planning of the affair that he had thought of no other hypothesis. When upon the day after the burglary, we had found that The Larches also had been invaded and that the marauders had made that house their headquarters, near which they had hidden their "get away" cars, and from which they patently had sallied forth to the farmhouse, we had been convinced of the truth of our theory. Another confirmation came with the apparently careless comment upon the burglary which the man, Hallam, made before leaving Mrs. Ticer's home, we found out later that he could not possibly have learned of the affair from any other source than participation in it.

"Mark my word, Mrs. Ticer," he had said, "those fellows were after something special. They didn't want money, nor yet jewelry and they won't stop with one try. They'll be back again and the next time they won't fail. Those folks had better get ready to give 'em what they want."

Mrs. Ticer had thought nothing of the comment at the time, but in the light of our later knowledge, she had agreed with me that it was meant as a message to us in the farmhouse. I never had told my neighbor to what I was sure the message referred — the contents of Marion's lock box, the inheritance from her grandmother, and later in that day, when, upon my father's advice, we had taken the box to the bank and placed it in a safety deposit vault, we had been followed and watched by a man in a car which had been parked for hours in the deserted place opposite to us. I had felt secure after that believing that the marauders knew that the box was no longer in the farmhouse.

But this day had brought me a renewal of that old fear concerning Marion's legacy when the Chinese laundryman, who once had been a henchman of Lee Chow, wealthy highborn Chinese friend of Hugh Grantland, had come to me with a demand that I give him the "box with papers." He was in a pitiful state of fright, and had betrayed the fact that "no white men," but Chinese, "velly bad men," were the instigators of the message. Yet, the man, Hallam, had no trace of Chinese blood. Were there two separate bands of thieves trying to get possession of the old lock box, with its secret compartment, or was the frightened messenger mistaken?

The mystery, the terror of the thing, were so obsessing me that for a second or two I had no reply to make to my neighbor. Her voice, unusually shrill, I guessed with design, brought me back to myself.

"Did you ever see more buds on a corey?" she demanded, then whispered hurriedly: "Say something! They're looking!"

"It is, indeed, remarkable," I answered with stilted banality, but it served its purpose, and I spoke to Lillian apologetically.

"Do you mind if I don't go back with you people now? I want to chat with Mrs. Ticer a bit about the pool, and I don't feel quite up to the walk back—just yet. I'd love to sit here and rest."

"Don't be so conceited!" Lillian gibed, affectionately. "We can manage for a few minutes without you. Don't let her talk too much, Mrs. Ticer. She's more apt to tire herself that way than any other."

Mrs. Ticer chuckled, as did everyone else save my father, who remained unsmiling. Whether his dolor was from anxiety over me or from resentment at any raillery, no matter how loving, aimed at me, I could not determine. He did not leave the pool with the rest, but lingered behind and spoke anxiously.

"Isn't there something I can do for you, my darling?"

I took a sudden resolution. This was the opportunity for which I had wished, and I knew that I could dismiss Mrs. Ticer whenever I wished upon an excuse that would not hurt her feelings.

"Yes, father dear, there is," I said. "Please sit down beside me. Mrs. Ticer has something of importance to tell me, which I think you ought to know."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Awkward Necessities for Explanation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a young girl of 18 and I have been going about with a young man for three months. I haven't received a ring from him because we are both young and we do not want to tie ourselves down. Between ourselves we are practically engaged, but none of the family knows it. In a few weeks, I expect to go to a wedding. The bride (my cousin) is counting on my friend going also. He says that it is a breach of etiquette to go if he has not given me a ring. Please advise, is he right, or am I right? G.

I can see no reason why you should not go to the wedding. Indeed, under the circumstances, I think you are very wise not to wear a ring until the engagement has been determined on, and announced. If you did wear a ring, this fact would be commented on, of course, and you would find yourself confronted with awkward necessities for explanation.

Best for the Hostess to Lead the Way

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a hostess and her guests are entering the house or a room, who precedes? That is, does the hostess lead the way or does she let her guests precede in case they are strangers in the house, or frequent visitors?

Here is a boquet for you and your column. It is so very helpful. E. P.

In my opinion it is usually best for the hostess to lead the way . . . and always best for her to do this if her guests do not know her home. She can always do this in a most gracious manner, and I think, it always makes everything easier and more comfortable for her guests. For instance, as she starts to lead the way, she will say, "Will you excuse me if I go first?" or "Perhaps I had best go first and show the way," or "Do you mind if I lead the way . . . it's rather dark here."

If, however, the hostess doesn't agree with me and prefers to have her guests go first, then she should indicate the way: "Will you please go down the hall to the first door on the right?" or "Will you leave your coat in the room on the left, just ahead?"

Thank you for the boquet . . . it was refreshing to have your "posy" from such a lovely country as the one in which you live. I remember it with such special pleasure, and I hope to see it again soon!

The Beauty Box

When using lemon juice as a bleach for freckles, add to it an equal part of rosewater.

Orange juice is a perfect beauty drink. It is good for the health of the teeth, it whitens the complexions, it acts on the intestinal tract.

It is unfortunate when the pores of the skin start in on a policy of expansion. Enlarged pores are not only unsightly, but they are a stubborn beauty ill. Astringents, applied diligently and regularly, will help to correct them. Ice rubs are of benefit. The diet should be deleted of rich foods, fruits substituted for pastries. Laving with alcohol, diluted one half with water, tightens up the skin.

A cold blooded test in a very hot room—

...and it actually used less electricity to do it!

A thousand apartments to be equipped with electric refrigerators... one man charged with the responsibility of selecting the right kind....

Matters of appearance, shelf arrangement, cabinet workmanship, and standing of the manufacturer narrowed the choice to four... Norge and three others. Which of these four would do the best job of refrigerating?

An impartial engineer was employed to make tests. In a room temperature of 120° Fahr., the Norge got cold faster... stayed colder... froze ice cubes quicker

The net result is that a thousand more apartment residents are enjoying the comfort and convenience of Norge Electric Refrigerators

When you are ready to select your electric refrigerator, by all means see the Norge before you buy.

Norge is manufactured by Norge Corporation, Detroit, a Division of Borg-Warner, one of the world's largest makers of automotive parts, including free wheeling.

THE TEST

At 6 p.m.—temperature inside the Norge 92°—room temperature 120°.
At 8 p.m.—Norge temperature 50°—room temperature 120°.
At 11 p.m.—Norge temperature 40°—room temperature 120°.
From then on Norge didn't get above 40°
Norge used least current of all tested.

Norge froze all ice cubes solid and in the least time.

This impartial comparative test is not nearly so extreme as the standard Norge factory test.

For more complete details of this test, write the Norge Distributor whose name and address appears below.

DAVE RUBINOFF IN RUDY'S PLACE

The Loudspeaker

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, July 16.—The best band that has yet been heard on the air is the Boston Symphony Orchestra. It plays with a smoothness and possesses a musicianhip, the bigwigs call it virtuosity, that are not evident in any other group.

Right below the Boston band we would rank the Philharmonic and Philadelphia orchestras. The latter two are probably as well trained, possess as many first class musicians as the Boston ensemble, but they don't seem to give the same superlative performance. Can it be tradition? Can it be that the renown of this band, stretching over so many years, is comparable, say, to the renown of Notre Dame in football, the Barrymores in acting, the California universities in field and track events?

Of all the big liners plying the seas the Leviathan seems most alert to the ballyhoo value of the microphone. Listeners know the Leviathan as they know no other ship . . . Every art in America save that of tattooing has been represented on the air . . . Except in radio announcements we never hear the expression, "war correspondent," any more. Richard Harding Davis was the first to make it the most glamorous of all journalistic pursuits. Davis, were he alive, would probably be one of the most active figures on the radio.

* * *

All visiting royalty sooner or later turns up in M. H. Aylesworth's office. . . . N. B. C. ushers have been trained in salaams, N. B. C. hostesses in courtliness. . . . It's a long time now between first-class drinking songs. And the padlocks are still on the doors of the breweries. . . . Not even a third-rate band can ruin utterly the march from "Aida," the "Toreador's Song" from "Carmen," the "Blue Danube" waltz, the "1812 Overture" of Tschaikowsky. . . . Wonder if Katherine Cornell has radio personality?

* * *

Listed among rare news today is a first-class television story. Yet, there's new prediction from the wizards every week. . . . Pending television, the broadcasters are trying to excite the eardrums with big spots in American history. Eyes are needed to make the big spots exciting. . . . We have yet to hear Joe Frisco on the radio. He might be funny. . . . Then again he might not. So many of the leading comedians are not. . . . Radio could use the zany chatter of Groucho Marx more often, it seems to me.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Living or dead,
A Mother is a Mother still,
The holiest thing in the world.
—Coleridge.

DAVE RUBINOFF, Pittsburgh's favorite network son, brings his orchestra to WCAE waves at 8 o'clock tonight in the absence of Rudy Vallee, whose mother died yesterday . . . Each member of the orchestra is to wear a black arm band as a token of respect and sympathy for Rudy . . . Sisters of the Skillet are due on KDKA at 8:45 . . . Welcome Lewis comes out of retirement for a new program on CBS-WJAS at 9:15 . . . KDKA presents a new feature, the Hitch-Hikers, at 11:30 . . . Have you ever listened to the "Old Stager" on KDKA at 11:45?

Dave Rubinoff

* * *

WCAE has two exceptional features—the first, at 6 o'clock, the submarine test off New London, Conn., and the second, at 9:30, the "Radio Trip," which is network caliber.

* * *

At last a polo game! Ted Husing counts the chukkers Sunday afternoon at 5:15 (WJAS) when two expert polo teams clash in Long Island.

* * *

Question a Day:

Is Earl Waldo, NBC staff basso, the same Waldo who played in "The Miracle" with Rosamond Pinchot?—Verna D., Apollo, Pa.

Answer—Yes. Waldo was born in Meadville, Pa.

* * *

Nick Kenny, flashy radio editor of the New York Daily Mirror, has written another song, "Love Letters in the Sand," which is being spotted by Guy Lombardo, Vincent Lopez, B. A. Rolfe, Dave Rubinoff and Rudy Vallee . . . In New York the street cleaners are whistling it and the bootblacks are playing it on customers' shoes with the cloth . . . Nick wrote the song in collaboration with his brother, Charley, and Fred Coots who scored with "It's a Precious Little Thing Called Love."

* * *

Studio Lights

The Nit Wits are indulging in more "monkey business" than ever before . . . Harry Swan recently brought his pet monkey, Napoleon, into the studio and there was beaucoup calamity when Napoleon stole a march on his owner . . . half an hour later he was found dozing behind the bass drum . . .

Jean, of Mt. Lebanon, suggests that the two local features most worthy of network production are "Riggs and Moke" with their announcer, Fred Webber, and Francis Owen's "Wastebasket" . . .

If you heard a wee whine on WWSW recently when Jaques Hayes, soprano, was singing, think nothing of it . . . it was only Chi-Chi, her pomeranian pup who insists on getting into the studio if he has to mount the transom.

Bill Roberts, 'cellist of the WCAE, has a penchant for blue . . . recently he substituted the string of a tennis racquet for a bass string on his instrument when something went wrong about five minutes before a scheduled broadcast . . . "love" songs respond wonderfully to tennis strings, opines Bill . . .

Capt. Menke's Swiss bell-ringer is tuning up his instruments for an early program on KQV . . .

John McCormack sings from Los Angeles over KDKA next Monday night at 10:30 . . .

Ed Wolfe, Vincent Lopez's retired manager, is the inspiration for CBS's new feature, "The Street Singer" . . .

Bert Lown, the jazz maestro, has christened his new speedboat, Bye, Bye Blues . . .

"Joe and Harry," new team at KDKA, have a female character that sounds very much like "Lena" of "Gene and Glenn" . . .

We could think of no better choice for a reverie songbird than Chauncey Parsons, Pittsburgh tenor, who has been added to Larry Larsen's organ recital on KDKA at midnight . . .

They say that Frank Mulloy at WCAE is looking down the center aisle.

Famous Folks Nervous

Fame and fear go hand in hand before the microphone, according to National Broadcasting Company production men and engineers who have introduced most of the nation's celebrities to radio. The greater they are the greater fear they show at their broadcasting debut, as a general rule, although there are notable exceptions.

Many politicians who have faced crowds fearlessly quiver when brought face to face with that unresponsive black box. Movie stars, the idols of millions, seek flight when asked to entertain those same admirers over the air.

Robert Montgomery Replaces Bill Haines as Star In 'Pig-Boats'

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Harrison Carroll.

HOLLYWOOD, July 16.

Studio announcements, like the promises of stock sales men, are not to be taken seriously.

For some time now, William Haines has been set to do "Pig-Boats," a film glorifying the wartime sub-chasers. But the latest report hands the part to Robert Montgomery. Furthermore, the picture will be a special.

Mr. Montgomery

Montgomery already is scheduled to do "Family Affair," a story dealing with the antagonism of two brothers. M. G. M. makes a departure in this picture by allowing the star to die at the finish.

My information is Jack Conway will direct both "Family Affairs" and "Pig-Boats."

CAUSE FOR COMPLAINT

A certain Hollywood producer always has the same man write his statements for the press. Recently he called in the man and gave him ideas for a story. Something important came up, however, and the publicity man turned over the task to an assistant.

The next day he was called on the carpet. The producer was furious.

"What does this mean?" he exclaimed, waving a clipping. "That's not my style!"

LATEST GOSSIP

Talk of carrying coal to Newcastle. Hugh Herbert is building a swimming pool at Malibu Beach. Producer Howard Hughes is one of the most luxurious of Hollywood yachters. His modest vessel has 18 staterooms and 18 baths. That reminds me, Dick Arlen dropped in on the film capital last weekend for the first time in two months. He's living on his boat.

Clive Brook

Doug Fairbanks has consented for sound and music to be added to "Robin Hood" and "The Thief of Bagdad." The pictures are designed for foreign release . . . Incidentally, Doug plans to include another continent on his next trip. He'll return via South America . . .

Clive Brook gets eight weeks off this fall to visit his family in England. . . . Robert Burns, of the team of "Black and Blue," spent an idle year under contract to Fox. But he's doing better at Universal. In addition to playing a part in "Heaven on Earth," he has written two songs for the picture. . . . is supervising the construction of the sets and is coaching the entire cast in their southern accents. . . . It seems I was wrong about Dorothy Lee buying the house Jimmie Fidler built for her. She's only renting it for a year.

Grotto Auto Club To Fete Veterans

The Islam Grotto Auto Club has completed arrangements for their annual outing for veterans at the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, Aspinwall, Monday, July 27. The club's annual picnic will be held at Rose Grove, North Park, August 19. Charles Brubach is general chairman.

Heroine

Sally Eilers has the heroine role in "A Holy Terror," which will open a week's run Saturday on the Harris screen.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Vincent Barnett, son of Luke, who has been following the same calling in Los Angeles that his father originated here, that of professional "ribber," has been signed to play a comedy role in "Scarface," photoplay to be produced by Howard Hughes, who spent $4,000,000 and several years to make "Hell's Angels."

Small Timer says ordinary folks have the laugh on two-faced ones when it comes to the matter of tooth ache.

Peter Higgins, a Pittsburgh little boy who grew tall as he himself ranged upward in high-note direction, is one of the crew signed for the new Schwab & Mandel musical comedy, "Free For All," which has just gone into rehearsal.

Small Timer asserts that a lot of dry jokes are told by supporters of the wet side of the big argument.

With the "Follies" settled down for a run in the Ziegfeld Theater, New York, Flo Ziegfeld feels that he needs excitement. So he is casting a company to appear in a new musical comedy that will be put into rehearsal August 15.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

I always knew it would happen . . . I mean that Going-to-The-Country-Over-The-Week-End Idea . . . I've always said it, and I say it again . . . I'm a Big City Boy Who Cannot Make Good in The Country . . . They told me: "If you only go for the one night—the ride out there will make you sleepy—you'll rest like a top—and you'll want to eat a hearty breakfast. It'll do you so much good—you'll get some sunshine, too!" . . . So what happened? . . . So this is what happened . . . My nerves went bad over strange and bumpy roads trying to keep up with the host in the car ahead, who thinks it is sissified to go less than 70 miles an hour. . . . The car wasn't the only wreck upon arrival . . . The moment I stepped into his mansion I tripped over a floor lamp wire—knocking the lamp down, and the crash startled me so—the jitters were with me for hours . . . I tossed in bed longer than usual only to fall asleep, and be aroused by—of all things—the twittering of birds! . . . Then the roar of airplane motors followed . . . The good old quiet country! . . . Huh-huh . . . The next afternoon the sun was so devastating it blinded me—and even with all the olive oil smeared on my face—it coaxed no rosy cheeks . . . The sun-tan lamp at the doctor's is surefire . . . You can't depend on the lamp in the skies . . . I guess my own artificial routine of living is best, after all . . . I've been doing it since 1910 and I look better right now than Hellinger—who has been dead five years!

Hugh Walpole's piece on why novels are written is engaging. . . . Some write them for the money, others to express themselves, and many do it for the alleged Fame that goes with writing novels, he said . . . Most of the novels, it seems to me, are written by people who have been carrying a wound too long—and who want to even matters with others who might have "handed them a deal." The Big Idea in novel-writing, from where I'm sitting, is to "expose" somebody . . . Or give the alleged lowdown on someone who Amounts To Something . . . If you're not important, no novelist will take the trouble to scold you or even mention you . . . And the people who would have others believe that they are opposed to "sensationalism" in the "sensational newspapers," are usually the readers of the sensational tomes . . . I don't think I'll bother competing with the boys who sweat for six months or longer putting wordage between covers—only to be told by their publishers that things are dull nowadays and that the royalty statements will have to be suspended indefinitely . . . There's more fun and steady wages in writing nothing in a column.

Columbia Pictures is plotting a "Happiness Drive," is it? . . . And would I, as a "public spirited individual" contribute an opinion to the group—so that the viewpoint might help to restore business conditions and a happy populace? . . . The letter will be included under others entitled: "Why I Am Happy" . . . Well, that's the easiest assignment yet—a cinch . . . I'm happy for dozens of reasons . . . One of them is this heat . . . It puts such pep and zip into a fellow, don't you know . . . And have I got a swell toothache? . . . Oh, boy! . . . I'm simply made about this incessant grind, too . . . It keeps a fellow from betting into mischief, they say . . . Ralph Barton was no chump . . . They elected a good guy to tell others how to be happy, they did . . . So long as they brought it up, how about them telling me how?

Wonder if that lad feels that he goth the best of it, after all? . . . I mean the chap who wagered $500 with a pal at the Club Calais the other midnight that the woman across the way in the attractive outfit wasn't Peggy Joyce . . . When Peggy learned of the wager she helped settle matters by proving she was the One and Only Joyce Woman . . . The loser paid off pronto—arousing Peggy's sympathy, of course . . . So she let him take her out the next evening . . . Wonder how many $500 bills he can go for? . . . Expressions certainly perish quickly . . . Wonder what became of "Makin' Whoopee?" . . . What a lotta fun it was arguing over that one . . . The big wallop used to come with reading the antagonists, who defended the word as being ageless—and then they would spell it "whoopie" or whoppee" . . . They controversied it right into the dictionary! . . . Oh, for a synonym for "Garbo-Gilbert-ing!" . . . I mean one that would pack as much meat as that one had . . . It stood for Love at 100 degrees . . . You couldn't very well say a couple were Vallee-Webbing or Lindbergh-Morrowing and arouse anyone's pash.

It isn't that I am mellowing, at all . . . Perhaps it is because I've found out that nothing is so comical to the average reader as a writer who gets indignant over anything . . . It is really tough competing with those columns on the editorial pages of newspapers—that department dedicated to subscribers who submit sizzling complaints about this or that . . . The newspapers publish them without comment as a rule—dismissing them with the "So what?" attitude . . . Nearly everybody who has a typewriter thrust at him nowadays imagines he must save the community from something. . . . This practice, I suspect, began with the anonymous editorial. . . . I've done it a lot myself—and as I look back over the files—my face gets pink a little . . . Leave 'em laughing, the vaudevillian's slogan, is, after all, the best theme . . . I shall try to follow that henceforth! . . . Reminds me of the time the staff of a rag decided to scold the city officials, the theater, the fashions, and this or that . . . Everybody was writing angrily about nothing—and the monotony of it all was deadly . . . The liveliest column was the obituary department!

There probably would be fewer swelled-heads if some people remembered that Anything Can Happen Tomorrow! . . . That editor, frixample, who told me I had nothing to worry about—that I was all set, etc . . . Mebbeso, mebbeso . . . I've never summed the sitch-ee-ay-shun up that way, however . . . All I can see is that abbreviated pump near the Palace, where I used to rest a pedal while waiting to snap "celebs" with my Graflex . . . My ambition then was to be a photographer, by golly! . . . I told the editor that I'd seen too many people—the victims of sour breaks—who skidded from their perch—back to whence they started . . . Like that lovely Ziegfeld girl, who elevated herself to the post of a mighty executive job at a fancy wage . . . She brought her family on from the mid-west and set them up in style here . . . Everything was honky-dooly for a spell . . . Then suddenly a wholesale massacre took place, and she went out with other fancy-priced executives . . . She may rejoin the Glorified any day now . . . And I think that all columnists and writers, who have their names signed to their pieces every day, should be forced to confess in huge print, "There are many people who do not like this column at all!"

Laughter

Joan Crawford is the star in "Laughing Sinners," picture coming to the Enright Monday for three days.

Jack Diamond In Hearst Newsie

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Jack (Legs) Diamond, who has been written about as extensively as Al Capone and has been photographed as infrequently, is seen in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News now being shown at leading theaters. The New York City gangster was on trial in Troy, N. Y., and it was there that the pictures were made. The enormous crowds that stood for hours waiting his arrival are shown. There also are pictures of Grover Parks, who claimed that "Legs" tortured him.

There are pictures, too, of Rudy Vallee and his bride, who was Fay Webb, of California, and who probably is the most unpopular girl in the country today among the ladies. She is really beautiful, too, and is immensely proud of being Mrs. Vallee.

William Dugan, 27 years old, Philadelphia engineer, tells in an interview with the Globe Trotter, how it feels to die. Dugan, after being "drowned" lay for eight hours apparently lifeless and the doctors declared he had passed into eternity. Dugan tells the Globe Trotter just how he felt at the time he supposedly passed away.

In Siena, Italy, since the year 1260, the populace has staged a horse race around the public square of the city. It was held this year as usual and Hearst Metrotone News presents a thrilling picture of what is declared to be the oldest horse race in history.

The beginning of the making of a Swiss cheese is vividly shown. The first process, it seems, is blessing the cows by a priest. This blessing, which takes place in the Swiss Alps, is shown.

United States Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, is shown adopting that is probably the most unusual method known to get to a golf links. He summoned an autogiro that landed directly on the lawn.

Throngs from all sections of Australia are seen and heard as they attend the great Corpus Christi festival in New South Wales.

Cameraman Stoned

When somebody takes a shot at a newsreel cameraman, that's news, too.

This happened a few days ago when Dixie Alberini, who turns a crank for Paramount Sound News in Italy, dodged a brick hurled by Gabriel D'Annunzio, noted playwright, poet and novelist. The incident took place just after D'Annunzio had refused to award a gold cup to the winner of a motorboat race which he had sponsored. He refused to make a statement for the press and when Alberini set up his camera in hope of getting an impromptu shot, the author of "The Triumph of Death" picked up a brick and shied it at the machine.

Queen Picks Jazz, Wales Tango for Ball Tonight

LONDON, July 16.—(AP.)—The Argentine tango and modern jazz are to have their share on the dance programs at the royal ball in Buckingham Palace tonight, the first to be held there since 1924.

Queen Mary, charged with selection of the music by ancient court precedent, is understood to have asked that "The Peanut Vendor," which has become popular at London dances, be played.

At the suggestion of the Prince of Wales, who learned to admire the rhythmic qualities of the tango during his recent South American trip, "Rosalita" and "Hawaiian Stars Are Gleaming" probably will be played for those who can dance them.

Other old favorites which will echo through the palace's marble halls are: "River, River, Stay Away From My Door," "I'm Alone Because I Love You" and "Girl of a Million Dreams." Besides these there will be the perennial "Blue Danube," "Nights of Gladness" and "Wiener Blut."

Officers attending have been warned they will have to dance without their swords, which sometimes impede dancing and are a constant hazard to the flimsy gowns of their dancing partners. The swords will be parked on gilt chairs around the edge of the ballroom.

The ball will be opened with the customary royal cotillion and quadrille. Their majesties will lead the royal procession, which probably will reach the supper room just before midnight. While there will be one or two tables, almost everyone will eat standing.

Among probable guests are Princess Ingrid, of Sweden, who is making a visit to London; former Queen Victoria of Spain, and former King Manuel of Portugal.

BRAME PHILS' FOE TODAY

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Philly Star's Greatness Rated Above Simmons. Shires Due to Return. Career of Donoghue. Bespectacled Jockey. Chocolate's Comeback.

KLEIN WHOLE BALL CLUB IN HIMSELF

THE SUCCESS OF the Pirates in knocking off the Phillies for three in a row, after losing the first game of the series by a 1-to-0 score, did not obscure the individual greatness of that Chuck Klein. Even in defeat, the brilliance of the Philly star could not be kept hidden. On the contrary, and in spite of the fact that he did not do any home-run hitting to give himself slugging prominence, Klein stood out in the first four games more impressively than ever.

Chuck Klein

With each succeeding visit to Pittsburgh, Chuck leaves local fans more firmly of the opinion that there isn't a better ball player in the U. S. A. It was in a jesting way a couple of years ago that somebody raised the question as to whether the Phils would be willing to trade Klein for Al Simmons, of the A's, if such a swap were possible. But the suggestion of an exchange of that kind would no longer be considered a joke. In fact, the longer you watch Klein at work the more inclined you feel to cast a vote for Chuck as being superior to the star of the Macks.

ONE THING THAT would give Klein an edge on Simmons is his speed. In spite of his size, the Phils' outfielder can get over the ground like a greyhound. On top of that, he has more fight and hustle than Simmons. That's a trait that would cause him to stand out ahead of his fellow National League outfielders, even if other things were equal.

It's not an easy matter for an outfielder to rank as the most valuable player in his league, and there is an attest to Klein's greatness in the probability that he would be given that award by a big majority if it were put to vote of fans or critics today. There is nothing that enters into the makeup of a surpassing ball player that Chuck hasn't got.

IT'S NOT ONLY as the home run king of his league that Klein stands out. He is far ahead of all rivals in runs and hits, and with a batting average of .364 up to today continued to lead the swatters of the Heydler circuit.

His totals of 81 runs scored and 123 hits made in 84 games are particularly impressive. Averaging practically a run scored per game, with a less lively ball in use this year and run-getting greatly reduced, is a most extraordinary performance.

AND AT THAT, you can't see Klein's full worth in figures. He has got to be seen on the field to be appreciated, for he is continually fighting and hustling, grabbing extra bases, pulling star catches and stops on the defensive, and in general making himself a plague to the opposition. The Phils made only 10 runs in the first four games of the present series, and Klein scored five of them. They made only 27 hits and Klein accounted for six of them in 14 times at bat, an average of .429. He was just as good against Southpaw Larry French as against the right-handers earlier. Just about a ball club in himself.

IT IS SO close to being a certainty that Art Shires, reformed clown and play boy, will be back in the big show next season, that the St. Louis American League club, owning the Milwaukee club, where Shires is now playing, is already giving notice of the price that will be demanded for him.

Art Shires

Phil Ball declares that if the Browns decide not to take Shires for their own use they will insist that the major part of price for him be paid in playing material. Art is subject to draft, but it is a foregone conclusion that he will be figured in a sale before drafting time arrives. American Association averages show how vastly Shires has improved. In 76 games he has scored 63 runs, made 120 hits for a total of 176 bases, his wallops including 25 doubles, five triples and seven home runs, and his batting mark has soared to .390.

ALEXANDER F. DONOGHUE, former baseball player of this city, who died in the Allegheny General Hospital this week from injuries suffered in an automobile accident, never reached the major leagues in his diamond days but for seven years was a prominent figure in the minors.

John H. Gruber, official scorer at Forbes Field and one of the country's foremost baseball archivists, finds that during his active career the late Pittsburgher played professionally for nine cities in eight different leagues.

IN 1886 AND for part of 1887, Donoghue, an outfielder, was with Altoona in the Pennsylvania State League; during the latter part of 1887 and all of 1888, he was with Canton in the Ohio State League; 1889, Easton in the Central League and Lowell in the Atlantic League; 1890, Altoona in the Eastern Interstate, Washington in the Atlantic Association, and Lebanon in the Eastern Interstate and Atlantic leagues; 1891, Lebanon in the Eastern League; 1892, St. Paul in the Western League until the club disbanded and later with Fort Wayne in the Western League, and Atlanta in the Southern.

WASHINGTON WAS NOT in a major league when Donoghue played there. The national capital had been in the National League for four years, but in March of 1890 the entire club jumped to Buffalo in the Players' League. Washington then put a club in the Atlantic Association, which Donoghue joined.

Among the Washington players who jumped to Buffalo was Connie Mack, now manager of the world champion Athletics. When the Brotherhood disbanded after the 1890 season, Connie joined the Pittsburgh Nationals to become one of the most famous catchers in the country. He was made manager of the Pirates to succeed Al Buckenberger late in 1894 and headed the team until the close of the 1896 season.

THE WEARING OF spectacles in sports competition is not confined to Eddie Tolan in footracing, Howard Kinsey in tennis, or Chick Hafey, Danny MacFayden or Mark Koenig in big league baseball. Even the turf has a performer who has been successful under similar conditions.

Kid Chocolate

Jockey Johnny McCoy suffered an eye injury at the Latonia track eight years ago and for a time it was feared he would lose his sight. But he returned to the game with the aid of spectacles, and in spite of his handicap he rides 400 races a year and gets his share of winners.

THEY DO COME back in the fight game sometimes. It may be argued that Kid Chocolate never really went away, but he surely looked pretty well washed up last year, when Jack (Kid) Berg, Fidel La Barba and Battling Battalino defeated him in the order named. Yet here he is today sitting on a champion's throne by virtue of his technical-knockout victory over Benny Bass in the seventh round of their Philadelphia bout last night for the world junior lightweight crown. Bass, who took the title from Tod Morgan on December 20, 1929, isn't as good as he used to be, it is said, but there is no denying that only a high-grade fighter in top form could stop him. Chocolate's feat is enough to demonstrate that his off-spell in 1930 was only temporary and to re-establish him as a dangerous contender for a more pretentious championship than the synthetic title which has fallen to him.

CUBAN SCORES TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—(AP.)—Keed Chocolate, the polished ebony warrior from Cuba, stood today on a modest pedestal, a champion everywhere but in New York state, king of the junior-lightweights.

The slender, grinning Havana newsboy scored a technical knockout over Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, before 15,000 of the home folks in the National League ball park last night to rise to the championship heights that had been forecast for him ever since he arrived in New York from Cuba three years ago. It isn't much of a championship, a synthetic title at best, but it eased in part much of the disappointment that had been the patent leather Keed's in shooting for the greater crowns of fistiana in his short, but brilliant career.

Chocolate was a champion last night of almost any of the lighter classes as he put together all his speed, skill and punching powers to hammer Bass for two seconds short of seven rounds, slash him about the face, mouth and nose and finally cut his left eyelid so badly with crashing rights that Referee Leo Houck stopped the one-sided duel after 2:58 of the seventh.

In only the fourth round was Bass able to reach Chocolate with his looping left hooks to the body. In every other session but the first, which was even, he took a smashing.

Chocolate weighed 125½ pounds, well within the featherweight limit, while Bass, at 128½, was just short of the junior-lightweight limit of 130 pounds.

Dr. W. B. McClelland, of Pittsburgh, new boxing commissioner, and Dr. Jock Sutherland, Pitt football coach, were ringside spectators. The semi-final, between Archie Bell and Vidal Gregorio, was stopped at the end of the seventh round and declared a draw to permit the main bout to go on at the scheduled time.

RABBIT FOOLED BY OLD TRICK

Associated Press.

You would think that such a seasoned campaigner as the 38-year-old Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, of the Boston Braves, had long since learned not to fall for anything as venerable as the hidden ball trick.

But it was none other than the sprightly Rabbit who was trapped by this oldest of baseball legerdemain yesterday as the Cincinnati Reds won a brilliant 1-to-0 pitching duel from the Braves. But for Maranville's lapse, there might have been a different result.

Coming up in the ninth, after John Ogden had held the Braves to four hits and no runs for eight innings, the Rabbit singled, went to second on a wild pitch and was in position to score the tying run. Then he forgot himself, wandered off the bag, and was tagged out with ease and dispatch by Joe Stripp, Cincinnati third baseman.

The Brooklyn Robins came back to square accounts with the St. Louis Cardinals, 10 to 3, when Watson Clark chalked up his seventh straight victory.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: CHERRAPUNJI—THE WETTEST SPOT ON EARTH—Cherrapunji, in Lower Assam, India, is remarkable for its excessive humidity. The country is dotted with numerous bodies of water, while its extensive forests favor evaporation and condensation. As a result, Assam—and particularly this little area of approximately 110 square miles—is the wettest spot on earth. Enough rain fell here in 1861 (905 inches) to submerge the whole state of Rhode Island under 10 feet of water. JOHN BALAZS SKATED 1,100 MILES IN 231 HOURS—Balazs, whose home is in Elyria, O., has been dubbed "The Flying Shoemaker," because of the goal he has set for himself of "300,000 miles on skates in seven years." Recently he roved 14,000 miles over the roads of the United States—from coast to coast—in a single trip.

TOMORROW: THE WOMAN WHO HAS SEEN EIGHT GENERATIONS OF HER FAMILY.

SERAFIN COPS STATE OPEN

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—(AP.)—Felix Serafin, 26-year-old professional from the Country Club of Scranton, Pa., won the open golf championship of Pennsylvania yesterday with a 72-hole score of 287 over the Philadelphia Cricket Club's Flourtown course.

Serafin, a former caddie, had consecutive rounds of 76-70-71-70 in the two days' play. He was two under par in the last three trips.

He finished three shots ahead of Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., winner of the championship in 1929 and 1930. Dudley's total of 290 gave him second money by the margin of one stroke over Joe Turnesa, White Plains, N. Y., and Aubrey Boomer, St. Cloud, France. Boomer, who led the field by six strokes at the 36-hole mark, with a sub-par score of 140, slumped and had consecutive rounds of 78 and 73.

Serafin was tied for second place with Olin Dutra, of Los Angeles, when play began yesterday. Both clicked off par 71s on the third round and took the lead at the fifty-fourth hole juncture, when Boomer slipped. In the final round Dutra needed a 75 for the fifth place total of 292, but Serafin administered a knockout to Old Man Par and banged off a 70. The new champion had six birdies in his double round.

Three players tied at 316 for low amateur medal. They are Charles Reckner, Philadelphia; Thomas Morton, Hollidaysburg, Pa., and C. B. Mitchell II, Woodbury, N. J. They will play off this morning.

CUBS SIGN SCOUT

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP.)—President William Veeck, of the Chicago Cubs, has announced the club has appointed to its scouting staff Johnny (Red) Corriden, until recently manager of the Indianapolis American Association team. Corriden formerly played third base for the St. Louis Browns and later the Cubs.

Voigt Captures Jess Sweetser Victory Cup

ARDSLEY ON HUDSON, N. Y., July 16.—(AP.)—George Voigt, of the Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., won the Sweetser Victory Cup with a grand total of 217 strokes at the end of the 54-hole medal play yesterday. Voigt shot rounds of 69 and 76 to go with his unequal 72 score.

LEHMAN WINS IN WESTERN

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—(AP.)—The defending champion and only middle westerner in the tournament—Johnny Lehman, of Chicago—breezed through his two matches in the Western amateur golf championship here yesterday. He trounced Lloyd Byerly, Portland, 6 and 5, in the morning, and conquered Chuck Hunter, Tacoma, 4 and 2, in the afternoon, the first and second 18-hole rounds of match play.

Others advancing to the quarter finals were Harold Thompson and Jack Gaines, Glendale, Cal.; Fay Coleman, Los Angeles; Dr. O. F. Willing, Don Moe, Rudie Wilhelm and Malcolm MacNaughton, Portland.

In the quarter-finals today Lehman will meet H. Thompson. Other pairings include Coleman vs. Moe, Gaines vs. Willing and MacNaughton vs. Wilhelm.

WOMEN HOLD TOURNEY

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 16.—Close to 50 women golfers will participate today in the annual match for the trophy donated by the women's golf committee for the championship of Nemacolin Country Club. Medal play under regular handicap will prevail.

CHESS PLAY ADVANCES

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 16.—(AP.)—Poland and Switzerland played a 2-2 tie match in the sixth round of the team tournament of the International Chess Federation yesterday. The United States scored 1½ against Austria's 1½, with one game adjourned.

MISS COLEMAN KEEPS TITLE

NEW YORK, July 16.—(AP.)—Miss Georgia Coleman, of the Los Angeles A. C., today successfully defended her national high platform diving championship, defeating Frances Meany and Mary Hogan, of the Woman's Swimming Association, of New York, in the seventh National A. A. U. outdoor swimming and diving championship at Bronx Beach.

Diving without a cap, her short blonde hair streaming out behind her, Miss Coleman piled up 86.31 points to 79.31 for Miss Meany and 54.32 for Miss Hogan.

Thomas Callaghan, Jr., of the New York Athletic Club, one of the judges, scored Miss Coleman 92.40 points, crediting her with an almost perfect performance.

Having shown her thrashing feet to a field of star performers in the 100 meters and mile events, Helene Madison, Seattle's 18-year-old aquatic marvel, will defend another of her numerous water speed titles, the 440-yard event, tonight.

In successfully defending her championship in the mile last night, Miss Madison broke the four-year-old world mark for 1,500 meters by more than 27 seconds.

The race was a feature of the international Shrine convention program.

The Cleveland girl overcame handicaps of all her competitors early in the race and won by 15 yards over Miss Coles, in 26.1 seconds. The mark automatically becomes an American record, as the event has never before been run outdoors. Miss Coles collapsed at the finish line, but quickly recovered.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The fans apparently prefer to keep up with the Pirates by way of the newspapers these hot days, judging by the attendance at Forbes Field. The neighbors all seem to be interested in the fortunes of the Buccaneers, the local team being a big topic of conversation in almost any gathering, but the turnstiles are not clicking, especially this week with the Phearless Phillies in town.

It was hardly more than a corporal's guard that came out yesterday, the storms of the morning causing many to figure there would be no battle. But there was a real ball game on tap with Larry French holding to the beautiful mound pace that has marked the behavior of the Pittsburgh sharpshooters this season. The Coast League lefthander held the Quakers to six hits and won, 4 to 2.

BRAME OR WOOD TODAY

The fifth game of the series is on for this afternoon. Either Ervin Brame or Charley Wood will be on the mound for the Buccos, Frank Watt, recruit righthander, being due to pitch for the Quakers.

Dick Bartell appears to be definitely out of the present series which closes tomorrow. Dick is nursing his bad ankle in Philadelphia.

The mother and father of the fighting Quaker came all the way from California to Pittsburgh to visit with Dick and to see him for the first time in a major league contest. When Dick's parents reached Pittsburgh, however, they learned that their son was unable to accompany his club, so they departed for Philadelphia to see him.

French seemed to be in safe possession of a triumph over the Phillies yesterday as the ninth inning arrived. In the home half of the eighth Larry's mates gathered him two safety runs, but Dangerous Chuck Klein opened the ninth for the invaders and the great hitter got on via the pass route. French fanned Big Buzz Arlett, but after making a wild pitch that allowed Klein to reach third, he walked Hurst. Whitney fouled out, but Sput Davis bumped a single to center and Klein scored as the tying run reached the runways. Hurst raced to third. Larry then made Friberg fly to L. Waner to end the fight.

FIREWORKS IN EIGHTH

Pie Traynor and George Grantham provided the fireworks of the big eighth. Traynor and Howdy Groskloss scored in the second after Friberg had thrown low on Pie's bounder that opened the inning. Thevenow's fine double was the high spot of the round. Ray Benge then proceeded to pitch five shutout innings against the Buccos and he was moving like a star in the eighth when Grantham singled with one out. Traynor kissed a slow pitch for a three-bagger to right center, and Pie scored behind Grantham on P. Waner's long fly.

LOCAL NINE WINS

CLEVELAND, July 16.—The Al Koran Shrine nine, including in its lineup Bill Doak, Hughes, Kimmick, Steele, Fuchs, Cochrane, Frissel, Thomas, Stewart, Boone and Kress, of Pittsburgh, defeated the Al Sirat Shrine team in the local stadium yesterday, 6 to 1, before a crowd of 38,000 shriners.

ALL-STAR GOLF MATCH AT SCHENLEY TODAY

Draw for U. S.-British Inter-Zone Davis Cup Final Announced

WOMEN PLAY ON ST. CLAIR LINKS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

That classic of all Western Pennsylvania team matches inaugurated some years ago by John Jay Burke, in which private club linksmen are pitted against the public links stars, is slated for the Schenley Park municipal course this afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock.

A heavy wind and rain storm that developed just after the first foursome, consisting of J. C. Lawther and Joe Platt, of the Schenley team, and R. T. Hambleton and W. C. Farquhar, of the Field Club, left the first tee necessitated a delay. The foursome was called back with a new start to be made later.

Richard C. Long, of Oakmont, is captaining a band of 28 star private clubmen, against Carl F. Kauffmann, former national amateur champion, and 27 other muny luminaries, under the supervision of Ken C. Witherow, of the U. S. G. A. public links committee, for the purpose of assisting in the raising of funds to send the local team of Kauffmann, Carl Lunden, Harry Ramsay and Francis Lally, to the national public links championship at St. Paul, August 4-8.

WOMEN AT ST. CLAIR

Two other big events also are on today's golf schedule. The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is staging a one-day tourney at the St. Clair Country Club, and, at the Pittsburgh Field Club, a big Red and Blue dinner match is carded. A. J. Diebold is captaining the Reds and James Hammond the Blues.

Tomorrow, at the Fox Chapel Country Club, the women's golf teams of the Butler and Shannopin Country clubs will meet in a match to determine which team shall be a member of Section I of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania Team League next season. Shannopin finished last in Section I and Butler finished first in Section II in the 1931 race.

AN EYE FOR AN EYE

RODGERS' EYES BEFORE AND AFTER ERICKSON BOUT

PHOTOS by Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

AND HERE'S ERICKSON, WHO SAYS HE DIDN'T DO IT

And a tooth for a tooth, is what Jackie Rodgers says about his return battle with Johnny Erickson, New York Italian with the Swedish name, at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight. Erickson won over him in the same ring a year ago and laid him up for repairs with a bad left eye and threatened blindness. Jackie says it was the old thumb-in-the-eye trick. Erickson is SO surprised. He says this is the first he's heard about it. Anyway, Rodgers wants to knock him out tonight, and then he'll forgive him.

ITALIAN NAMED ERICKSON IN BATTLE HERE

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Who ever heard of an Italian named Erickson?

We never did, either, but that's entirely apart from the story. There's one of those chunky Eyetalian fellers in here from New York to fight Jackie Rodgers in a 10-round bout in the Hickey Park arena, Millvale, tonight, and he says his name's Johnny Erickson.

You've heard of him before. He's the fellow who grabbed himself a win over Rodgers when Jackie was going at his best last summer, and in the same ring, too, and put Jackie on the shelf for months with a bum glimmer—meaning eye. For a time it was feared Jackie was suffering from a detached retina, the same injury that befell the late Harry Greb, and it was blamed on one of Erickson's errant thumbs. According to Jackie, the thumb playfully, or with malice aforethought, found its way into his optic.

REAL NAME AZZOLINA

Anyway, along comes this fellow Erickson to town for tonight's battle, and he professes to be very much surprised to learn that there is, or has been, anything the matter with Jackie's peeper and says it's all wrong about him sticking in a thumb—the whole fist, yes, but not a mere thumb!—to put the local man out of commission. He's sorry to hear about all the trouble Jackie's been having, and he'll see if he can't give him some more. But, above all else, he's a clean fighter, one of the cleanest of the Ericksons, by gar, even if his real name is John Azzolina and he's as much of an Italian as Mussolini.

How did he get to be an Erickson? Well, he started out fighting as an Azzolina, and his pals up around the corner didn't like that for a ring moniker, so they decided to pick him a new one out of the telephone directory. The first one they turned to happened to be Erickson, and that's the McCoy on how the fighter became a Swedish Wop.

BRUNS IN SEMI-FINAL

As for Rodgers, he says any Azzolina who would take the fair name of Erickson in vain would stick a thumb in an opponent's eye in the ring, and this is his night to even old scores, so watch out! Maybe he'll make Italian—or Swedish—history.

Billy Bruns, of Erie, and Buddy McArthur, of McKeesport, lightheavies, box the eight-round semi-final, and Joey Spiegel, of Uniontown, meets Jackie Murray, of the Hill, and Jackie Wilson, of Homewood, and Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, clash in the two six-round preliminaries.

Between Rounds

Johnny Ray will be in Buck McTiernan's corner when the pride of Swissvale meets Jimmy Belmont in their much ballyhooed grudge battle in the Meyers Bowl next Monday night. Ray is working with Buck in the gym and will be the chief adviser in his corner. Ray recently was the man behind Jackie Rodgers' smart knockout victory in his return bout with Chico Cisneros in the Bowl ring.

Jack Kelly, of North Lima, O., and Carl Montebano, of Braddock, middleweights, box the opening preliminary at the Bowl Monday.

Eddie McEntee was named matchmaker of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. at a reorganization meeting and will stage his first amateur boxing show there next Tuesday night.

The Jimmy Thomas-Willie Davies return bout is definitely closed for Hickey Park next Thursday night, and negotiations are under way for a Ted Yarosz-Bucky Lawless battle for the following Thursday.

Four shows are booked within nine days at Hickey Park, beginning with the Davies-Thomas battle. On July 28, the amateur show for the benefit of the unemployed members of the Steamfitters and Helpers Union is scheduled, with the usual professional show two nights later and an all-Negro talent show at popular prices the following night.

The Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. will stage a Pre-Olympic Golden Gloves amateur tournament in its open-air arena on the North Side, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, August 11 and 12.

Witnesses of the Willie Davies-Rogs Fields fight at East Liverpool, O., Tuesday night, bring back the word that Willie really won that battle with something to spare, although news reports were that the fight was even at the finish.

Lou Bloom and Johnny Farr are booked for a battle at Charleston, W. Va., tonight.

The Bettis Airport Amateur Athletic Club will stage the first of a series of weekly amateur boxing shows tomorrow night. Both outdoor and indoor facilities are available. The shows will get under way at 9 p. m., daylight saving time, and will be offered at popular prices.

The postponed Charley Retzlaff-Ralph Ficurello bout at the Queensboro Stadium in New York is on for tonight. Ted Sandwina boxes Steve Hamas and Allie Wolfe meets Arthur Huttick in feature preliminaries.

TWENTY GRAND SET TO GO

CHICAGO, July 16.—(AP.)—Twenty Grand is ready to race for the $90,000 Arlington Classic in defense of his claims to the American year-old championship at Arlington Park Saturday.

The big colt, galloping gracefully, engaged in his final workout yesterday and convinced Jimmy Rowe, his trainer, that he was in perfect condition after his mishap in the Dwyer Stakes.

Twenty Grand finished the mile and a quarter in 2:11, after being under a strong pull the entire distance. The big colt tore off his furlongs at a good even pace and could have run much faster if Marshall Lilly, the Whitney Negro exercise boy, had let him out.

GIBBY WELCH NAMED COACH

BARBOURSVILLE, W. Va., July 16.—(AP.)—Leonard Riggleman, president of Morris Harvey College, today announced the appointment as head football coach of Gilbert (Gibby) Welch, Parkersburg, former University of Pittsburgh halfback and all-America halfback in 1927.

Riggleman also announced the appointment of George Nilan, former Vanderbilt player, as director of athletics and assistant football coach.

Welch will succeed Frank L. Arritt, who has accepted a position as instructor at Mount Hope High School.

Mrs. Rose Loses On Twentieth Hole

EASTERN POINT, Conn., July 16. — Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, and Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., won their way into the semi-final round of the annual women's invitation tournament of the Shenecosett Country Club yesterday.

Mrs. Hurd advanced to the semifinals by defeating Miss K. L. Beach, of Montclair, N. J., 5 and 4, while Miss Quier survived the quarter-finals with a victory over Mrs. J. B. Rose, of Sewickley, Pa. The latter match went to the twentieth hole before Miss Quier gained the upper hand.

The other semi-finalists are Mary Louise Congdon, of New London, Conn., and Mrs. Leo Federman, of New York.

Manager Hank Daly, of the Homewood City League club, has announced that Jimmy Bradley has joined the East Enders, and will take his regular turn on the mound with Steele and Stewart.

The acquistion of the South Side boy should help the Homewood pitching staff considerably in the second half.

Two games will be played this evening in the West Penn League, bringing out the leaders. The Marty Griffin club goes to Homewood Playgrounds to tackle Miller's Reliance Life team. Ed Walsh crosses the Munhall Bridge with the Swissvale Community nine to meet Fertig's Homestead Aces.

In the City loop, Dormont goes to the Salt Works to tangle with the North Side Civics. It is stated that Art Rooney is going to try to get a winner for the North Side fans in the second half, so there is a chance the onward rush of Dormont will be checked. At the Bloomfield Bridge grounds, Ed Buch will take the Book Shoe nine to battle with J. L. Thomas.

The second half of the West Penn race is going to be wide open. St. Joachim's upset the dope by beating Linwood after the Lincoln avenue boys had nosed out Swissvale. The game between the Saints and Turtle Creek last evening was postponed at Moultrie Park, a storm washing part of the hill down on the diamond again.

Bunts

The Marlin club, of the West Penn League, wants to book games with the best teams in the tri-state district. Imhoff is pitching well, and, with Stan Freizel, forms a good battery. Sonny Nelson is playing first base for the Gardeners, and the Hill club is anxious to give the fans a winner. Clubs wishing to book this attraction should call Manager Nichols at Hiland 2580-J.

The B. J. Hein Juniors, of Mt. Washington, are anxious to book games with teams in the 16 and 18-year-old class. The Heins have won 15 games this season, and are arranging games on the home-and-home basis. For games write B. J. Hein, 38 Ruth street, or call Hemlock 6386.

PETER PATCH RACE VICTOR

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 16.—(AP.)—Peter Patch, owned by A. G. Lord, Nyack, N. Y., and driven by Will Hodson, came out of the East and captured the twenty-fourth annual renewal of the $10,000 Exchange Club Purse for 2:12 trotters yesterday. He dropped the first heat to Hollyrood Susan and then took the next two heats and the race. The time 2:02¼, 2:02¾ and 2:02¾, equaled the fastest previous time for a single heat, made by Sam Williams, in 1927, and established an all-time record for the three heats.

Brother Hanover ruled favorite at $50. Hollyrood Susan sold for $30 and the field including Peter Patch at $20. The favorite did not win a heat, but was second at the finish of each one.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Customers often ask what happened to the Yankees this year. Joe McCarthy's team looked strong on paper, but unfortunately there are two sides to every sheet of paper.

Nick Altrock

The pitchers were the horse-fly in Joe's liniment. They got so used to being blasted off the rubber, they didn't even wear their gloves in the box. Babe Ruth is hammering the apple like a union carpenter, but you'd never pick him for the 100-yard dash in the 1932 Olympics. Babe's ankles look like Marlene Dietrich's, but north of those, his muscles feel like a composition of zinc ore and lead.

Outside of that, the Yankees draw big all over the circuit, which proves you can get by with a two-ring circus if the menagerie gets the ballyhoo.

GUYS GIVE UP FRANCHISE

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 16.—The Charleroi Governors today turned their franchise back to the Middle Atlantic League officials, abandoning organized baseball here. Financial difficulties due to poor attendance and lack of interest were assigned as leading causes.

Since introdutcion of the 12-club plan there has been little interest shown in the game locally.

SCOTTDALE TEAM BEATEN

SCOTTDALE, Pa., July 16.—The local Middle Atlantic League entry fell before Altoona, 7 to 5, in their tilt here yesterday.

Youngstown advanced with a 6-2 win over Clarksburg; Charleston whitewashed Johnstown, 4-0; Huntington beat Fairmont, 3-2, at Fairmont, and Cumberland nosed out Beckley, 1-0, at Cumberland.

Sharkey, Mat Promoter, Banned

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission today announced the indefinite suspension of Arthur Sharkey, wrestling promoter, of Pittsburgh. No reason was announced. Tom (Irish) Langan, a second, of Scranton, was reinstated.

WOOD-AUSTIN OPEN SERIES TOMORROW

PARIS, July 16.—(AP.)—Sydney Wood, Jr., of the United States, and Henry W. (Bunny) Austin, of England, will play the first singles match of the inter-zone Davis Cup series tomorrow afternoon at the Roland Garros Stadium, as a result of the official draw today.

Frank Shields, the hard-hitting American youth, will oppose Fred Perry in the second singles contest.

For the doubles match, Saturday, the Americans will depend on the experienced combination of John Van Ryn and George M. Lott, Jr. Their opponents will be Perry and George P. Hughes, of England.

The inter-zone series, best three out of five matches, will decide the challenger of France for the world championship tennis trophy.

The order of singles competition will be reversed for the final two singles matches Sunday, with Shields playing Austin and Wood opposing Perry.

The Davis Cup draw was made by Pierre Gillou, president of the French Lawn Tennis Federation, in the presence of the rival nonplaying captains, Sam Hardy for the United States, and H. Roper Barrett for England. George Lott was the only member of either team present for the ceremony.

NET TOURNEY ENTRY GROWS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Though only two days have elapsed since announcement of the second annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championships, the mail yesterday saw boosting of total entries to date to the 20 mark, a most significant indication of ever-increasing interest in the municipal event, when it is considered that response over similar period a year ago was virtually nil and it was not until pretty much the last minute before start of hostilities that the blanks began rolling in to amass a throng of 165 contestants for the milling. Should early signs for the 1931 parks conclave thus hold good, it is entirely probable that for the first time in the history of local net competition a tournament confined to men's and women's singles will draw into action a group in the double-century neighborhood.

REDMOND ENTERS

Heading the Wednesday entrants is Jack Redmond, rangy former Peabody southpaw, who last year carried off Highland Park honors and breezed very close, indeed, to a place in the interpark series finale, ultimately monopolized by Frank Broida, of Frick, and Irvin Goodman, of Schenley. Redmond, boasting speedy service, savage overhead, and a reliable ground game, stands as one of the leading threats to continuance of Broida sovereignty in the park sphere, and it goes without saying that, with the addition of a year's experience and the general development of style to be expected over the span of a twelvemonth, the elongated Highlander will cause no little stir among rival aspirants before one of 'em takes him into camp—if, in fact, any of 'em proves able to accomplish that objective.

Redmond, by the way, was runner-up to Broida in the 1930 Pittsburgh Center junior tilting in a forkhand final duel that stands out among the classiest tussles of nomebred youths in recent annals. Both youngsters have now passed out of the 18-year-old division, but hope to resume their friendly mixing as representatives of their respective parks in the interpark debating on the Frick lot August 6, 7 and 8.

NO ENTRANCE FEE

There is no entrance fee for the tournament. Names must be submitted in writing upon the blanks printed each evening on the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports page. No entries will be taken by telephone. Do not forget to designate the park at which it is wished to compete; if you fail to check your favorite lot, you will be assigned to the courts nearest your residence. Mail or bring blanks to the Public Parks Tournament Editor, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

The list of new entries:

Irwin Solow, Schenley; Eugene Solow, Schenley; David Silverman, Schenley; Martin J. Grumet, Schenley; Jess S. Mullin, Jr., Schenley; Gilbert Meyer, Riverview; William H. Smith, Frick; Jack Redmond, Highland.

Farrell authorized the Elmira club to continue operation of the team until the arrival of P. B. Farrell, president of the league.

WORLD SWIM MARK FALLS

HONOLULU, July 16.—(AP.)—A new mark for the 880-yard relay swim, announced as a new world Olympic and American record, was established in the National A. A. U. championships here last night by the Hollywood Athletic Club.

The Film City aggregation covered the stretch in 9 minutes 214-5 seconds as against the previous world and American record of 9:27, established by a New York A. C. team and the Olympic mark of 9:36 1-5 for the 880-meter event, made by the United States team at Amsterdam in 1928.

Austin Clapp, Maiola Kalili, Frank Booth and Manuella Kalili made up the winning team. Clapp also was on the Olympic team at Amsterdam. The Hui Nalu team, of Honolulu, placed second, and the Hui Makani team, also of this city, third.

Earlier in the evening Clarence L. (Buster) Crabbe, of the Los Angeles A. C., broke his own American record for the 300-meter medley, finishing in 4:05 4-5, as against his previous mark of 4:06 4-5.

WORLD COPPER OUTPUT LESS

NEW YORK, July 16.—World smelter production of copper in June was 126,722 short tons, against 130,486 tons in May and 150,697 in June, 1930, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

'Wrong' Flash on Rate Excites London

LONDON, July 16.—Great excitement and anxiety was caused when the official electric indicators erroneously flashed that the Bank of England rate had been increased to 4 per cent. Dealers previously were convinced that there would be no change and had marked prices up.

Dealings were suspended for a few minutes when a warning was issued that a confirmation should be awaited.

Great relief was felt when the official "no change" announcement was flashed.

Oil Trade Development Is Story of Paradox

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE DEVELOPMENT OF the oil industry since the war is a story of paradox. The fundamental business of the oil trade is to find sources of crude oil production. The refining of crude oil is a purely mechanical process and the market for oil products has shown an almost uninterrupted growth.

One would naturally assume that the discovery of oil reserves sufficient to supply the industry for many future years would be a stabilizing influence. In mining, the fact that large reserves have been located is not a depressing factor. It is more likely to prove to be an element toward security, since large reserves insure the continuous operation of the industry.

But the development of the oil trade has forced it into a hand to mouth existence. An inadequate current supply is used as justification for skyrocket prices. An excessive current supply cannot be considered as a mere reserve for future years. It becomes an immediate market factor and depresses prices. The oil industry is so constituted that it cannot save or create reserves. It lives for the present, regardless of future needs.

Lease System to Blame

THE SYSTEM UNDER which most oil fields are developed is largely to blame for the present situation of the industry. When a well is drilled in new territory the common practice is for the leading companies to lease acreage surrounding the initial well. This gives the major oil operators a chance to participate in new fields in which the original test well is successful.

Most lease agreements provide that drilling must be started within a certain period of time and require the oil company to forfeit its right unless attempts are made to establish production within a specified period.

As a result of this situation, the completion of a discovery well invariably forces the drilling of surrounding wells regardless of whether or not market conditions require the production of more oil.

Offset Wells Necessary

THE COMPLETION OF A WELL in a new field indicates the presence of oil. But the quantity is limited. The early bird gets the most oil. All producers are drawing from the same reservoir. This is responsible for a rush to complete offset wells in the vicinity of any new discovery. It has been the major factor in the excessive stimulation of oil output during recent years and has been largely responsible for the troubles of the oil industry.

The history of the oil industry has indicated that the first comer gets the most oil and the most profits. This has been responsible for the over supply of crude oil forced on the market. It has been responsible for the waste of American natural resources and for the uneconomical development of many valuable oil producing areas.

Proration Only Partial Help

PRORATION, WHICH LIMITS the output of wells to a specified percentage of their original flow, has helped the oil situation to a great extent. It might have completely solved the problem of excessive oil production if new fields had not been discovered. The Oklahoma City field and the subsequent discoveries in East Texas proved to be entirely too much of a strain on the industry.

The leading companies, finding that they were threatened with a greater deluge of crude than market requirements needed, were forced to cut prices to their present ruinous levels in order to bring output into line with consumption.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Recede — Local Market Steady

STOCKS RECEDE FROM EARLY ADVANCES

Market Falls Back Into Partial Paralysis With Trading Showing Apathy

NEW YORK, July 16.—(AP.)—Tension relaxed somewhat in world financial markets today, and there was some recovery in security prices.

Uneasiness was still apparent, however, and New York stocks ran into fresh selling after a late morning rally. The foreign exchange markets remained largely disrupted, but pressure against sterling was lightened. Foreign bonds, however, were generallly firmer. Security markets in London, Paris and Amsterdam closed higher.

New York stocks fell back into a state of partial paralysis after yesterday's selling flurry. Trading was apathetic. A temporary upturn was short-lived. Rails turned distinctly heavy. By afternoon, there were losses of 1 to 4 points in some issues.

Wall Street was encouraged by the manner in which the initial reopening of German banks was accepted by the German public. Particularly reassuring to security markets was a statement by the German finance minister, in effect renouncing proposals of a moratorium on service of external long-term loans.

The most disturbing factor yesterday probably was the severe pressure against the British pound sterling. This pressure was only partially lightened today.

The purely nominal quotations for the German mark were advanced about 2 cents to 23 cents, reflecting the more hopeful attitude toward the German banking situation.

There was little in the domestic news to divert Wall street's attention from the foreign financial crisis. Indeed, this crisis has taken on such far-reaching proportions that Wall street is scarcely expected to pay much attention to anything else until it is past.

A rally in the commodity markets accompanied the better tone in financial markets. Credit conditions were unchanged, with call money fairly steady at the official rate of 1½ per cent. Outside offerings at concessions were limited.

Commodity Prices Continue to Drop

NEW YORK, July 16.—The normal reaction in sentiment which developed after the debt moratorium agreement became an actuality has been reflected to a considerable degree in the commodity markets, a survey by Standard Statistics Company says. Prices of most volatile commodities receded last week, although they are in all but one or two cases well above the year's low. Of 40 major items, 21 declined, 8 advanced and 11 were unchanged.

R. H. Coleman was named receiver and his bond placed at $4,000.

Company Receives Big Tax Refund

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The average rate of interest on the new $51,200,000 of treasury bills is about 0.49 per cent on a bank discount basis, according to Acting Secretary Mills. The total amount applied for was $209,314,000.

Remington Rand Elects President

NEW YORK, July 16.—James H. Rand, Jr., has been elected president of Remington Rand, Inc. H. J. Fuller has been elected an additional director. Mr. Rand also continues as chairman of the board.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 16.—Brisk upturns in grain prices early today accompanied European reports of more hopefulness regarding international financial developments. Absence of any grain exports from Russia and persistent talk of likelihood of reduced wheat production in that country owing to unfavorable weather were also a stimulus to higher prices. Opening ⅝-1⅛ cents up, wheat soon advanced further. Corn started at ½-⅞ cents gain and later rose still higher.

Inventory Control and New Operating Methods Sustain Profit Ratio

NEW YORK, July 16.—Net profit of the Interstate Department Stores in the six months ended June 30 was equal to approximately $1.25 a share on its 233,602 shares of common stock. This compares with a net profit of $482,232 equal to $1.65 a share, earned in the corresponding 1930 period. The earnings this year, however, are after setting up out of profits a reserve equal to 2 per cent of net sales, which in the first half of this year would amount to more than $200,000. Thus, the showing in the first half actually is more favorable than appears.

WRITE-OFF CUT NET

Normally, 60 to 80 per cent of department store profits are earned in the last half, which includes the holiday business, but last year, in common with all stores, heavy inventory writeoffs reduced Interstate's profit in the last six months. This year, since inventories are being kept in much better control under a new system of operating, and since mark down and merchandise depreciation are being made currently, it is probable that a normal proportion of profit can be shown during the remainder of the year. In the full year 1930 the company earned $667,554, or $2.03 a share.

FIRST HALF SALES UP

Sales in the first six months totaled $10,607,924, a gain of about 6 per cent over $9,971,134 in the corresponding 1930 period, excluding leased departments, but including results of new stores. However, stores in operation over a year showed a 2½ per cent gain in dollar sales over a year ago. Results in June were particularly encouraging, showing a gain of 15.3 per cent for the same stores in operation a year ago and of 19½ per cent for the whole group.

Interstate operates a chain of 34 popular priced department stores in medium sized cities. Within the past year and a half a number of important changes in policy have been inaugurated, patterned after successful systems that have been put into effect in the larger department stores.

Somerset Crude Oil Price Lowered

ASHLAND, Ky., July 16.—The Ashland Refining Company has posted a price of 40 cents for Somerset crude oil in the Cumberland pipe line, a reduction of 15 cents.

Operators throughout Kentucky are holding meetings preparatory to shutting down production.

General Foods Gaining Popularity as Medium For Investment

There is evidence that General Foods is becoming more popular with investors. Earings per share in the first six months were slightly below those of a year ago, but stability of revenues is getting more recognition now than ever before, and General Foods has indications of being among the leaders in the companies which demonstrate ability to do well in depression years. Quiet accumulation has been reported in the issue on numerous occasions in the past few months.

A few commission houses report that they have noted an investment demand on reactions recently. This buying has come into the standard stocks which have a rather good outlook for the next year or two. It was from investors who received part of the money distributed as interest and dividends at the beginning of the current month. In most instances odd lots were involved and the stocks were paid for and taken out of the street.

There is less cheer around the street than a week ago. Conservative observers favor keeping out of the market until there has been some indication of the next important move. The action of leading stocks when earnings for the second quarter are published will have considerable influence on the attitude of most interests.

Although Gold Dust publishes earnings only once a year, interests who have been accurate in the past have stated that the results for the first six months were in excess of the $1.25 a share dividend requirements for the period.

Acute weakness in German bonds, and widespread unsettlement in the foreign exchange market, with most quotations in the latter market purely nominal, were disquieting situations throughout yesterday. Sterling exchange, for example, was at levels which would have permitted any one of several countries to draw gold on London with British exchange quoted as low as $4.84 on cables at intervals during the day. Remarkable strength in French francs strongly suggested Paris was drawing on London to the detriment of British exchange. The continued weakness in German dollar bonds listed in New York was the more disquieting in that the evident lack of support for such obligations conveyed the impression of no little nervousness over prevailing conditions in banking circles in New York.

Liquidation rather than short selling was primarily responsible for the severe decline which developed on the Stock Exchange through the first half of yesterday. The character of the decline was in itself sufficient evidence of the nature of the selling. But if added evidence touching the character of the selling was necessary this could have been found readily enough in a perusal of the names of firms which were active on the selling side throughout the period. Houses which participated heavily in the selling were hardly those which were among the active firms when bear selling was much more in evidence, that is some weeks ago.

Short Trading on Chicago Board Subnormal

CHICAGO, July 16.—President James C. Murray, of the Chicago Board of Trade, said that the amount of short selling on the Chicago board was below normal and had been below normal for the last few months. The statement followed a detailed investigation launched after President Hoover's recent criticism of alleged excessive short selling in commodities by a few unnamed traders.

Absence of normal buying, Murray said, had influenced price declines. He expressed hope for an early return of a better price level.

JUST PLAYING AROUND -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

Thad Returns and Tells Kitty He Must Talk With Her

CHAPTER XVIII.

"Chubb," I said, "you've had too many cocktails, or the moon had got you or something. You don't want to marry me."

I knew better when I said it. He was absolutely sincere, but I was sparring for time. He almost took my breath away with the sudden proposal, for he had never made love to me before, although I had been with him a dozen times, mostly in parties with Thad.

"You know I never drink too many cocktails, Katie, and it isn't the moon that's got me, it is you. Honestly, I want to marry you."

"Am I supposed to say that that is so sudden, is that it?" I parried.

"You might say that—I'll admit I'm all wet when it comes to doing the Romeo stuff, Katie, but that doesn't mean that I don't love you—and I'll be mighty good to you, always."

I was thinking. I don't believe I ever thought so rapidly before. If I turned him down flat that would be the end of it. If I kept him in suspense he would be at my beck and call, always ready to go places, always on hand to help me play around and have a gay time.

"Say something, if it's only to bark at me, beautiful."

I looked at Chubb Osmund. He was perspiring a little. I could see it on his broad forehead. He was terribly in earnest about it.

"Why, Chubb, I wouldn't bark at you—I'm awfully fond of you," I murmured.

He embraced me.

TIME TO CONSIDER

"But—but this getting married—Oh give me a lot of time to think it over. Honestly, I never suspected that you cared that way."

"How could any man help caring for you? Of course I will give you plenty of time—I'm so darned tickled that you didn't throw me down cold—I'll get you a peachy ring—"

"Chubby! Now don't rush me like that. I've got to think it over. Let's just be good pals for a while—honestly I'm awfully fond of you."

"Gee, but I'm a lucky guy," he murmured.

"You are now, think how unlucky you'd be if you had me for a wife."

"No kidding, I'd be the happiest—"

"Man—on—earth!"

I finished the sentence with him and then we both laughed. Chubb Osmund had an infectious laugh.

"Well, Chubb," I said, as if giving it all deep thought, "it's like this. I hadn't thought of getting married for a long, long while—of course every girl thinks of marriage almost all the time. I don't mean to have you think I'm not normal, but there is plenty of time for marriage. Don't think I'm not pleased to have you feel that way about me and we'll be good friends. Some day I suppose I'll come to a decision and meanwhile—"

I paused for effect and extended my hand.

We shook solemnly.

Viola and her friend came out as we were shaking hands. She wanted to know if it was a bet or something.

"It's a bet or—something," I answered.

HURT WEARS AWAY

Chubb didn't mention Thad Parsons during all that evening. If he ever thought that I expected Thad to marry me he never gave any hint of it, even later, when he spoke of Thad.

We had a gay time together. Viola was delighted with her new friend, the Mr. Denny Thurston Chubb had brought along.

Around 3 we got back to the city and stopped for what Chubb called a "little local color" at a colored revue in a sort of combination speakeasy and night club up in Harlem.

It was around the middle of Sunday afternoon that we prepared our breakfast in our doll of a kitchenette. Viola was scrambling the eggs.

"Chubb Osmund wants to marry me," I said.

Viola turned and stared at me.

"There are worse men—and a few who are fatter," she paused to giggle, "how did he propose, on his knees? And who got him on his feet again?"

Viola agreed that I would be silly to marry him, but at the same time he was a nice jolly boy to pal around with.

We had promised Chubb and Denny to go with them the next Saturday night. We were to start early and drive to Germantown, where Chubb's brother was giving a big house party.

As I started in with my daily routine on Monday, of helping to show sample gowns and wearing some of them for the benefit of customers, I was thinking of Thad Parsons, and my thoughts were far from sad. Viola had been right, in her comical way. Getting let down was like having a tooth pulled, it hurt at first and afterward I felt better. I realized that it wasn't genuine love at all—it was the promise of living in riches and luxury, mingling, as I dreamed, with society people.

Cora was in town shopping and dropped in to see me. I know she was worried about me. If she thought I was going to pine away she was mistaken. She grinned when she saw me, and said that I never looked better. I promised to see her some week end soon and then she let the cat out of the bag.

"Peter will be glad to know you aren't taking it to heart, about Thad," she said.

GETS EXPENSIVE GIFT

"Did he send you to see me?" I demanded.

Cora was the sort who couldn't lie very well.

"I had to come in town anyway," she declared.

"Tell Peter I was never happier, that I'm having a swell time with all my nice friends. Tell him to go and do what I advised—marry some nice little house-wifey girl—"

"Not Peter," Cora declared, "it's you or no one."

"Mr. Peter H. Thompson will die a bachelor," I assured her.

Cora sighed, then kissed me and started back to her pretty home, her lovely kiddies and her nice new husband.

We had a gorgeous time down at Germantown. Chubb's brother had a wonderful big place. It was a jolly crowd, and if any of Chubb's really swell friends knew that Viola and myself were just working girls—dress models—they never let on. That's the way with the real aristocrats. Only the newrich and cads and snobs get snooty at the working people.

Chubb said he would drive me out to Cora's the next Sunday, dropping Viola off at her brother's cottage and taking us back at night where we would meet Denny and have a little party.

On Wednesday he gave me a pretty little bracelet and wouldn't listen to any refusal. It was platinum with some small but brilliant stones. I had no idea of its value then or I wouldn't have taken it. Later, when I learned that its value had around five hundred, there were reasons why I couldn't very well return it.

We were to go with Chubb and Denny Saturday for a little private party at Denny's home. His people were in Europe and he was having a dozen guests.

The dress problem was practically solved. Good Mrs. Miers let us wear samples almost anytime. In this way we saved a lot of money and almost always appeared in a new gown when out on a party or just playing around town with just Chubb and Denny.

THAD RETURNS

Saturday afternoon Viola had to meet her brother's wife in town and help her with some shopping. I went on to the apartment to do a little mending of undies and things.

Just as I got to the entrance Thad Parsons stepped out of a car that was parked there. It wasn't his old car and I naturally didn't recognize it.

"Katie!" he said, coming toward me.

"Hello there, Thad!" I cried as I stopped and grinned at him.

"Katie," he repeated.

"Well, well, look at the stylish tan," I called out as he came toward me, "and how is the bride—is she in the car?"

"Of course not—I had to see you alone, Katie. May I come up for a moment?"

"Thad—be yourself!" I was still smiling at him, and almost dying of curiosity, but I had to keep up my attitude of cheerful nonchalance. "As if I entertained married men in my apartment!"

"Don't rub it in—I'm coming up. I've got to talk to you. Surely you can trust me."

"No, Thad, I cannot trust you—but I can trust myself, come along up." I laughed as I said it.

(What does Thad have to say to Kitty? You'll find the answer in tomorrow's exciting installment.)

Synopsis

To just play around, always to have a gay time, is all that is worth while in life, according to the belief of beautiful Katherine Mason, a dress model who has jilted her poor lover, Peter Thompson, in the assurance that wealthy and aristocratic Thad Parsons will marry her. He gives her every reason to believe this. She turns down Forrest Malvern, a rich man of 40, who was once the "sugar daddy" of her friend, Dolly Hawkins, who disappeared. Katherine's roommate finds her in tears, a newspaper crushed in her hands. Kitty had just read about Thad marrying Arline Sargent. Viola urges Kitty to sue him for breach of promise. Kitty refuses. Chubb Osmund, a friend of Thad, asks Kitty to marry him.

DAILY SHORT STORY

No Romance

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Wealthy Girl Rescued From Chinese Bandits

The launch should have made it from Bang-Tapan to Kut in 10 hours at best, but head winds kicked up a choppy sea in the gulf and the little craft found it difficult to make a bare five knots.

John Heddon and Alicia De Voe were the only Americans aboard, and the only whites except Booth, the English skipper, and Reese, the Welsh engineer.

Heddon knew both men to be experts. Booth knew those waters as well as he knew Liverpool harbor and the Mersey, while there was nothing about a gasoline motor that could stump Reese. The remainder of the crew were Chinese.

G. G. De Voe, head of the immense Indo-China oil interests, had asked Heddon to take charge of his daughter Alicia in the run across the Gulf of Siam. She was to join her mother at Kut and take the mail steamer to Manila on the first leg home.

"Heddon has a head on him," De Voe said to his daughter, when she demurred about being put in charge of any one, much less in charge of an employe of her father, "and you can never tell what will happen."

"Nothing will happen, father. This man will be patronizing all the way across. He is likely to make love to me, knowing all about you and what it would mean to him financially."

G. G. De Voe laughed at his daughter.

"Not Jack Heddon. He's too level-headed. What would he do with a wife like you, too helpless to lift a finger, too expensive in her tastes for any except a billionaire? Don't worry about Heddon, he won't patronize you, but if you get in a jam, you do as he says."

And so the start was made from Bang-Tapan, where Alicia had been visiting a friend. She produced a novel, a French daughter of an archeologist who was excavating near there.

John Heddon secured the easiest chair from the cabin, placed it aft and suggested that Alicia sit there.

"Must I sit?" Alicia asked, rather scornfully.

FORCED FROM COURSE

Heddon shook his head.

"Not necessarily," he said.

He did not say "Miss De Voe," nor did he attempt to be even polite. Alicia decided he was trying to make her feel that she was entirely in his charge.

Heddon interested himself in a volume on Siam and the pearl fisheries. After a while Alicia became tired of walking about, novel, and proceeded to read.

When the head winds became extremely strong, Alicia went into the cabin.

Heddon began to get a trifle nervous until he saw that the skipper had turned to go with the wind. The launch wasn't sufficiently powered for such an unusual gale. He stepped into the cabin.

"We are forced out of our course," he said, "and are probably in for an all-night siege."

"I thought we were scheduled to be at Kut before dark," she said, coldly.

"We are further from Kut than when we started. Schedules mean less than nothing for a small craft like this in a gale of this size, but we shall ride it out."

Alicia nodded and turned to her novel. She was a good sailor.

LAUNCH SINKS

About midnight Heddon went down into the cabin again. This time he was smiling because he was worried and did not want her to suspect it.

"You had better curl up on the long cushioned seat there, Miss De Voe, and get some sleep," he advised.

"Not sleepy," she answered.

More hours passed. Then there came an explosion. Instantly Heddon dashed into the small cabin.

"On deck, no time to lose, Miss De Voe," he ordered.

"But really, aren't you exceeding your—"

"Come on, don't sit there chattering." Heddon yelled and putting an arm about her literally forced her to the deck.

The Chinamen were squealing and shouting and fighting a blaze forward. Heddon put a life preserver on the girl and one on himself.

"Isn't this a bit of dramatics?" Alicia asked, coldly.

He shook his head and said, "No," sharply.

"It is silly, I shall remove the clumsy thing."

"Don't you dare!"

Then came what Heddon had feared, the big explosion. Without a word he grabbed Alicia and forced her to leap overboard with him in the blackness and gale. The launch seemed to glow for a moment from stem to stern and then go down.

In that brief glow of light Heddon saw one of the small boats with two men in it. He managed to reach it. The men were two of the Chinese crew. One man tried to beat Heddon back with an oar, but Heddon grabbed the oar so suddenly and came down on it with such weight that it literally pried the Chinaman overboard.

Heddon managed to lift Alicia aboard and he climbed after her. The Chinaman in the water climbed in again. Heddon let him get in.

The Chinamen began to talk in their own language.

Heddon waited a while and then said, "I got gun—savvy gun?"

A moment of silence and one of them said, "Me first chop boy—do help muchly."

"Me do."

Alicia began to whimper. Heddon put his coat about her. Dawn found them in the stern, Heddon holding his automatic.

"Break out that sail, rig a jury mast from this oar," Heddon ordered.

It was light enough to see that the small boat had been provisioned, and Heddon decided that it was kept that way for emergencies. He gave Alicia about a gill of water and some crackers.

There was no telling where they were, they had been blown in a southerly direction all the night. By mid-afternoon they sighted a small island and managed to reach it at dark.

Heddon built a fire, rigged the small sail like a pup tent and told Alicia to crawl in and sleep.

He apportioned some of the food and water for the two Chinamen.

They huddled together, always facing Heddon, and talked in low tones. At daylight Heddon spoke to Alicia.

"Sit here, hold this gun, if one of the men come nearer than this line, shoot," he ordered.

He had drawn a line in the sand.

"I have to sleep a couple hours; haven't slept in 48 hours," he muttered apologetically.

"I can't do that," Alicia whimpered, frightened.

"Don't tell me what you can't do—do as I say," he cried, then he told the men that if they crossed the line in the sand they would be shot.

Heddon slept three hours.

OBJECTS TO TREATMENT

He doled out a little food. Alicia begged for more water, but he told her she would have to wait.

That night he kept watch in front of the little makeshift tent that sheltered Alicia. She was awakened by a shot. It was starry then. She heard Heddon's voice, but she couldn't tell a word he was saying.

"What's happened?" she screamed.

"Go to sleep, I can handle this," Heddon ordered.

"I won't be treated so outrageously—"

"You'll do as I say, Miss De Voe."

Heddon talked more Chinese. Alicia thought daylight would never come. In the morning she saw one of the Chinamen on the sand.

"Had to shoot him," Heddon explained.

"Cold-blooded murder, that's what it is," Alicia cried in horror.

Heddon spoke to the other man, who dragged the body out of sight into the jungle and came back.

Heddon, pressing the gun against the man, took away two knives and saw that he had no other weapons. Then he ordered him into the jungle to bring out fruit, which was done. Heddon gave Alicia one of the knives.

"If he jumps you or me when my back is turned, let him have the knife and I don't mean for you to present it to him," he ordered.

"I couldn't."

"Then he'll overpower you, get the knife and [illegible] know what will [illegible] you, so I see."

The Chinaman worked as told, he loaded [illegible] fresh fruits, filled the water [illegible] at the stream and obeyed every order, while Heddon made a new mast of thick bamboo.

He put Alicia in the boat and they shoved off.

"Brute—after all, he's human; he'll die there," Alicia cried.

Heddon shook his head.

All day and all night they sailed and were picked up the next forenoon.

EXPLAINS PLOT

They had to be landed back at Bang-Tapan, whence they started, because that was where the steamer was going.

Back at her father's temporary home Alicia tried to talk. She was incoherent. G. G. De Voe talked with Heddon. Alicia crept out on the wide thatched porch and listened.

"They didn't know that I understood their lingo," Heddon was explaining. "They planned to kill me and take your daughter, they actually discussed plans for selling her—it's still being done, you know. That's why I had to keep silent, pretend I didn't understand and then kill the chap who was making the plans. You can send down and pick up the other one or let him live on jungle fruits."

Heddon talked much more and, not suspecting Alicia to be listening, he talked plainly. Alicia wept silently and shuddered.

Her father choked a little, shook hands with Heddon and stammered that they would discuss things later. When later came, meaning the next day, Alicia apologized meekly and confessed that she had fallen in love with Heddon.

"I don't think, Miss De Voe," Heddon answered, "that you are capable of falling in love, and God knows I wouldn't marry you!"

Alicia told her father, and demanded that Heddon be discharged from the De Voe Oil Company service.

"Hell, no," said G. G. De Voe. "I've just made him general manager of all my interests at $10,000 a year. That young man has nothing in his head but good hard common sense!"

Young Man of Lamar Rebuffed by Ed Isenhower

(From the Lamar, Missouri, Democrat)

Herb Berry has had a lot of fun with an arrangement on his battery that enabled him to charge his car just as some unsuspecting person came up and put his hands on it. Herb pulled up in front of the bakery. He honked for service and Eddie Casement walked out. Naturally Eddie put his hands on the side of the car, as he stepped up to ask what Herb wanted, and, as he did so, Herb shot on his battery connection and charged the car. Eddie had gotten his feet wet, working in the bakery, during the evening and it gave him a sharp shock. He cussed Herb and refused to serve him. Ed Isenhower found that Herb wanted a carbonated drink, so he fixed the glass, put it on the tray and walked out to Herb's car. As Ed came up, he in some way touched the car—and on went the shocker. Ed took the glass and threw the contents at Herb, then threw the tray, struck him, and is declared to have told him frankly the only reason he didn't shoot him was because he didn't have any gun.

Herb, the next morning, did a courageous thing. He hunted Ed up, apologized, and told him he was off the stinger.

Punish the Dynamiters

Authors of Bomb Outrages Are Not Merely Waging Private War, but Are Challenging the State.

The arrest and detention of a number of suspects in connection with the dynamiting of the home of a leader of the civic reform movement in McKees Rocks is welcome as an indication that the county detectives are working on the case. Chief George W. Murren's men have evidently been placed on their mettle by the appeal sent by the Citizens' Committee to the State Police to come to their aid.

Two other bomb outrages are reported. The home of an East Pittsburgh barbecue operator was blown up—the third t his family has been attacked in this manner in a d a bomb was exploded in the rear of some houses own.

It is to be hoped arrests will speedily be made in these cases, too.

The McKees Rocks bombing has served the useful purpose of directing public attention to the frequency of these crimes and the inactivity of the police. Because of the fear of reprisals many of the victims of these outrages have been reluctant to talk. Influenced by this, the authorities have taken the attitude that the explosions were incidents in a private warfare with which they were not concerned.

But even in cases in which the dynamiting of homes is obviously a gesture in a feud between racketeers, it is incumbent on the police to search out the culprits and bring them to punishment. For they are challenging the state.

Allegheny River Trade

Opening of Navigation Holds Out the Hope That Great Future Once Foreseen May Yet Be Realized.

A steamboat, it is announced, will bring down a shipment of limestone this week from a quarry on the Allegheny River about 53 miles above Pittsburgh, the most distant point to which the stream has been slackwatered.

The Allegheny is destined to be a great carrier of freight. As navigation is improved, and a deep stage of water extended farther and farther up the stream, new industries utilizing the valley's vast mineral resources will come into being to take advantage of the cheap transportation thus made available.

Seventy-five years ago the Allegheny was headed towards the place of industrial supremacy that has since been taken by the Monongahela. The coal, iron and limestone resources in the vicinity of Brady's Bend led to the establishment of great iron works. The first rails made west of the mountains were rolled there, for the Pennsylvania Railroad, and sent to Pittsburgh on boats.

Inadequate transportation facilities diverted the iron business elsewhere, but it may be that with the building of additional locks and dams the dream of industrial greatness for the Allegheny will yet be realized.

Squaw Run Park

Huge Attendance at County Resorts Demonstrates Need of Additional Recreation Spot.

Two years ago a Chamber of Commerce committee submitted a report on a proposed water park and recreation center on Squaw Run at the point, near Aspinwall, where it debouches into the Allegheny River. The site was chosen only after the most careful investigation.

The park was to occupy about 115 acres, to have a large swimming pool and facilities for boating and aquatic sports, and it was estimated it would cost $1,300,000.

Little has been done of late to promote this project, yet the need steadily grows more pressing.

The need is demonstrated by the report of Paul B. Riis, director of county parks, that 13,000 persons crowded into the South Park swimming pool last Sunday and others were turned away.

The two county parks were crowded. A new one on Squaw Run would help relieve the congestion.

Social Value of Profits

Government Can Break Economic Deadlock by Launching Widespread Program of Public Works.

Popular prejudice against business profits leads to muddled economic thinking.

It was intensified by the feeling against war time profiteers, who were seeking to turn the troubles of a belligerent world to their own personal gains.

But in a money economy in peace time, profits constitute the driving force in business, which makes for widespread employment and trade activity.

The lack of profits, which are the lubricants of the economic machine, causes hesitation, stagnation and widespread idleness.

As soon as businessmen can see prospects of increasing profits they will need no outside compulsion to heighten their operations.

Meantime, with each private operator waiting for the other to take the initiative, there is an opportunity for the government to break the economic deadlock by embarking on a widespread program of public works, which will not only open up opportunities for employment of labor, but will also reveal new vistas of profit to business executives.

The puritanical disdain for profits, which are the tangible rewards for sound business leadership, tends only to muddy the waters.

It leads to hypocrisy and to fallacy.

Private enterprise cannot survive without reasonable average profits through the years.

The public, accordingly, should recognize the social utility of profits.

This does not mean tolerance for overreaching business owners. The wisest executives will not divert gains solely to the owners, but will divide them magnanimously with employes and customers.

In dealing with popular misconceptions of profits, the National City Bank, of New York, in its current thoughtful letter, points out: "One of the pretentious phrases of the agitation against the existing social order is that 'production should be for service and not for profit,' but all sound business is built upon two conditions, i. e., that useful service shall be rendered and that a proper compensation is not only legitimate but necessary to maintenance of service and the progress of industry. The development of industry, the great investments which have increased productivity, lowered prices and enlarged he list of comforts within reach of all the people, are natural ults of the system. Profits are not only justified as rewards and as an incentive to similar efforts, but supply necessary capital for the expansion of the industries to meet public demand."

If selfish and predatory interests overstep themselves in reaching out for profits, society can protect itself through astute use of the power of taxation.

So take the knife and cut the knot.

SCIENTIFIC UNCERTAINTY

By Archibald Henderson

One of the most extraordinary discoveries of very recent years, which is continuing to attract the keenest interest among physicists, is what is known as the uncertainty principle. It is a principle which arises as a logical and inevitable consequence of the new quantum mechanics. It has numerous applications, but one or two simple ones may be mentioned here. The uncertainty principle, which is based really upon the theory of probabilities, leaves one in doubt whether light is a particle or a wave. To take another illustration, we may know the position of an electron accurately but not its velocity with accuracy; and vice versa. The more accurately we know one of these quantities, the less accurately can we know the other.

A somewhat similar state of affairs developed in the early stages of the development of the theory of relativity. Einstein contributed to science the fundamental principle that if a thing is essentially unobservable then it is not a real thing and so we cannot include it in our theories and calculations. Thus he showed that so-called "absolute time" was of this nature; and this discovery constituted a starting point for the theory of relativity. Michelson, for example, tried to lay a trap, so to speak, to catch light off its guard! By "playing dead," as children say, or by "shamming stupid," the idea was to discover the absolute velocity of the earth through the suppositious luminiferous ether. But Nature was too clever for Michelson. The result amounted to nothing; it was just as if no experiment had been made. Nature was too sharp for Michelson.

It is a singular circumstance that the electron acts much like the light ray in the Michelson-Morley experiment. Every experiment, however ingenious, which has been devised to determine whether an electron is wave or particle has failed. The electron seems to act with intelligence pitted against man's intelligence. It cannot be caught napping. The electron avoids the trap set for it every time. Thus we have what is known as the uncertainty principle.

Prof. Charles G. Darwin, of the University of Edinburgh, suggests that there is a sort of analogy here with the objective world of sensation. We hear a note struck on the piano and recognize it as "middle C;" yet it actually vibrates at the rate of 256 times a second. We hear "middle C" without associating it with anything that happens 256 times. The wave aspect may be analogous to the objective world, the particle to the subjective.

This new principle of uncertainty is at variance with that law we have always considered fundamental and unshakable: the principle of casuality. We have always believed hitherto that if we knew everything about the present, we could confidently predict the future. We are led then to the conclusion that the present, in its entirety, is definitely unknowable. According to the new principle of uncertainty, we cannot say what will happen to a single electron, but we can confidently estimate the probabilities.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

A rock must be worth while.
It takes aeons to make rocks.
And to make rocks different.
Earthquake and fire,
Icecap and flood,
All these it took to make
Marble, obsidian,
Granite and quartz.
All that work to make rocks,
All that skill to preserve
The difference in rocks,
Rocks must be worth while.
A tree must be worth while.
Aeons, also, in turn slime
Into white birches,
Sycamore, pine.
All that work to make trees,
All that skill to preserve
The difference in trees,
Trees must be worth while.
A bird must be worth while.
Think how birds came—
From web-legged lizard
To bright, winged song
Of blue bird and wood thrush,
And kildee and lark.
All that work to make birds,
All that skill to preserve
The difference in birds—
A bird must be worth while.
Then is man, alone,
Not worth while?
It has taken as long to develop
The individuality of men,
As to develop the individuality
Of trees and rocks and birds—
But are these lesser forms
To be saved.
And a man's personality
Obliterated?
Will Life work fifty million years
To preserve the pattern
Of a gnat's wing,
And discard the pattern
Of a man's spirit
After 50?
"But trees and gnats and birds,
"Are species," you say—
"Only species persist."
Yet, marvelously,
Each man is also a species,
A separate development,
As different from all other men,
As elms are different from oaks,
Or hawks from wrens,
Or coal from crystals.
He is of the human breed,
As trees are of the vegetable breed,
But he is also himself,
As a willow is itself—
If willows go on,
Why shouldn't you and I?
All this work to make men,
To make different men,
To make you and me,
With our separate
And distinct responsibilities—
With our varied capacity for work
And love and thought and dreams—
All this work
To make us worth while—
And now will Life
Break the pattern,
Quench the flame,
Blot us into mud again,
Waste aeons of efforts
Because we neglect
A cold in the head?
I DON'T BELIEVE IT!

This Year's Girl

She's a Girl of Common Sense.

At first glance, you wonder whether this is a "boyish girl," or a "girlish boy."

It is in fact a substantial British girl, enjoying her holiday at Ramsgate, along with thousands of other British boys and girls.

This is not one of the so-called "aristocrats," whose photographs usually find their way into the newspapers.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE OF AN ENGLISH GIRL? NOTHING AT ALL.

The young girl above, with her gray flannel trousers, knitted sweater, rough leather belt and earnest expression, belongs to the great English "middle class."

It is possible that she drops her H's, probable that she works for her living. She wants to be comfortable, and she IS comfortable.

How far will this habit spread?

Are we on the way to discard skirts, which really date back to the old harem days, when women were kept prisoners, to amuse their lords and masters, and skirts were suited to their environment and occupation?

Already yo ge the dreadful, highly colo ed pajama taking the place of skirts.

You see sensible old and young women, that dust out railroad cars, wearing knickerbockers, instead of dragging home a lot of dust on long skirts.

Your daughters, perhaps, come home from boarding school, and strike you almost blind with little "sailor pantaloons," outrageously tight at the hips, foolishly wide at the ankles. For all you know, you may live to see your grandmother in plus fours. Thousands of grandmothers now wear them.

And what is the harm? What could be more modest than this costume? Isn't it better than a short skirt, that blows up over the lady's waist occasionally, showing the sharp points of knees at ALL times?

This costume, if carried too far, would seem to be a menace to the "cloak and suit trade." But the cloak and suit trade need not worry. It can safely rely upon the daughters of Eve always to want something NEW, something DIFFERENT.

The French say: "Souvent femme varie," which means "Often woman changes." It would be more accurate to say ALWAYS woman changes.

The fashionable and rich start a new fashion. The middle class and then the lower classes (so-called) imitate it. Then the fashionable rich become disgusted with it, and try something else. The more modest classes try that, and so it goes.

We say that this costume represents COMMON SENSE, and common sense will prevail.

ON THE ATLANTIC

By O. O. McIntyre

AT SEA, July 16.—There is dust in mid-ocean and I hasten to add I have touched nothing stronger than Evian. This morning I discovered a thin wind whorled layer on my typewriter and other articles in the cabin. It drifts from volcanic eruptions and often settles on various stretches of the sea.

So for lack of something to do I went in for a round of dusting. I rub a mean rag on smooth surfaces, too. Tonight is gala night and I expect to be one of the old fools who will wear a paper cap and sit at a table all evening holding aloft a red, toy balloon.

It is odd how a sea voyage changes one's routine. You do things aboard ship you would never think of doing elsewhere. For instance, for years I have eaten but two meals a day—breakfast and dinner. But here I go in for breakfast, 10 o'clock bouillon, lunch, 5 o'clock tea and cakes and late dinner.

More familiar faces begin to appear as the vessel nears the other side. John Anderson, the dramatic critic, waved from a deck chair today. Henry McBride, the art critic, is also a passenger. Then there are those strange creatures who appear only around dusk. It is like lifting an old log.

Here a withered marquis, there a tottering countess and over yonder an ashen-faced fellow with a witch-like shock of hair. They crawl once or twice slowly around the promenade and vanish. Seldom are they seen save for these brief constitutionals.

I notice in the ship's daily that all bridge activities are under the auspices of Lenz, Inc. And that on the morrow Gratz M. Scott, Esq., President of the Cavendish Club, will discuss the hands that were played today in the Duplicate Bridge Tournament. Bridge is the favorite game of the majority.

The captain varies his dinner guests nightly. My wife and I are on his list tonight along with Mrs. Ray Long, Mrs. Conde Nast, Gloria Swanson, Edna Ferber, Gertrude Lawrence and two others whose names I did not catch from the bowing courier who called at the cabin with the summons. Or is it a command?

* * *

Edna Ferber loaned me a book yesterday which kept me awake half the night. It is titled "Sanctuary" and opens with this thrilling situation. The men meet at a spring in the forest. One keeps the other there at a pistol point for two hours and always you expect something to happen but not much does. And I needed sleep.

* * *

There are on board five titles, one senator, one judge, one congressman, one colonel, three captains and to my certain knowledge two international gigolos.

* * *

I am told that the ocean "greyhounds"—professional gamblers—are along with the rest of us facing a depression. Many of the trans-Atlantic sharks have shifted to the Pacific in the hope of better opportunities. Few passengers will gamble for high stakes these perilous times.

* * *

And the auction pool nightly on this ship brings only a handful. There are few bids above four pounds and last night the auctioneer threatened to quit in disgust if interest did not quicken. During the boom days I have seen a night's pool reach $10,000. Last night it was less than $500.

* * *

Dropping into the smoking room after 14 turns on the promenade I sank down in a deep cushioned chair. Next to me was a man with the largest hands I ever saw and I noticed the one nearest me was haired over with thick reddish fuzz. I thought of a gorilla and slipped off into a light nap. It was probably no more than a minute but I was chased through jungle after jungle by an army of chattering baboons.

* * *

I have seen three young flapper types lifting lorgnettes and if not due to nearsightedness is certainly a silly bit of swank. By tomorrow I'll be even more cranky.

* * *

This piece sounds unusually goofy. First dust on the ocean and just now in the trunk room something buzzed out which I swear was a bumble bee. I'm afraid to look under the bed for fear I'll see a partridge or something.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

In Tune

How wise are they who find a way
To keep their lives in tune
With lilting messages of May,
With songs of sunny June!

For, be the weather what it will,
Dark tempest clouds or snow,
Brave spirits do not fear the chill
Of any winds that blow.

They know there is an inner force
More potent far than these;
They turn to the unfailing source
Of clearest harmonies.

Always they hear within their hearts
Sweet whisperings of spring;
Always a hidden voice imparts
Its happy murmuring.

Let sullen Winter storm and rage
They heed no sombre rune;
But only hear, from youth to age,
The songs of sunny June.

A careful canvass of the twin situation in Pittsburgh, due to reports that there was a bumper crop this year, has demonstrated that fewer twins are arriving in 1931 than in 1930.

Obstetricians at only two of Pittsburgh's hospitals declare more twins are being born this year than last year. At the Montefiore from January to June, 1931, three sets were born, as compared to one set in the corresponding period of 1930. At the Columbia, one set was born from January to July, 1930, and five sets were born in the same period in 1931.

The Magee Hospital reports 28 sets of twins and two sets of triplets from April 1, 1929 to April 1, 1930. In the same period from 1930 to 1931 only 24 sets of twins and no triplets were reported.

The Allegheny General and Pittsburgh hospitals each had six sets of twins from May, 1929, to 1930 and the same number in the corresponding period from 1930 to 1931.

Mercy Hospital records disclose seven sets of twins in 1929, six sets in 1930 and three sets to date in 1931. The Passavant reports two sets this year and the same number last year.

The Rosella had none this year, and two sets last year. The West Penn also reports a falling off in the number of twins this year.

Weather Forecast System Explained

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(INS.)—You can get an idea of what a summer's temperature is likely to be if you study the temperature figures for the five months from January to May, inclusive. So Henry E. Hathaway, meteorologist in the Federal Weather Bureau office here, calculates that Connecticut at least is to have an abnormally hot summer. Hathaway took records dating back to 1778 to make his forecast, and found that the idea held good in all but one year out of 153. If the average temperature from January to May is above normal, the summer will run above normal also.

Steam railways showed signs of being hit in the last year, paying a tax on net earnings that is $250,000 less than in the previous year. Bus lines and power companies showed some gains, their total taxes increasing about $23,000 in a year.

Treatments Offered Poison Ivy Victims

Short Story -:- -:- -:- Telling the Mayor

By JACK WOODFORD

Barney Malloy was the most unsentimental newspaperman in town. Nobody had ever detected him in the exhibition of a sentimental moment. For years he had been the star reporter for the Clarion, declining any and all offers of inside positions in order to remain a reporter.

But of late years news had not been so easy to get as it had been in the past. There was the vigorous competition of the other papers, of the large news associations, of even weekly publications that had practically entered the field of journalism. He had just had a talk from his city editor which left him wroth. His city editor said:

"Listen, Barney, you haven't brought in a scoop for a month; you're the highest paid man on the staff. Go out and get something to plug up a bad week for news. That's orders, plain."

"What do you think I'm going to do?" Barney growled at him, "manufacture news for you?"

"Sure," the city editor told him, out of the corner of his mouth. Barney glared. He left the office and went over to the city hall . . . But everything, he knew, that could be investigated in the city hall, had been investigated; the honor and integrity of everyone in it had been duly impugned and investigated . . . there were no more thrills to be had until a new administration came in. Nevertheless, Barney went to the mayor's office. He was ushered in, as usual, by a pretty blond girl who had been with Mayor Treadwell ever since the beginning of his administration. His news mind automatically functioned a little as he looked at the girl. She was, he knew, paradoxically enough, as efficient as she was beautiful. She came, he knew, of an excellent but impoverished local family.

He went in to see the mayor. The mayor was young, handsome, single. Barney's news sense faintly stirred again. He was going to ask the mayor to manufacture some news for him when, instead, a bright and almost blinding flash bursting in his brain he said:

"Listen, Your Honor, you might be a good Mayor, but you're a bum psychologist. Don't you know you got to fight for re-election pretty soon? Don't you know that, whether they say so or not, a lot of women voters don't like the idea of bachelors. Why don't you get married?"

"What!" the mayor said, aghast, "get married just to hold on to—say! Do you think I'd treat any woman like that."

"I repeat you're a bum psychologist," Barney urged. "You been in love for a long time—only you don't know it. You been having trouble with your indigestion. You have nervous spells. You aren't in good health. . . . Know why? Because you're so darn busy you haven't even got the time to recognize the fact that you're in love."

"Indeed," said the mayor, sarcastically, "and with whom, may I ask?"

"Why, with your secretary, of course; who else? Who is it makes the office pretty for you with curtains and flowers? Who is it that makes you kind of glad to get down to work in the morning, because you're going to see something pretty that you like? Do you think you could buy with a salary, the devoted work of that girl out there? You're crazy man, not to realize you're in love. If you don't believe it, just stop and think what would happen if you came down some morning and she wasn't there to make everything run smoothly and to make you happy. You're so blind you won't see . . . that's all!" The young mayor turned pale and grasped the arms of his chair.

Outside Barney stopped for a minute at the desk of the mayor's secretary.

"Girlie," he growled; "you ought to quit this job before the mayor goes nuts. He's so crazy about you he can't work any more—and for some fool reason he's afraid to tell you so; probably because he thinks you'd turn him down, he being from a humble family, and you from one of the finest in the state."

Barney went toward the door. But instead of passing down the hall he peeked back. Grinned. Back in the city room he handed in a story of the mayor's engagement.

"That scoops every paper in town," he told the city editor laconically.

"Good Lord!" the city editor gasped; "I can't run that without confirming it." Barney was a trifle pale as the city editor 'phoned the mayor for confirmation.

"The mayor confirms," beamed the city editor, hanging up the 'phone. Barney sighed with relief.

"The darn fools," he growled, and went to a water cooler for a drink.

Youthful Golfer Gets Rabbit In One

EATON, Col.—(INS.)—Bobby Cooper, 10-year-old son of George Cooper, basketball coach at Colorado Teachers' College at Greeley, swings a mean golf club.

In a recent match on the Eaton Country Club course, Bobby and his father were paired against Sig Johnston, Greeley High School coach, and Greeley Timothy, Leadville (Colo.) coach. Teeing off from the fifth hole, Bobby knocked his ball down the fairway about a hundred yards. The ball bounced once and hit a rabbit, dropping the bunny in its tracks, dead.

M'TIERNAN-BELMONT MELEE LOOMS AS GRUDGE BATTLE

BOXERS BITTER RIVALS FOR YEARS

Pick Meyers Bowl as Scene; Call Boxing Commission To Settle New Grievances

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

The Braddock Bowl—otherwise known as the Meyers Bowl—is to have its own "Battle of the Century," a neighborhood brawl between Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, and Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, terminating a feud that dates back to their days as amateur boxers.

It is scheduled for next Monday night. After days of quibbling, in which boxing commission was finally forced to step in and settle all arguments, it has engendered so much interest that the first sellout of a rather lean season is in prospect for the arena, which has a seating capacity of approximately 8,000.

A feature of this battle will be the fact that neither of the principals has been winning lately, yet interest in their meeting is at fever heat and the show takes on all of the trappings of a championship affair.

RIVALRY INTENSE

McTiernan is managed by Peter J. (Bunny) Buntach, who formerly managed Belmont, who now is being piloted by Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion of the world. The rivalry is intense between them, with McTiernan and Belmont having been at loggerheads for more than a year, and their friends taking sides and urging the meeting in the ring. Throughout the Braddock and Swissvale district talk of this match has been the uppermost sporting topic for months, and the gathering of the clans will be the most partisan gathering this section has known since the days of the Jack Zivic-Cuddy DeMarco feud.

Because of McTiernan's recent defeats by Ignacio Ara, Donald Fagg and Ted Yarosz, Belmont has been installed the favorite in the early betting. In between these battles Buck really defeated Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion, in the Bowl, but the decision was rendered against him. He has not shown his old-time brilliancy in any of these battles, and it is on this basis that support has shifted in favor of his opponent.

CALL COMMISSION

The Boxing Commission became an unwilling factor in the ballyhoo for the match when the Bowl management tried to reduce McTiernan's percentage for the bout, following his defeat by Yarosz a week ago at Hickey Park, Millvale. Manager Buntach refused to stand for a cut, and the commission was called upon to effect a settlement. Following two conferences, Dr. W. D. McClelland, the new commissioner, ordered the bout to stand as arranged, saying he believed the fans wanted it and that it would return a fair, if not good, profit to the promoters.

FANS WATCHING NEW PLAYERS

With the first-half championship of the City League leaving the East End for the first time in a number of years, fans following the fortunes of Homewood and the J. L. Thomas club, of Bloomfield, East End contestants in the City loop, are eagerly watching the opening games in the second-half battles this week, to get a line on the new material acquired by Managers Hank Daly and Ray Kennedy.

Since Homewood found itself nosed out by Dormont in the final game of the first-half championship, the fans have been wondering just how Capt. Heinie Boll and Manager Daly would meet the situation.

PEARSON OUT

Homewood has been winning titles so long that it seems odd to see Homewood playing second fiddle. But Dormont had a better club.

The first blow Daly received in the second half was yesterday, when Johnny Pearson, the Homestead policeman, went on the sick list for the remainder of the season. Pearson is a hard hitter, good outfielder, and can take his turn on the mound. He is going to be missed.

Johnny Cholko, of McKees Rocks, has been signed, and East End fans will like the hard-fighting Rox boy. Then George Lees will be behind the bat, since Bierworth and Henderson have been let out.

THOMAS STRONGER

Lees, when with Bellevue and Green Cab in the olden days, was classed as the smartest catcher in the district.

J. L. Thomas will have Gruber, formerly of the North Side Buicks, behind the bat in place of Eddie Ritter. Whether this will strengthen the club remains to be seen. Ritter is a good, hard-working catcher. Mervosh will play short, with Balquist covering second. Johnny Mitchell, with the best arm in the league, will be stationed at third. Porco on first will please the fans. Sammy Leon will be back, and, should Sammy get in shape, Thomas will be keen contenders to meet Dormont in the post-season games.

Edgewood Club Set To Repeat Victories

With the Edgewood club, under the leadership of Wally Pickett, walking away with the first-half championship of the Greater Pittsburgh League, fans following the fortunes of Whitaker, Jenkins, Immaculate Heart, Wilkinsburg, Murs, North Bessemer and Iroquois are wondering whether the second-half race is going to be just as one-sided as the first.

Never before in the history of sandlot sport has a club made such a walkaway in first-class baseball. Winning 17 games in a row was probably a record, and it showed the strength of the Edgewood club, but it also wrecked a good race.

But now there is more than a probability that Wally Pickett will lose a number of his stars.

Garback has signed with Book Shoe in the second-half races, and this might be a forerunner of other migrations.

18-Room School In Wilmerding Suggested

The State Department of Education has recommended the abandonment of an eight-room school and the erection of an 18-room building in its place, to the Wilmerding school board. The school condemned by the state organization is the Horrocks School in Marguerite avenue.

The state department is of the opinion that the cost of reconditioning the building would be so great that it would pay the school board to erect a new building.

HOMESTEADERS IN SWIM MEET

Two Homestead district girls will compete in the National A. A. U. championships in New York this weekend. They are Lenore Kight, of the Homestead Library A. C., who has starred in recent events, and Mae Cutnell, formerly of the Homestead club, now swimming unattached.

WEST PENN SWINGS INTO LAST HALF

League Is Only One Catering To East End Clubs; Fast Ball Promised for Windup

By TOM BIRKS

As the second half of the West Penn League swings into action this week sandlot fans in the East End of the city are naturally interested in the makeup of the clubs in their section that will probably dominate what is classed as the best semi-pro loop outside of the city.

With Turtle Creek, Homestead Aces, Swissvale Community, Linwood, Marty Griffins, St. Joachims and the Martin club, of Garfield, all from the East End, Reliance Life is the only club not native to the East End district. But as the insurance boys are playing their home games at Homewood Playgrounds, the West Penn can be classed as the only league outside of the city limits catering entirely to East End clubs.

At the present time the first-half is not settled, although the second half is under way. Next Tuesday, at Langley High School field, Reliance and the Homestead Aces will tangle in the championship tilt. Should the Aces win, the race is over, but should Reliance cop, then a post-season game between the clubs will have to be played.

With all of the clubs much strengthened, it would appear that an open race faces the fans in the second half. Swissvale is being named by the critics to cop the flag, but these boys are going to get keen competition from the other clubs. Pitching is going to win the second half of the loop.

Manager Mike Kudrau announced that Moultrie Park will be in shape in a couple of days for the St. Joachim home games. He has received this assurance from the Bureau of Recreation.

Swissvale, Turtle Creek and Homestead are playing to wonderful crowds, and these three clubs are breaking all records for attendance at home games.

$1 Gifts Sought For Swissvale Jobless

Swissvale residents are being asked to help the unemployed of the borough by contributing $1 each to the Philanthropic Society of Swissvale, which has been spending $500 a month to relieve suffering, according to its president, Mrs. Carl D. Smith.

No members of the society receives payement for his work, Mrs. Smith said in making her appeal for funds. She explained:

"We have spent an average of $500 a month since October, 1930. This has almost exhausted our treasury."

GORNICK SHOWS MUCH PROMISE

Marty Gornick, promising young lightweight boxer, of Whitaker, who promises to be boxing main bouts before the end of the outdoor season, continues to make fine progress in his chosen profession. Appearing in his first out-of-town feature bout last Monday night in Dayton, O., he knocked out Joey Lawrence, of Dayton, in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round battle.

Gornick, a pleasing combination of boxer and puncher, left-handed his opponent groggy in the first few rounds and then finished the battle with a right to the jaw.
